MORE CANDIDATES FOR OFFICE

Took Out Their Papers for Municipal Council and the School Committee Today

More candidates for the municipal council and school board took out their papers at the city clerk's office today. The new candidates for the municipal council include Harvey B. Greene and Charles H. Hobson. They did not put in an appearance at the city hall until after the noon hour. The candidates have until 5 o'clock this evening to file their papers and only a few had filed up to 3 o'clock. Royal K. Dexter took out papers a day or two ago, but he has withdrawn from the contest. He notified the city clerk this forenoon that he had withdrawn. Mr. Dexter is a former alderman. He was a candidate for the municipal council last year and was the tenth man on the ticket. John McManus has withdrawn from the school board contest. The candidates for the municipal council besides the two commissioners, Messrs. Brown and Donnelly, whose terms expire this year, are: Harvey E. Greene, whose home is at 73 Marlborough street. Mr. Greene is pretty well known to the people of Lowell. His business is that of florist. He is associated with the board of trade and a former president of the board. He is also a former chairman of the park commission and is a member of the Huntington hall commission. Mr. Greene has been an ardent supporter of the new charter since the beginning and has advocated it at home and abroad.

Charles H. Hobson is treasurer of the H. R. Barker Mfg. Co., and also treasurer of the Lawler Damper Regulating Co., of New York. His home is at 164 Holyrood avenue. He was a candidate for the municipal council last year and received a big vote.

Smith J. Adams is in the wall paper business. He is a former alderman and lives at 9 Stevens street.

Hercules Toupin is also a former alderman and was a candidate last year. He is a druggist and lives at 320 Hildreth street.

Charles J. Morse is a former superintendent of streets and is well known throughout the city.

Jeremiah J. Connors is another ex-alderman. He was the lone democratic alderman the year that Geo. H. Brown was mayor. He is also a former member of the common council.

James J. Gallagher is a fruit dealer with a store in Merrimack street near Dutton street. He is a former alderman and president of the Mathew Temperance Institute.

John W. Daly is a former alderman and well known to the voters of Lowell. Mr. Daly has already started a campaign of outdoor speechmaking, and it is believed that this practice will be quite liberally indulged in.

Daniel T. Fitzgerald belongs in Lowell but is employed in Lawrence. He was in business in this city some years ago.

George E. Burns is connected with the Wilson Coal Co. He is a well known singer and a former alderman. He lives at 61 Eighteenth street.

School Board Candidates

Now we will pass on to the school board condidates and see who's who. The first on the list will be two of the three present incumbents whose terms expire this year, Dr. O'Connor and Mr. McKenzie. Mr. Rogers' term expires this year, but he has been elected to congress and the best he can do is to wish the board luck in the years to come. Other candidates for the board include Joseph Harvey, plumber, 863 Moody street.

Abel Campbell, real estate, Harris avenue.

Perry D. Thompson is a lumber dealer and lives at 185 Andover street. Mr. Perry owns the old Dix farm in East Chelmsford. He is the son of the late A. G. Thompson, former postmaster.

Wilfred P. C. Caisse, jr., whose papers were filed late today, is a druggist and lives at 773 Merrimack street.

The directory gives Harry L. Downs' employment as that of moulder and his home address is 591 Bridge street.

Registration Very Light

The total registration for the week or up to last night at least, did not reach the century mark. Ninety new names were added to the list and 43 of the 90 were women. The total registration for yesterday was 57, 29 males and 28 females. Registration will be continued this afternoon and evening from 7 to 9. There will be registration Monday from 1 to 3 and 7 to 9 p. m. Tuesday will be the last day of registration for the preliminary election and the hours for registration on that day will be from 1 to 9 p. m. continuously.

Recounts Monday Morning

The recounts petitioned for will begin Monday morning at 8 o'clock and those acquainted with the situation believe that the recount will put Henry J. Draper, democratic candidate for senator, ahead of Erson B. Barlow, the republican candidate. The original count gave Barlow the advantage but on the very narrow margin of eight votes. It is believed that Mr. Draper was defeated by the bungling count in precinct 3 of ward 2. This precinct is very substantially democratic and it is figured that in view of that fact the democrat would be the one least liable to lose because of the pied count.

Petitions for a recount of the vote for various state officers were filed with the city clerk at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The offices for which the votes are to be recounted are state auditor, state attorney general, state treasurer, and member of the governor's council. The petitions were filed by wards, every ward being represented except ward 8, which for some unknown reason was not represented.

TWO FORTS GUARDING THE CITY FALL INTO HANDS OF BESIEGERS

Greater Danger Than Balkan War Now Threatens Europe—The Powers Are Divided Into Two Distinct Camps

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The latest developments brought about by the surrender of the great fortress of Saloniki with its garrison of 25,000 men leaves only three centers, Scutari, Monastir, and Janina in the western field of operations in the hands of the Turks while in the eastern theatre of war two of the forts guarding Arianople have fallen into the hands of the Bulgarian besiegers and another Bulgarian army is actually behind the eastern end of the Tchatalja lines outside Constantinople. The Servians and Greeks at the same time are marching victoriously through Macedonia and Albania.

A greater danger than the Balkan war, however, now threatens Europe. The powers forming the Triple Alliance (Germany, Austria-Hungary and Italy) and those composing the Triple Entente (France, Great Britain and Russia) are divided into two distinct camps as to the policy to be followed when peace between Turkey and the Balkan allies has been brought about.

Absolutely ignoring the threat of Austria-Hungary that she will not tolerate the Servian occupation of Albania or of a port on the Adriatic sea, the armies of King Peter continue their advance through the country which they have been practically ordered to keep out of. They are also making their way to the Adriatic coast which can have only one object in view, namely the seizure of one or more ports.

KARTALTPE AND PAPAZTEPE TAKEN AFTER DESPERATE ARTILLERY DUEL

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 9.—The Bulgarian army besieging Adrianople, today captured Kartaltpe and Papaztepe, two of the outer line of forts defending the city. They were taken after a desperate artillery duel between the besiegers and defenders. The Bulgarian troops suffered a large number of casualties.

BALKAN NATIVES OPPOSED TO MAKING ALBANIA AN AUTONOMOUS STATE

BELGRADE, Servia, Nov. 9.—"The league of the Balkan nations is utterly opposed to making Albania an autonomous state as desired by Germany, Austro-Hungary and Italy," said Premier Jashitch of Servia, in the course of an interview here today.

The premier laid emphasis on the

HIGH SCHOOL ELEVEN

Met the South Boston Team Today

This afternoon South Boston is the opponent of the Lowell high eleven on the Washington park gridiron and according to all indications, the boys are going to be seen in action by a large gathering of spectators. The opinion of the majority of the fans seems to be that this game will result in another scalp for Coach Mahoney's braves who thus far are enjoying a season of marked success.

Two of Greater Boston's representative football performers have already been sent home with a goose egg after a humiliation at the hands of Captain Cawley and his men, and the Spindle City school is determined to use the visitors of today in the same merciless manner.

The contest next Friday afternoon against Lawrence academy which was recently arranged, bids fair to be one of the best and hardest fought struggles that Lowell people will have an opportunity of witnessing this season. With the exception of Manchester and Lawrence, Lowell High has lined up against comparatively easy and light teams and the management has decided that it will be to their advantage to meet a heavier and fast aggregation before the great contest against the Haverhill champs. Result: the Lawrence academy exhibition. If the Groton players fall a victim to the locals, "Our Boys" will be well in line for the title.

TO BUILD TEN STORY HOTEL

Report That Structure Will Be Erected on the Site of the Grosvenor Building

Report has it that arrangements are being made for the erection of a ten-story hotel on the Parker estate, corner of Merrimack square and Bridge street. This is the building in which is located the waiting room and street railway offices. It is said that the building will be of brick and modern in every respect.

The first inkling of any such proposition came with the putting in of the water service in the new Sun building. While these connections were put in, Commissioner Barrett was approached by parties representing the Parker estate and was requested to supply that estate with similar connections. This request was complied with and the connections were installed.

Mr. Barrett allowed it was a good proposition to put them in at that time rather than to wait until spring, when, he understood, changes were to be made in the present building. "I did not hear that a ten-story hotel was contemplated but it was suggested that changes would be made in the spring," said Mr. Barrett.

"The suggestion to install the connections appealed to me inasmuch as the excavation had been already made and to put them in while everything was in readiness would obviate the necessity of reopening the street in the spring. I know that changes are contemplated there, but I do not know just how extensive they may be. The service, however, will accommodate a ten story building.

THIS IS FIRE PREVENTION DAY

District Chief Sullivan Addressed the Pupils of the Moody School Today

Today is the 40th anniversary of the great conflagration in Boston and in order to impress upon the minds of the citizens the desirability of disposing of all useless rubbish to assist in reducing the fire hazard, and such a fire as that which occurred 40 years ago today in the Hub, Gov. Eugene N. Foss has set this day for this purpose, and accordingly set a proclamation all over the state calling upon every citizen to co-operate in reducing the fire hazard by clearing away all rubbish, and preparing it for collection by city or town authorities.

The Lowell board of trade favoring this movement sent a request to all the local citizens to co-operate with the local health department during the coming week, beginning today, and clean up their yards, attics and cellars as well as any other place which may contain rubbish, and which when cleared greatly reduce the danger of fire.

The city is divided into six districts and the health department rubbish carts will take away the collection on the usual days, but the department will see that everything in the line of rubbish will be carted away in due time. The districts and the days the collection is made are as follows:

Monday: Market street and vicinity.
Tuesday: West Centralville.
Wednesday: From the Washington Tavern to and including Lawrence street, that section known as the "Flats," and the Fair Grounds section.
Thursday: The Highlands and Middlesex street as far as South and Gorham streets.
Saturday: Belvidere.

However, the residents of this city are notified that there is material which cannot be taken away by the health department as is stated in rule 2 of the rules and regulations of the health department, which read as follows:

"Ashes and house dirt kept for removal by the health department shall not be mixed with swill, or with mortar, brick, gravel or stone, and shall be kept in suitable vessels which shall be placed on the outside edge of the sidewalk upon such days as the collections are made in each ward. After collection the empty vessels or barrels shall be taken care of by the owners. All waste material of building construction or repair, trade or manufacturing refuse, garden sweepings or cuttings, must be removed by the owner at his own expense."

Agent Bates of the board of health stated this morning that all the refuse placed in proper vessels on the edge of the sidewalks shall be removed during the coming week, no matter how large the quantity may be, providing it is material the health department can handle.

Now it is easy for everyone to know what day the district clean-up is supposed to be complete and it is to hoped that all the alleyways in certain parts of the city will undergo a general cleaning which will mean a lot of prevention fires and also diseases.

Principal Green of the Moody school thinking it would be a wise move to instruct the pupils of his school as to fire prevention, etc., yesterday invited District Chief James Sullivan to give a brief lecture before the children, and Mr. Sullivan cheerfully agreed to do this and late in the afternoon the children gathered in the upper hall of the school and the district chief's lecture which was listened to with great interest was in part as follows:

"I came here this afternoon on the invitation of Mr. Green to say a few words to the girls and boys about the prevention of fires. Now, of course you all know that the governor of the state has designated the ninth day of November as "Fire Prevention Day," and it is the desire of the officials that we impress on the minds of the children and in fact of all the people the great necessity of doing all we can to reduce the great loss that we have each year by fire. The average loss in this state alone is about $9,000,000 a year, to say nothing of the loss of life; and in a great many cases those fires occur through carelessness.

"The ninth day of November is the 40th anniversary of one of the greatest fires that we ever had in this country, the great Boston fire of 1872. It has been estimated that ten millions acres of forest are burned annually at a loss of $20,000,000. Nine out of every ten of these fires could be prevented by using a little care. There has been a fire hazard commission appointed in this state and its members have made a number of recommendations which we think are very good and of which I am going to speak to you this afternoon."

The speaker then went along and gave several important hits of advice, which were as follows:

Know the location of the fire alarm box nearest your house; also learn how to send in an alarm of fire from the box.

There are two kinds of fire alarm boxes, the keyless and the box that opens with a key.

In case of fire keep cool, run to the box and pull the alarm.

Never pull in a false alarm of fire.

Be careful how you use matches; use only safety matches and keep them in metal holders. Don't light them in closets where light clothing or other inflammable material is hung; don't light them near lace curtains.

In lighting a fire in a stove never use kerosene oil in order to make it light quickly. Keep all light material, such as cotton, muslin or lace away from stoves and lighted gas jets. If you know of any place in your neighborhood where quantities of rubbish, shavings or paper have been allowed to accumulate notify a policeman or a fireman, also notify them if you know of any obstructions on a fire escape. If your clothing catches fire do not run, lie down and roll yourself in a blanket or rug to smother the fire. Learn where the exits are and the fire escapes in your building or school and do not forget about your fire drill. Do not put hot ashes in a wooden box or barrel, a metal barrel is the proper thing.

Don't drop a lighted match in any place where it can ignite leaves or other dry material. If you build a fire of leaves in your yard or for a picnic, or to prepare food while in the woods, don't leave it burning but stamp it out or otherwise extinguish it.

If you should see a man carelessly throw a lighted cigar stub into a place where it might ignite make it your business to see that it is stamped out because by so doing you might prevent a great fire. These are the principal precautions that should be observed.

TESTIMONY OF THE MILLWORKERS

At Trial of Ettor, Giovannitti and Caruso May Be Concluded Today

SALEM, Nov. 9.—Counsel for the defense in the Ettor, Giovannitti and Caruso murder trial planned to conclude if possible today the taking of testimony of mill workers who took part in the events of the Lawrence textile strike at its inception. Though many witnesses have been summoned to testify relating to the calling of the strike, the incidents of the parade and speeches of the leading defendants, many of them may be eliminated as their stories would only add to the corroboration which already has been piled up.

Testimony relating to the operations to the police, the militia, mill owners and officials will next be inquired into.

An effort to establish an alibi for Joseph Caruso, co-defendant with Jos. J. Ettor and Arturo Giovannitti on trial here for the murder of Anna Lopizzo in the Lawrence textile strike last winter was begun here by his attorneys today.

Antonio Bartola, Caruso's landlord, called as a witness for the defense, testified that he visited Caruso's tenement on the evening of Jan. 29 when Anna Lopizzo was killed and found Caruso there eating supper with his wife and his godfather, Salvatore Buonacosso.

The commonwealth has sought to prove that Caruso was present in the crowd of strikers in the fatal riot at Union and Garden streets. The shooting occurred there a few minutes before 5:30 o'clock.

THE PROGRESSIVE PARTY

Refuses to Unite With the Republicans

BROCKTON, Nov. 9.—The agitation for a fusion of the republican and progressive forces in an effort to defeat the democrats in the municipal election came to an end last night when a mass meeting of progressives unanimously voted not to fuse, but on the other hand to enter a complete ticket for the city election.

While the progressives were discussing the plan first suggested by Alderman Bragdon, who, up to yesterday, was a candidate for the republican nomination for mayor, the republican city committee was in session 25 feet away, waiting for a favorable response to their overtures.

The republicans, through messengers which ditted from one meeting to another, learned that the progressives refused to be tamed. When the news finally reached the republicans that the progressives had voted to stand by their guns and fight the republicans as well as the democrats and all other parties, the republicans adjourned, as there was nothing for them to do.

Four members of the republican city committee, Alderman Charles S. Bragdon, ex-City Solicitor William G. Rowe, Herbert A. Boyden and Adelard Ledoux, resigned from the committee and will probably join the progressive movement.

After leaving the republican headquarters Alderman Bragdon went over to the progressives meeting and enrolled himself as a bull moose. The alderman yesterday resigned as a candidate for the republican nomination for mayor. He says he is not a candidate for the progressive nomination, but will accept it if it is tendered him.

The meeting of the progressives was the first held since the state election. It was voted to hold caucuses next Thursday evening. Women, whether registered or not, will be allowed to vote. When the question of a fusion ticket was take up, Eldon B. Keith, the party candidate for state treasurer, favored it, but all the other speakers were against it, and the motion to place a complete ticket in the field was passed without a dissenting voice.

Killed by Automobile

LEWISTON, Me., Nov. 9.—The coroner's inquest into the death of Jean Cliche, who was killed by an automobile at the corner of Main and Lisbon streets last week, was completed last evening. The testimony was conflicting and the jury made no effort to determine the blame for the accident, simply returning a verdict that he came to his death by being run over by an automobile driven by Arthur E. Walker.

Arrested in Fitchburg

FITCHBURG, Nov. 9.—Joseph Pinard was locked up at the Central police station last night, charged with larceny. It is claimed that Pinard, two years ago, stole a mattress from the house of Theophile Calsse and later cut it into pieces and stuffed it down a chimney in a house occupied by Joseph Boudreau, a fire resulting.

It is claimed that after the fire Pinard disappeared from the city and did not return until yesterday.

LAW HAS A NEW SCHEME

The Latest Plan to Toy With Death

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Frederick R. Law, steeplejack and parachute jumper, has devised a new method of trifling with death. He is preparing to ascend in a balloon and when at a height of 500 feet or so explode two bombs, each containing 50 or 60 pounds of dynamite, his idea being that the explosive would destroy the balloon and let him drop to the ground. He is only waiting for a good day to make the experiment.

CHELMSFORD

The 18th annual supper and rollcall of the Central Baptist church was held last evening, and it proved a most pleasant affair. The members and friends assembled at 5.30, and a social hour was enjoyed, after which supper was served. Following the supper Rev. Charles H. Ellis, pastor, officiated as presiding officer and the rollcall was called. Reports of the different church departments were then read and all showed excellent results. One report that was very pleasing to all assembled was the announcement of the church improvements, including the installation of a fine pipe organ.

At the conclusion of the meeting all adjourned to the auditorium, where Rev. B. R. Harris of the Paige street church of Lowell gave the address of the evening. Two solos, "A Song Divine," by Mrs. H. A. Vickery, and "Anchored," by Miss Lillian Cann of Worcester, with Mrs. W. C. Ward as accompanist, were much enjoyed features of the evening.

The committee in charge was Rev. C. H. Ellis, George M. Sexton, Mrs. F. J. Whittemore, Mrs. Nellie P. Parker and Miss Bertha H. Dutton.

THE LAST CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Congress during the last session appropriated $1,019,412,710, as shown yesterday by the official statement of James C. Courts, clerk of the house committee on appropriations, and Kennedy F. Rea, assistant clerk of the senate committee on appropriations.

As compared with the appropriations of 1911, there was a decrease of $7,270,170.

Of the 16 appropriation bills, the measure providing for the postoffice department headed the list with $271,420,595. The pension bill, much augmented because of the service pension increase, came second with $165,146,145.

The navy bill called for an expenditure of $123,225,607 and the sundry civil bill for $112,039,184.

The principal reductions were made in the army, navy and fortifications bills and the largest increases in the postal service, river and harbor and pension bills.

The clerks' statement also supplied facts regarding new offices and positions of employment created during the last session. Of these there were 20,904, involving an annual compensation of $22,193,580. As an offset, 13,915 places, with an annual compensation of $14,446,917, were abolished.

The increase included 42 additional members of the house of representatives as required by the new apportionment. In point of increased numbers the navy took the lead with 4000 enlisted men, and postal service came second, with an allowance of 2616 new employes in the lower grades.

COCOA IMPORTS

Will Exceed Those Of Any Previous Year—Tea Imports Also Show Increase

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Imports of cocoa into the United States in the year which ends with next month will exceed those of any earlier year and approximate 150 million pounds, against 57 million pounds ten years ago. The growth in the importation of this article in recent years has been much more rapid than that of tea or coffee. The quantity of cocoa, or cacao, imported in 1912 is practically three times as great as in 1902, a decade earlier, while tea imports show an increase of but 20 per cent and those of coffee are actually less than in 1902, the comparisons being for the 9 months ended with September of the years named.

This rapid increase in importations of cocoa has brought the United States to first rank in the consumption of that article, the present consumption, based upon the net imports of the calendar year 1911, being 130 million pounds, compared with 112 million for Germany, 60 million for France, and 56 million for the United Kingdom, out of a world consumption of approximately 500 million pounds. Of the world's imported coffee the United States is also the largest consumer, the net imports last year having been 796 million pounds, compared with 404 million for Germany, 245 million for France, 28 million for the United Kingdom, and 26 million for Russia. In imports of tea, however, the United States ranks third, her total imports of that article, 100 million pounds, being exceeded by those of the United Kingdom, 294 million pounds, and those of Russia, 155 million pounds. Germany's tea imports for consumption in 1911 amounted to but 8 million pounds, and those of France, 3 million pounds.

Most of the cocoa imported into the United States is produced in the West Indies, Central and South America. Of the 131 million pounds imported in the first 9 months of 1912, 31 million pounds were from the British West Indies, 28 million from Santo Domingo, 20 million from Ecuador, and 12 million from Brazil; while 20 million pounds were credited to Portugal and 7½ million pounds to the United Kingdom, though in fact produced in certain of their colonies.

Brazil is the chief source of our imported coffee, having supplied 435 million pounds out of a total of 651 million pounds imported in the 9 months ended with September, 1912, compared with 55 million from Columbia, 37¼ million from Venezuela, 37 million from the Central American States, 29 million from Mexico, and less than 60 million pounds from all other countries, including 42 million pounds imported from Europe.

Japan usually supplies about one-half of the tea consumed in the United States, though in the current year the proportion imported from that country is somewhat less than one-half. Of the 67 million pounds of tea imported in the nine months under review, 29 million pounds were from Japan, 18 million from China, 10 million from the East Indies, and 7 million from the United Kingdom, presumably the product of certain of her colonies.

In the period from 1880 to 1911 imports of cocoa from 6.6 million to 142 million pounds; those of coffee, from 404 million to 809 million pounds; and those of tea, from 68 million to 164 million pounds. Imports of cocoa are thus 20 times as much as in 1880, while those of coffee have about doubled in the same period and those of tea increased about 50 per cent.

MEN'S SHOES AT KIRK STREET ENTRANCE

You can wait a year for this London shape or buy it now in a Regal

This model, one of our many new Fall styles, will be popular throughout the country next year. CRISPIN MODEL is really an English shape refined by us for New York trade. All of the characteristics of the London custom-made boot are preserved—flaring right and left heels, wide shank and flat, stout sole.

But aside from its advanced style, there is wonderful value—real economy in this shoe. What a sole! Right out of the butt of an Oak-tanned, South American green hide—thick, tough as raw hide, pliable and water-resisting. No $12 boot ever had better. And the upper goes well with the sole—choice cut of a full-weight calf skin, close grained and elastic—the sort of leather that never stretches out of shape.

DECREASE IN PENSION

The Amount This Year is $151,558,141

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—There are now on the government's pension roll 538,000 soldiers and sailors, 321,932 dependents and widows and 362 army nurses, according to the annual report of the pension bureau made public yesterday. These include 497,203 survivors of the Civil war and 238 widows of the War of 1812. To provide for all of them this year, $151,558,141 has been appropriated, a decrease of $3,276,096 from last year.

It is estimated that there were 2,312,365 individuals in the military and naval service of the United States in the Civil war, and that upward of 75 per cent of them are now dead.

The report predicts that the abolishment of the pension agencies, effective Jan. 31, 1913, and the payment of all pensions direct from the pension bureau, will result in a more efficient and economical administration, avoiding duplication of work and saving expense.

The total number of pensioners under general pension laws is 538,210, their pensions aggregating $144,973,569, and under special acts of congress 22,084, aggregating $6,584,572 annually.

From the foundation of the government to June 30 last, the United States paid $4,383,363,164 in pensions to soldiers, sailors and marines, their widows, minor children and dependent relatives on account of the military and naval service in the various wars and in regular service.

MAY BE MURDER VICTIM

Body of Man Was Found in Pond

MIDDLEBORO, Nov. 9.—Belief that the man whose body was found on the shore at Long Pond, Lakeville, at one yesterday afternoon was a murder victim has aroused the police officials.

A revolver was found in the bushes near where the body was discovered by Archie Demoranville, a hunter.

The body had evidently been dragged after the shooting to a thicket and covered with brush.

The medical examiner viewed the body yesterday shortly after it was discovered and was unable to find the slightest identification or anything that would furnish a clue to the murder. He gave it as his opinion that it was a murder and said the bullet passed entirely through the man's head. The body was in the bush probably three months.

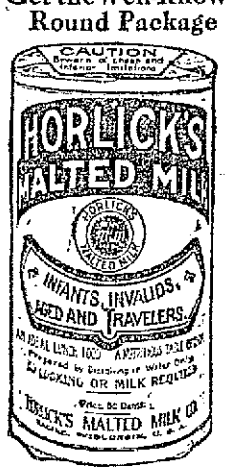

The dead man was very dark skinned, about 30 years old and about 5 ft. 7 in. in height.

The physicians who examined the remains are now satisfied that the unfortunate was either a Finn or a Swede and not a Brava, as at first believed.

The body was removed to a local undertaker's rooms last night and an inquest was held at 9 this morning, at which Medical Examiner C. E. Morse and his assistant, Dr. A. V. Smith of Middleboro, and a representative of the state police will be present.

GIRL SHOT BY HER BROTHER

Twelve Year Old Boy Did Not Know That the Rifle Was Loaded

A fatal accident occurred last night in Billerica Centre, when a little girl, named Grace Webster, aged 10 years, was shot through the head by her young brother, Ralph, aged 12 years, who was playing with a 22-calibre rifle and who did not know the weapon was loaded. Immediately after the accidental shooting doctors were summoned to the place, but the child passed away in a short time.

Ralph and his sister Grace were playing in the kitchen at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Clifford Webster, just off River street, Billerica Centre. The boy found a 22-calibre rifle and began to do stunts with it, aiming at his sister's head. The children were having a good time of it, when suddenly Ralph pulled the trigger.

A sharp report followed and the little girl fell to the floor with a bullet wound in her forehead. Dr. M. A. Buck was hurriedly called to the home of the Webster family and the ambulance was quickly summoned to the scene of the shooting, but it was useless for the child passed away shortly after the arrival of the physicians and ambulance. Dr. J. V. Meigs, medical examiner, made the trip to the Centre with the ambulance and his finding was that the shooting was accidental. The little fellow who did not know the rifle was loaded was overcome with grief when apprised of the death of his little sister, while the parents are almost frantic over the death of their beloved daughter.

The little girl and her parents have lived in Billerica for about four years. She attended the Pollard school and was known to be a very bright child.

AN EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS

Expected by Democratic Senators and Representatives In Washington

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Practically every democratic senator and representative known to be in Washington agrees that an extra session of congress is inevitable and that it will be called shortly after Woodrow Wilson takes the oath of office on March 4.

Rep. Benj. G. Humphreys of Mississippi said yesterday afternoon that he was convinced that the session would be called and that the work of tariff revision would be taken up promptly and pressed until completion. Rep. John M. Garner of Texas said the same thing before leaving for the south and other Texans of prominence, who object to being quoted for fear they should seem to bring pressure to bear on the successful candidate, in private conversation express the same view.

The single exception so far discovered is Rep. Robert L. Henry of Texas, chairman of the committee on rules. Mr. Henry did not say he opposed an extra session, but he refused to discuss the matter in any way. Politicians here are wondering if this reticence has anything to do with Mr. Henrys' old ambition to be speaker of the house. He was a candidate for the democratic caucus nomination two years ago, although his candidacy was generally considered chiefly important because it stressed Mr. Henry's claims to head an important committee. In some quarters it is suggested that Mr. Henry might try to work up a following with which to oppose Speaker Champ Clark if the organization of the house were allowed to go over until the regular session. But his friends, while puzzled at his failure to express himself, say they don't believe he has any hopes of defeating Mr. Clark at this time.

Speaker Champ Clark is expected to reach Washington within the next ten days or two weeks, in time to take up the details of legislation in the short session of congress, which will begin three weeks from next Monday. Chairman Underwood of the house committee on ways and means is not expected until toward the end of the month.

Comparatively little legislation beyond the passage of the usual appropriation bills is expected to be enacted during the short session. The majority of the members of the house committee on appropriations are now on the way to Panama, under the leadership of Chairman Fitzgerald, with a view to making an especial investigation as to the needs of the work on the canal, and the clerks of the committee are busily engaged upon the framework of the various appropriation measures.

It is believed that the appropriation for the Isthmian canal which will be made by the next session will be the last to be required for the construction of that work. Up to date the appropriations have aggregated $322,541,468, and as the limit was fixed at $375,200,900, about $53,000,000 still will be required to complete the work, providing the full amount of the estimate becomes necessary.

BADLY BURNED

Mrs. Perkins of Westford Placed Box of Gunpowder in the Stove and Had Narrow Escape From Death

Mrs. Fletcher Perkins of Westford was very painfully and badly injured at her home yesterday. Mrs. Perkins while cleaning house discovered a small box of gunpowder which she paced in the stove with the intention of destroying it. Before the stove lid had been replaced on the stove the powder flashed up, severely burning her face, hands and clothing as well as singeing her hair and eyebrows. Serious and fatal results were stopped only through the presence of mind and promptness of Mrs. James Hildreth, who is 94 years of age. Mrs. Hildreth wrapped her rug and apron around Mrs. Perkins, whose clothing at that time was a blazing mass, and succeeded in extinguishing the flames. Dr. Wells was immediately called and treated Mrs. Perkins, who was very badly burned.

PRETTY DANCING PARTY

Was Held in No. Chelmsford Last Night

The class of 1913 of the North Chelmsford high school held a very pretty and enjoyable dancing party last evening in the town hall for members of the class and invited guests and friends. It was perhaps one of the most largely attended affairs of its kind that has taken place in some years.

The hall was decorated with pine trees and the class colors, green and gold; the stage and gallery especially presenting a most attractive appearance, for over them was suspended a large representation of the class emblem. The matrons were Mrs. P. S. Lowe, Miss Camille Fitzgerald, Mrs. A. W. Trubey and Mrs. Edgar Dixon.

Hibbard's orchestra gave a very pleasing concert from 8 to 8.30, after which general dancing began and continued until 12.30 when there was a short intermission, during which refreshments were served. Dancing was then resumed and continued till midnight. Special cars were on hand to convey the young people to this city.

Among those present were guests from Lowell, Lawrence, Andover and Cambridge. Following are the names of the class officers who were in charge of the affair: Gladys Prince, president, general manager; Mary Murphy, vice president, assistant manager; Marion Horne, secretary; Helen Haywood, treasurer; Harry Carlson, floor director; Bertha Wright, assistant floor director.

THE YALE COLISEUM

Plans Are Made to Seat 60,000

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 9.—Plans for Yale's proposed coliseum for football were made public last evening at a mass meeting of the undergraduates. Members of the committee in charge of the erection of the building addressed the students on the need of more playgrounds and a permanent football stand.

It is estimated that $700,000 will be required to carry out the plans of the committee, which call for $150,000 for land, $300,000 for a coliseum, $100,000 for a clubhouse, $50,000 for a new baseball stand and $100,000 for the general development of playgrounds. Of this amount only the $150,000 for the land has been raised.

The proposed coliseum will seat 60,000 persons. It will be in the shape of a great bowl, 25 feet of which will be sunken in the ground and 35 more built up on excavated earth. The entrances will be through tunnels running beneath the big run of earth, that will hold up the upper portion of the coliseum.

It will be possible to increase the seating capacity of the coliseum to 100,000 seats by building a steel structure over the top row of seats.

This plan has been accepted because it is the cheapest that has yet been devised. It does away with the cost of steel and forms a permanent structure. There will be nothing in the structure but concrete except wooden seats for the spectators.

The plan is to raise the necessary funds by selling privileges which will entitle the holder to the right to purchase football tickets. A subscription of $100 will entitle the subscriber to buy two tickets, and a subscription of $1000 will insure the right to buy ten tickets. This will be the largest privilege that will be sold.

Queen Esther at the Palace

A play entitled "Queen Esther at the Palace," which takes its theme from the Bible, was presented last night for the second time at the Methodist church on Gorham street. The vestry was crowded to its full capacity and the production was received with a great deal of applause.

One of the features of the entertainment was the costuming which was in strict accordance with the time and place in which the scenes were laid. The general stage setting, too, was very well gotten up.

The play was presented by the classes of Misses Isabel Caddell and Elizabeth Ogley, and was under the supervision of Miss Maud Mountford. The accompanist was Miss Esther M. Caddell.

Those who took the principal parts were as follows:

The chamberlains were: Messrs. Orrin Taylor, George Higginbottom, Frank Killerby, William Haynes, Arthur Graham and Joseph Higginbottom. Buell Stark, Charles Taylor, Charles Neild and Earl Wilbur were the men-at-arms. Walter Matthews and Graham Pascall were fan bearers and the ladies in waiting were: Misses May E. Caddell, Esther Atkinson, Luella Laycock, Lena Howard, Lena Potter, Emeline Hancock, Martha Howarth, Hattie Potter. Lizzie Spillane and Blanche Scoble. The curtain attendants were Martha Matthews and Bertha Roper.

Twenty different tableaux comprised the play, they being as follows:

1—King Ahasuerus on the Throne, 2—Vashti. 3—The Council. 4—Mordecai. 5—Esther, the Maid. 6—Hegai. 7—Esther crowned queen (two scenes). 8—Mordecai at the King's Gate. 9—Haman. 10—Mordecai spurns Haman. 11—Mordecai mourns for people. 12—Esther told of her people's calamity (two scenes.) 13—Esther in the Outer Court. 14—Esther Given Golden Scepter (two scenes.) 15—Zeresh, Haman's wife. 16—Haman robes Mordecai. 17—Haman afraid before king. 18—Haman pleading to Esther. 19—Esther, in tears, pleads for her people. 20—Queen Esther telling the happy tidings to Mordecai.

Police Eject a Dozen

LONDON, Nov. 9.—A number of suffragettes last night made a demonstration in order to prevent John Burns, president of the local government board, from making a speech at Battersea. The police were called in, however, and ejected a dozen of the women and the meeting proceeded.

NEW ENGLAND'S GREAT CASH HOUSE

Announce the Most Important Event in the History of New England's Greatest Cash Store

To the People of New England:

Forty years ago I started on its business career the firm now known as Houghton & Dutton Co.

It is with feelings of profound gratitude that I review the record of almost half a Century. What finer evidence is needed to prove that if you treat the public well it will treat you well? It has been my aim to build up our business on honor, to win and deserve the unwavering confidence and support of the public.

Our low cash prices and high quality merchandise were not sufficient in themselves to accomplish this. There were a thousand other additional ways in which the interests of the public were to be conserved and our mutual interests promoted. For this I have toiled, and that my efforts have not failed, the experiences of our clientele and the mammoth proportions our business has assumed, bear tangible witness on this our 40th Anniversary.

With a heart full of sincere appreciation I return my thanks to our numberless patrons, assuring them that there will be no change in this declared policy of the firm.

My three sons, who are associated with me in the business, are animated by the same business ideals and desires, and in asking for the continued support of the public I can most confidently guarantee that its interests will be served to the very limit of our ability.

"COME ON TO THE HUB AT OUR EXPENSE"

WARRANTS SWORN OUT

For Rube Marquard and Actress

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 9.—"Rube" Marquard, star twirler of the New York Giants, and Mrs. Joseph Kane, known on the stage as Blossom Seeley, are being sought by detectives, warrants having been sworn out for them by Mrs. Kane's husband. Both are accused of serious offences.

The warrants were issued by Magistrate Jagmetty yesterday, after a lively scene in one of the big beach front hotels. The husband of the woman and his detectives declare they found the "Rube" and Mrs. Kane together, but that they escaped down a fire escape by means of a ruse.

Kane says he booked the pair in an act known as "The Nineteenth Straight, or Breaking the World's Record," a skit based on Rube's pitching during the past season. The irate husband displayed a contract here by which Marquard and Blossom were, it is said, to receive $1500 a week. For arranging their booking Kane was to receive $100 a week.

"I was tipped off by friends that it was not a business proposition that was keeping them together," the husband declared this morning. Getting word from this city that Rube and Blossom Seeley were at the shore, Kane hurried to Philadelphia yesterday, got his detectives and then came to Atlantic City.

It was discovered that on Nov. 4 "Rube" Marquard and wife had registered in Marquard's handwriting, the detectives say.

"About 8 o'clock Marquard and Mrs. Kane appeared coming down in the elevator from a swell suite on the first floor overlooking the ocean. We followed them down the walk to the Apollo theatre, and then waited in the back of the theatre watching them. They were certainly a loving couple, keeping cuddled close up to each other in their orchestra seats.

"At 10.30 they came out together, took a rolling chair and went up the board walk to a cafe, where they stayed until about 12.30.

"Then they strolled back to the hotel and went up in the elevator together. We registered ourselves, getting a room next to that they occupied, and then called up Mr. Kane, who came down to the hotel. He came up to our room. We could hear 'Rube' and Mrs. Kane chatting away next door.

"We hurried into the hall, and making sure there was no way of escape, except by the door we attacked, rushed the door. For five minutes we shouldered into it, and it finally gave way."

Youngsters With Pimples.

By Dr. True

A mother asks me how she shall remove pimples and humors that disfigure her child's face. My answer is very simple and direct, because all such blemishes are the result of poisons in the system that should be carried off in the secretions, but are not.

When anyone finds the skin becoming sallow, dry, scaly, or when blackheads, pimples or blotches appear, they should at once take my Dr. True's Elixir for stomach and bowels. This is a most remarkable remedy. It is wholly vegetable, mild and pleasant, but very effective.

It corrects a wrong condition of stomach and bowels, and sets these important organs in healthy activity, so that waste and poison are driven from the system. No mother need feel anxiety about facial blemishes on her child if she will give my pleasant remedy a chance to remove the cause back of them. And I urge anyone, young or old, who is now enduring this embarrassment, to follow the same course. It will certainly correct the evil.

I recommend, too, that they use Parker's 2-30-2 Cold Cream on face and neck every night. In this way they will make the skin soft and beautiful, as well as free of disfigurement.

LODGE'S MAN MAY LOSE

Young Democrat Has Tied His Vote

LYNN, Nov. 9.—According to a recount in Lynn last night of the votes for Representative in the district in which Senator Henry Cabot Lodge resides and votes Charles McGlue, a young law student of Lynn, democratic candidate, has tied Senator Lodge's personal candidate, William D. Fisher, and on Monday night a recount of the vote in the town of Nahant will decide the winner of one of the seats in the house.

McGlue made his fight against the Lodge slate in the face of a personal appeal from the senior United States senator to the voters of the district, embodied in a circular in which, over his own signature he solicited votes for the candidate for the senate and the two candidates for the house to prevent the democrats capturing the state legislature.

THE SUPERINTENDENTS

Elected Snedden Head of Association

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—David Snedden, commissioner of education for Massachusetts, was elected president of the New England association of School Superintendents yesterday at the 91st meeting in Ford hall. The other officers chosen were: Vice president, Stanley H. Holmes, New Britain, Ct; secretary and treasurer, Valentine Almy, assistant commissioner of public schools for Rhode Island, Cranston, R. I.; members of executive committee, terms to expire 1915, D. H. Perkins, Portland, Me.; Charles W. Bickford, Manchester, N. H.; B. W. Tinker, Watertown, Conn.; to fill the unexpired term of Valentine Almy, secretary and treasurer, F. E. McFee of Woonsocket.

Principal Ernest Silver of the New Hampshire State Normal school at Plymouth, said: "It can be shown that the influx of country-bred citizens into our great cities is essential to the growth and development of city life, the heavy toll annually exacted from the rural districts by the call of the cities is a serious menace to the country.

Principal John L. Alger of the state normal school at Providence prophesied that before many years a year in normal school would count as a year in college for any student who might want to attend the latter institution.

William Orr, deputy commissioner of education for Massachusetts, claimed that the majority of young teachers today began their work not properly qualified to teach a primary or a secondary school, one reason being the lack of incentive for the student to spend money in training.

Supt. Franklin B. Dyer of Boston urged the need of "progressive" teachers in the Boston schools. "The progressives," he said, "are the teachers who expand and develop their own knowledge, as well as that of their pupils. The other classes of teachers are the misfits and the stationaries."

The association accepted a resolution recommending the lengthening of the required course of study for normal schools, and the provision in high schools of a course preparing for normal school work. Social centre work in schools was endorsed. In other resolutions the associations invited the attention of normal school authorities to the increasing need for the training of teachers for work with those lagging pupils for whom individual instruction in special schools and classes was needed and favored legislation providing for the automatic retirement of teachers upon completion of a reasonable length of service and the payment from public funds of adequate pensions. Approval was also given to the efforts now being made to introduce pre-vocational training, into the elementary grades, and, in the interest of increased efficiency, the number of pupils per teacher in the elementary grades to not more than 30 and in high school classes to not more than 20.

SOMERVILLE SETTLES

For Damage Done to School Property

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—The city of Somerville has paid the archbishop of Boston the sum of $21,000 for damages to the St. Joseph's church and school property growing out of the abolishing of the grade crossing on Webster avenue. When the case was tried before a jury in the superior court at East Cambridge in May the church authorities were awarded $17,532.67. The church authorities were not satisfied with the verdict and intended to carry it to a higher court, but an agreement was reached between the interested parties.

GUNMEN MAY PLEAD GUILTY

Alleged Murderers of Rosenthal Said to Be Willing to Admit Murder in Second Degree

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The rumor persisted in and about the criminal courts building today that the four gunmen indicted for shooting down Herman Rosenthal desired to withdraw their pleas of not guilty and enter pleas to murder in the second degree. Their counsel denied, however, that any such move was contemplated and Dist.-Atty. Whitman would make no comment. The prisoners themselves—Lefty Louie, Whitey Lewis, Dago Frank and Gyp the Blood—had nothing to say. There was no court session today. The selection of the jurors, five of whom had been chosen yesterday, will be resumed Monday.

SOME LOWELL CASES

To Be Tried at Cambridge Monday

The November sitting of the criminal session of the superior court will be opened at Cambridge Monday morning at ten o'clock and among the cases listed for trial on that day are eight Lowell cases, five on indictments by the grand jury and three on appeals from the police court.

James H. Brennan, adultery.

William Lewis and Francis Drolette, larceny.

MAYOR J. E. O'DONNELL

Replies to Criticism of Police at Polls

The following letter from the mayor to the superintendent of police relative to the blundering count of ballots in precinct 3 of ward 2, and a criticism appearing in a morning paper is self-explanatory:

Nov. 9, 1912.

Redmond Welch, Supt. of Police:

Dear Sir—Will you obtain for me at once a report from the patrolmen who were on duty at precinct 3, ward 2, on election day, Nov. 5th, as to what occurred there with reference to good order. My reason for obtaining such report is as follows: In the "Catch-All" column of the Courier-Citizen this morning, commenting upon the election returns sent in from that precinct, the writer states: "It is absurd that they (the precinct officers) should be able to plead in avoidance of the task that 'they are tired of having to keep the men from fighting.' Fighting in a Massachusetts polling booth should be summarily dealt with when any occurs, or even threatened, by proper police authority. The whole business seems to be up to Mayor O'Donnell as commissioner of public safety. If he cannot provide better for this precinct in the coming city elections, it is high time we got busy and overhauled the public safety department."

As is known to all, barring perhaps, the writer of the "Catch-All" column, the precinct officers in all precincts are selected by the commissioner of finance and not by the commissioner of public safety, likewise the police officers, two to a precinct, are ordered by the elections department. For years the elections department has ordered two officers to a precinct and they have been sent by the police department with instructions as to the performance of their duty. On this particular occasion they received special instructions from you relative to illegal voting. Therefore, instead of the "whole business" being up to the public safety department, the latter department is concerned only as to whether or not the officers at that precinct performed their duty, and for that reason I desire a report from them. I am somewhat surprised that a newspaper would pass judgment on so serious a matter without attempting to get at the facts in the case, though it is not to be wondered at, when, at the outset, it confounds the two departments of elections and public safety, and concludes with the significant statement: "It is high time we got busy and overhauled the public safety department." It would appear that the desire to overhaul the department has caused an inclination to overlook the truth. Respectfully,

James E. O'Donnell.

Inspector Moran Conducts Examinations

Seven applicants appeared at the office of the state inspector of boilers to be examined for the positions of firemen and 3rd class engineer by Mr. Edward Moran, who has charge of that department in this district.

The candidates for these licenses have been quite numerous of late and already nine men have sent in their applications to undergo the test next Friday morning. The apparatus and general facilities for the holding of these trials are located in the inspector's office in the Central block and are quite a help to the inspector. The men are required to make practical demonstrations of their ability along the lines which they desire to follow, such as the operation of valves, boilers, steam and safety guages, etc., and the work which they are required to do in the presence of Mr. Moran is no different than that which would be their duty in the engine room of a factory or mill. If they are found to be qualified for the positions in question, the licenses are made out and given to them immediately.

On last Thursday, two members of the board of examiners in Boston came to this city to examine, together with Inspector Moran, applicants who wished to qualify as first or second class engineers. There were eight candidates present to take this test which is similar to the regular weekly test except perhaps for the fact that it is more difficult, and out of this number three were found to be unfitted and as a consequence were rejected. In case of a failure to qualify, the applicants are allowed to take another examination but a space of 90 days must elapse between the tests. Among those who qualified for the first class engineer's licenses were two Lowell men, W. N. Prescott, of 85 Pleasant street, and Michael F. Heatherman, of 28 Lyons street. The license which is given these men is the highest which can be obtained in the department and requires a full knowledge of the different departments on the part of the applicants. The trial consists of oral questions and practical demonstrations in operating the apparatus in the office.

At a rough estimation Mr. Moran and the members of the state board have examined about 500 applicants during the past year in all branches combined and out of this number about 200 have been rejected.

Lowell Boys at Holy Cross

A large number of young people of this city will be pleased to learn that the Lowell boys who are at present studying at Holy Cross college in Worcester, are making elaborate plans to hold a third annual "Holy Cross" dance in this city on the eve of New Year's day. On the last two occasions on which the Holy Cross boys held these parties, the attendance was large and a very enjoyable time was spent by all present. Recently a number of inquiries have been made as to whether or not another party would take place this year. Among those who are in charge of the arrangements are Frederick Brady, Thomas Markham, William Reardon, William Connolly and several others. The particulars of the event are not yet complete, but will be made public at an early date.

WOMEN FIGHT FLAMES

Blaze Was Set By a Firebug

PITTSFIELD, Nov. 9.—Fire, believed incendiary, caused a loss of $60,000 to the Church family of Mt. Lebanon Shakers in Mt. Lebanon, N. Y., eight miles west of Pittsfield, yesterday afternoon. A strong northwest wind was blowing and for several hours the entire community was threatened.

The property destroyed consisted of three barns and a community storehouse containing 1500 bushels of oats, 600 bushels of buckwheat, 300 tons of hay, 500 bushels of rye, 50 bushels of potatoes, many other vegetables, farming tools and six calves. Four hundred bushels potatoes had already been distributed among the four Shaker families at Mt. Lebanon.

But for the heroic efforts of men and women of the Shaker colony, who formed a bucket brigade, the main administration building, the seat of the Mt. Lebanon ministry, and other structures would have been destroyed.

Women 70 years old worked valiantly with the few men with buckets of water in saving property.

Directing the work were Sister Emma Neal, head of the Church family, and Eldresses Catherine Allen and Harriet Bullard. Miss Bullard is 86 years old. She is the oldest member of the Mt. Lebanon ministry.

Henry Clough discovered the flames bursting through the windows shortly after 2 o'clock. The entire Shaker community, extending for a mile along the street at Mt. Lebanon, was summoned by ringing the church bell, and the Pittsfield fire department was asked to send apparatus. Chief William C. Shepard refused, because of the hard run over the mountain.

At least eight suspicious fires have occurred during the past year in the Lebanon valley, and it is thought the one yesterday was the work of a firebug.

One of the barns costing $80,000 had been completed but a few months. Three years ago buildings on the same site burned at a loss of $100,000. The Shakers were insured yesterday for only about a third of their loss. They will rebuild.

COL. THEO. ROOSEVELT

Refuses to Accept Accident Policy

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Col. Roosevelt visited the Outlook office yesterday for the first time since he was shot at Milwaukee, and spent a busy day at the duties of the contributing editorship. He had talks with William H. Hotchkiss, progressive state chairman, and Bainbridge Colby of New Jersey.

"When Mr. Roosevelt was informed for the first time by the Outlook company of the accident policy which, issued by the Casualty Company of America, is now in force, and also of the fact that the company had tendered the return of the premium to the Outlook and demanded the return to them of the policy, he instantly stated that he would not accept any payment whatever under this policy, which has now been returned to the company."

Lawrence Abbott, when asked if The Outlook company, which paid the insurance premium, was as willing as Col. Roosevelt to wave aside all payments due under it, said he knew of no plans to recover any payments, and that the matter had been settled as the colonel wished it to be.

At the office of the Casualty Company of America it was learned that about 10 days ago The Outlook company gave notice of its intention to file a claim for weekly payments due for the period Col. Roosevelt was incapacitated on account of his wound. The Casualty company replied to this notice that The Outlook company was acting illegally, as the only person who could file a claim for indemnity was the person insured. In this case it was insisted upon by the company that Col. Roosevelt file his claim in person. This made it necessary that The Outlook company bring the whole matter to the attention of Col. Roosevelt.

In the mean time the Casualty company learned that the policy had been applied for without the knowledge or consent of the person insured. This, according to the company's lawyers, made the policy illegal, and the company offered to return the premiums paid in consideration of the surrender of the policy. At first The Outlook people would not consent to this, but yesterday afternoon the policy reached the office and premiums paid upon it were returned to The Outlook.

NEW MASONIC HALL

It Is Now Undergoing Finishing Touches

The remodelling and decorating of the new Masonic hall which is to be located in the hall formerly occupied by the Foresters in the Pollard block in Palmer street, is proceeding toward the goal of completion at a rapid pace and in a short time the Masons will have one of the most attractive and best equipped lodge rooms of any organization in this city.

The new home of the Masonic fraternity is located on the third floor of the building and is most convenient. Its chief feature when completed will be the large meeting hall upon which the finishing touches are now being made. The Masons will occupy nearly the entire third story of the edifice and no expense is being spared to make the place worthy of the organization which is soon to move there. The hall is of beautiful finish and furnishing. At either end and on one side are raised platforms for the presiding officers and speakers and a series of three or four broad steps form the approach to these. The place is of large dimension and is well lighted. Perhaps the decoration and finish of the woodwork and ceiling would first claim the attention of the visitor for these are of unique and attractive design. The place has been repainted and varnished and everything is spick and span.

Most of the work at present is being directed toward the completion of this hall. There are besides a number of other and smaller rooms which will in all probability be used as reception rooms, game rooms, business offices, etc. These, too, will be no less tastefully fitted out to be in keeping with the general high standard which the organization has determined upon and which the contractors are carrying out to the fullest capacity. It is expected that the new Masonic hall will be ready for occupancy about the first of the year.

A DEMOCRATIC SENATOR

Has Been Elected in Oregon

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 9.—Returns from every county in Oregon practically complete except one, give for United States senator: Lane, dem., 36,247; Selling, rep., 34,748; Bourne, ind., (incumbent), 24,376; Clark, prog., 9945.

Honey Boys' Concert

The second annual concert and dance of the Honey Boys, will be held in Associate hall on next Wednesday evening. This troupe of entertainers, though organized but last year, has made an enviable reputation in the minstrel fraternity, at home and abroad. They have given a number of concerts and all were pronounced successes. Last year the company went to Ayer, Lawrence and several other nearby places and were received so well that in practically every place, they were recalled for a second performance. At their local show last season, the Honey Boys were greeted by one of the largest crowds that ever assembled in the hall and the performance was worthy of the large attendance. This year, however, the troupe will appear in a new and original skit entitled, "Uncle Joe's Birthday in the Sunny South." The piece was written by Herbert E. Webster, Sr., of this city and the music is the work of William H. Way, and both are well known in this city for their abilityin their respective lines. In order to present the show fittingly, special scenery has been secured for Wednesday, and also costumes, appropriate for the show have been ordered. The skit bids fair to be a snappy, tuneful performance, with the right kind of "pep" to it to make it successful. Rehearsals for the concert have been held and the soloists and members of the chorus are splendidly named for their parts. The performance, so the members say, will eclipse even the superior production given here last year. After the show dancing to the music of Kittredge's orchestra will be enjoyed. The Honey Boys in a short space of time have established a splendid reputation and hence a big crowd is expected.

WOMAN BURNED ALIVE

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—After kissing his wife good-bye as he started for work yesterday morning at 6 o'clock, Abraham Shanfield came to his home at 24 Balfour street in Roxbury 11 hours later, and opening the front door stumbled and fell over her charred body.

She had committed suicide by soaking her clothes with kerosene and then setting fire to them.

Mrs. Shanfield, who was 64 years old, had twice before tried to take her own life, according to the police. The last time was on Oct. 24, when she tried to asphyxiate herself and nearly succeeded.

She was allowed to return to her home, and, although she had seemed despondent for several days, her husband believed her health was improving. Neighbors recalled seeing the woman at the window of her home at noon yesterday. It is believed she soon afterward set her clothes on fire. No sign of smoke was seen.

BABY RUINS ROMANCE

Divorce Suit Reveals a Secret Marriage

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The curtain has fallen on the romance of little Josephine Brown, by many theatregoers considered the prettiest actress on the American stage. The curtain has been descending slowly since last March, when a girl baby was born to Miss Brown, but now it is down to the footlight level, and a divorce suit has been filed bearing the title Josephine Brown Liedwell vs. Robert Liedwell.

This notice that Josephine Brown is suing for a divorce will be the first news to many of her friends that she is married and positively the first news to all her friends, save those who knew her intimately, that she is the mother of the baby that brought about the first breach between Miss Brown and her husband, a separation soon to be followed and Mr. Liedwell went his way.

Josephine Brown in the season of 1910-11 was leading woman for William Gillette in his revival of "Held by the Enemy." She also was his leading lady in "Secret Service."

Mr. Gillette, young looking, handsome and magnetic, although he passed his youth some time ago, fell in love with his little leading lady. They were engaged to be married, when Miss Brown and her mother went to England at the close of the theatrical season of 1911, and the date of the marriage was tentatively set for the fall of that winter.

A few days after her arrival in London, Miss Brown met an ardent and persuasive young Irishman, Robert Liedwell of Dublin, a member of an old family and the last of his line, and married him quietly in June, 1911, in West London.

"Uncle Sam" came to New York and was not a success. Miss Brown was importuned by Mr. Gillette to star in a play he had purchased for her use. Then it became necessary to break the news of her marriage to Mr. Gillette.

Young Mr. Liedwell, his wife, and his mother-in-law lived in a flat uptown until the baby was born. Liedwell, according to Miss Brown, did not show a father's appreciation of the baby. He soon became bitter against the little mite because she was a girl when he had hoped for a boy. A bitter quarrel arose and Liedwell packed his trunks and departed. His wife has not seen him since and says she does not know where he is.

WANTS A LIBERAL

Congressman Gardner Favors Curtis Guild for United States Senator In 1913.

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—In a statement in which he also declares that he should view it as a mistake if any of the candidates prominently mentioned for the United States senatorship at the present time should be elected, Congressman A. P. Gardner of Hamilton last night said that under no circumstances would he accept election as Senator Crane's successor.

The statement followed inquiries as to whether Mr. Gardner would enter the senatorial race.

Mr. Gardner expresses the hope that there will be no caucus for senator in the coming legislature, but he does not suggest the course to be followed in determining the republican party choice. The election of a senator whose record and views are both liberal is favored by him as a means of rebuilding the republican party on liberal lines. His own sympathies lie in the direction of Ex-Gov. Guild, Mr. Gardner says, and the ambassador will receive support whether he is a candidate or not.

THE CASHIER RESIGNED

Quit His Position on Short Notice

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—The sudden resignation of Frederick H. Curtiss, for nine years cashier of the First National bank, announcement of which was made yesterday, is causing considerable stir in local financial circles.

No reason for his action was given by Mr. Curtiss. The resignation, filed but three days ago, went into effect on Thursday.

Daniel G. Wing, president of the bank, says these facts have no significance and that the best of feeling exists between the bank officials and Mr. Curtiss and that their business relations were entirely satisfactory.

Mr. Curtiss was cashier of the Massachusetts National bank until its consolidation with the First in 1903, and has served as cashier of the latter continuously since that time. His resignation, filed three days ago, was accepted at once and Mr. Curtiss left his place as cashier at the close of business on Thursday night. Downie D. Muir, one of the vice presidents of the bank, was elected to fill his place.

"The only statement I can make is that I have resigned from the First National bank," said Mr. Curtiss last night. "The report that ill health led to the resignation is unfounded. I am feeling very well. I have no plans for the future."

President Daniel G. Wing asserted that the resignation had been anticipated but said there was no reason for it so far as the company was concerned.

BOSTON PATROLMAN

Who Could Speak Chinese Language Fluently Goes to a Farm in Maine—Had Been Member of Force 14 Years

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Patrolman Linwood S. Leavitt,.. the.. only.. fluent Chinese conversationalist in the Boston police department, surrendered his badge and police outfit today to take charge of his 80 acre farm in Maine.

Leavitt has been a member of the police force about 14 years, and during most of that time he was on duty in the Chinese business and residential district about Harrison avenue.

At the outset of his career as policeman he realized what a tremendous handicap it was to "cover" the Chinese settlement without ability to speak the language. Chinese merchants discouraged his ambitition to learn, but he finally obtained a tutor, and mastered the rudiments of the language.

For a long time he "mixed" with the Chinese and was even more wily than they, in that he knew what they were talking about while they thought they were safely carrying on conversations in Chinese in his presence.

JOHNSON SPENT NIGHT IN JAIL

Champion in Tears When Taken to Prison---Would-Be Bondsman Landed in Jail

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Jack Johnson, champion heavyweight pugilist of the world, last night occupied a cell in the county jail, due to his failure to furnish a $30,000 bond for his release on a charge of violating the Mann act.

Johnson's attempt to provide bond at the regular session of court failed, and Judge Landis agreed to hold a night session to give the pugilist an opportunity to obtain new bondsmen.

As he left the federal building handcuffed to Deputy Marshal Edward Northrop, after a futile plea to not have his wrist manacled, Johnson seemed greatly dejected.

In his extended fight for bond, Johnson shed tears, pleaded, offered cash bond in almost any amount, and employed two attorneys, David Backrach and Edward Morris, in an effort to obtain his release.

Three prospective bondsmen failed to qualify and one of them, Albert C. Jones, was sent to jail after he had failed to obtain a bond of $10,000 for his appearance in court next Monday to answer a charge of contempt which was lodged against him by the court when he attempted to schedule property said to belong to his wife.

Tony May, another prospective bondsman, was ordered out of court because he gave answers to questions which the court considered untruthful.

"Give cash bond in any amount, but for goodness' sake keep me out of jail," Johnson pleaded with his attorneys.

Both Dist. Atty. Wilkerson and Judge Landis refused to consider a cash bond.

"An unparalleled attempt to swindle this court by offering unqualified bondsmen has been made," said Judge Landis. "I will not consider a cash bond."

Mr. Wilkerson said he understood that Johnson intended to leave this country on Nov. 30 if he obtained his release. The offense with which Johnson is charged is not subject to extradition.

Several other charges against Johnson are to be investigated by the grand jury, it is said.

Dist. Atty. Wilkerson said last night he intended to put Johnson on trial as soon as possible. The case probably will be called next week.

Catherine Dorsey, at whose home the young white girl, Lucille Cameron, lived, for several weeks, was arrested this afternoon. She had been hiding in a barn for three weeks. She was held under $5000 bond as a witness in the Johnson case and also was remanded to the marshal's custody.

Kid Broad Covers Up

Broad spent most of his time covering up so that Lavin could not get to him. Broad kept his arms crossed before him most of the time, and late in the bout, when the crowd was shouting its displeasure, Lavin deliberately held his chin out in an endeavor to get Broad to unfold. When he did Paddy caught him with a left jab and hooked him with a right, which sent Broad scurrying back to cover again.

New London Bouts

NEW LONDON, Conn., Nov. 9.—Three 10-round bouts, staged by Greenwood A. C. in Lawrence hall last night, resulted in Young Rodman of Webster putting Young Sherman across the ropes for the count in the third round.

Bill Graham of New York sent "Dutch" Hynes of Springfield, Mass., to "the land of nod" in two rounds, and the main bout between the local Army champion, K. O. Palitz, and Terry Mitchell of New York went the limit at a very fast pace, with honors even.

Desmond Shades Bull Anderson

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Larry Desmond and "Bull" Anderson, both Brooklyn welterweights, fought 10 fast rounds at the East New York A. C. in Brooklyn last night. Desmond was a shade the better.

Bay Wood's Bout

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 9.—Bay Wood of Fall River won a decisive victory over Willie Moody of Philadelphia in Mechanics' hall last night before a large crowd.

Wood rushed the fighting in every round, and although Moody stood up to the onsets with marked spirit, he was practically worn down by the avalanche of blows. Wood took the initiative in every round and although the Philadelphian was a showy sparrer, he was unsuccessful in landing effectively. Neither boy scored a knockdown.

Al Shubert Surprised

NEW BEDFORD, Nov. 9.—Al Shubert, the clever New Bedford boxer, who has yet to meet defeat, caught a tartar last night, when he met Charley Harvey, bantamweight champion of Philadelphia, before the New Bedford A. C. The bout was declared a draw after 12 hurricane rounds.

The contestants slugged it out toe to toe on several occasions, but both finished in good shape, though Shubert had a badly swollen eye as a memento. Harvey's experience counted strongly in his battle against his younger and stronger opponent.

His defense was perfection and he ducked under Shubert's wicked right-hand swings with a sureness that discounted the New Bedford boy's best asset. At long range he jabbed his left into Shubert's face with tantalizing effect, and in the clinches he tied up his man with ease on nearly every occasion.

When both men cut loose in the mix-ups Shubert more than held his own, but Harvey was so shifty that he could not reach a spot that would make his own larder hitting count.

Young Dias and Eddie Sweeney fought a rattling eight-round draw, each scoring a knockdown. Flash Rogers of this city knocked out Young Sylvester of Onset in the first round.

Bobby Langley was knocked down by Young Lebrouf at the Montana A. C. in the semifinal and could not get up, having hurt his knee. The ring was in such bad shape that Young Corbett, the referee, refused to allow the main bout between Young Dyson and Harry Stone to go on, the bout being postponed until the 24th.

McGee Wins in Two Minutes

Four Leading Members of Wisconsin Eleven Now in Line for the Western Football Honors

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 9.—Wisconsin and Minnesota will battle for the western football conference title at Minneapolis, Nov. 16. The two elevens are the strongest in this section of the country. At present the Wisconsin team is ruling favorite, due probably to the recent 30 to 12 victory over the strong Chicago eleven. Wisconsin's inability to intercept forward passes was the only weakness shown by the Badgers. They are a strong team, and because Juneau has so many good second string men at his disposal the Badgers will be hard to beat this year. In Gillette, Tandberg, Berger and Bright, Wisconsin has four strong players who are equally effective offensively and defensively.

The Badger quarterback is a shifty player of the Walter Steffen type, who knows when to leave his interference and cut back through the center when the defending eleven is drawn to the side of the field to which the play is directed. Tandberg and Berger are hard driving backs, and on several occasions it took at least three Maroon players to stop them. In the line Capt. Hoeffel, Butler and Samp are towers of strength. These men are deadly tacklers, and they have enough football intelligence to size up plays quickly and adjust themselves to meet the attack.

Golf Player Will Succeed Golf Player in the Whitehouse

Though the policy of the country regarding the tariff may be changed, the policy of the administration concerning golf will be the same after March 4, next as it has been for the past four years. Like President Taft, President-elect Wilson is a player of the ancient and honorable game. The day after the election Mr. Taft went to the links and played a game a trifle better than was usual. Any disappointment he may have felt at the result of the election was not reflected in his play. The suggestion has been made that Mr. Taft and Mr. Wilson, having been opposed in a political struggle, should engage in a golf match. It is quite possible that if this were arranged Mr. Taft would have his revenge, for he has become a skillful wielder of driver, brassey, mashie, cleek, lofter and putter.

THE C. J. GLIDDEN TOUR

Many Unaware It Was Called Off

A man who accompanied C. J. Glidden's party on the trip from Detroit to New Orleans over the route that was to have been that of the Glidden tour and who got back in New York yesterday said as far as he could make out the American Automobile association had failed to give direct and formal notice to the hotel people along the line that the tour had been postponed until 1913. This man said that the woman proprietor of the hotel at Rogers Springs, Tenn., which was to have been a night stop for the tour, had hired extra cooks, had laid out money for provisions and had altogether incurred an expense of $300 in preparing for the tourists and up to the time this impromptu trip of Mr. Glidden came along she did not know that the tour was off.

It is to be inferred that the American Automobile Association merely issued statements to the newspapers, but did not notify all the persons along the line with whom arrangements had been made. So much so was this the case that Mr. Glidden's party was joined at Noblesville, Indiana, by a dealer in R. C. H. cars who thought that this was the regular Glidden tour and that he would find in it the cars of that make which were entered at the last moment in the tour. He had with him several customers to whom he intended to show the operation of these machines in regular touring, but inasmuch as there were no other cars but Maxwells in Mr. Glidden's party he could not very well accomplish what he was after. However, he did stay with the tour as far as Louisville.

The man who is quoted reported that nearly a thousand miles of the road between Detroit and New Orleans was good and there were some stretches that were really excellent, but that certainly 200 miles of the road could never be covered by a tour which was attempting to hold to a schedule of 20 miles an hour. This buckshot mud, which is so called because it is a surface made up of myriad pellets of mud, is so treacherous that cars that attempt to do much better than 15 or 16 miles an hour are apt to find themselves in a ditch.

This man said that as a result of Mr. Glidden's trip in the neighborhood of fifty cars might be counted on definitely for next year's Glidden tour. Furthermore he intimated that if the A. A. A. was not particularly anxious to run the Glidden tour next year there was an organization in the middle west which would be glad to take it up, although that would not be a national organization, and even though the name "Glidden Tour" were retained it might not have the same effect as if the backing were that of the national body.

BOXING GOSSIP

Albert Palzer, who boxes Sandy Ferguson in Boston next week, has been matched to meet the winner of the Jim Flynn-Luther McCarty battle in Vernon, Cal., on Dec. 10. Palzer expects to be in prime condition by that time and will go to the coast to be at the ringside. The big Iowa farmer, who has been training at Woodlawn inn ever since he patched up his differences with Tom O'Rourke, is rapidly getting rid of superfluous flesh and is preparing for a busy campaign. He feels confident of whipping either Flynn or McCarty, in which event he intends to lay claim to the world's heavyweight championship. He says he will be willing to fight Jack Johnson next spring or summer if a battleground can be secured.

The only place in this country that will be open to Johnson is Las Vegas, N. M., where the negro beat Flynn on July 4, and Palzer says he will offer to meet Johnson there if the authorities do not interfere. But Johnson is in such disfavor now that ring experts do not believe that he will be allowed to fight even in New Mexico. He is barred in England and Australia, but France still remains open to him. O'Rourke believes that by next summer Palzer will have developed into a finished boxer and that Johnson, if a fight can be arranged, will be easy for the big white hope.

Meanwhile, Flynn and McCarty have begun hard work for their mill, with the former in high favor. McCarty's manager, however, is confident of success providing a referee can be agreed upon who will prevent Flynn from holding and hitting in the clinches. If the men indulge in a fair, square stand up combat McCarty thinks that he can outpunch Flynn, who will be handicapped as to height, weight and reach, though having by far the greater ring experience. Flynn avoided Palzer a year ago and Palzer deliberately refused to live up to articles of agreement calling for a bout with McCarty immediately after Palzer's victory over Bombardier Wells. McCarty's recent triumphs over Jim Barry and Al Kaufman have boomed his stock considerably, although it is freely admitted that the Missouri heavyweight still has much to learn about the boxing game.

Boxing Commissioner Frank S. O'Neil of New York announced recently that he had retained William Travers Jerome to defend the suit brought by Al Palzer for the return of $500 alleged to have been paid to O'Neil for trying to get a match for Palzer with Jack Johnson. The suit will come up for trial in the city court in a few days.

Eddie McGoorty, the Oshkosh middleweight who is matched to box ten rounds with Mike Gibbons of St. Paul in the Garden on Dec. 3, arrived in New York Thursday and said that he would have no trouble making the stipulated weight, 158 pounds ringside. "This will be a real battle for the middleweight championship," said McGoorty, "and if I win I will be ready to defend the title against Frank Klaus or Bill Papke. I feel sure that I can beat Gibbons and in that event I intend to visit England and France, where Klaus and Papke can be accommodated." McGoorty began training in Westchester yesterday.

Gibbons in a letter to William Gibson declares that he has recovered from the injury to his right arm and has begun work for the McGoorty bout. Gibbons weighs 154 pounds stripped and doesn't expect to reduce much before the battle, as he is very fit and strong at the present time. While there is no betting yet on the result of this much talked of encounter, there's a tendency among sporting men to regard McGoorty with some favor.

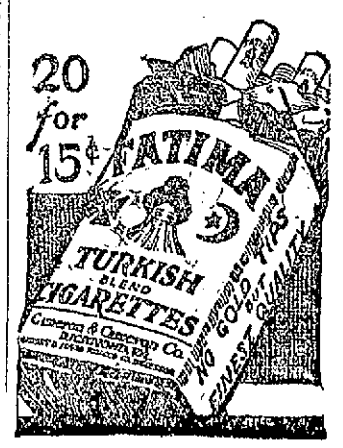

Johnny Coulon, America's bantam champion, and Charles Ledoux, the recently arrived French titleholder, saw Kid Williams defeat Billy Fitzsimmons at the Fairmont A. C. Wednesday night. Ledoux expressed a desire to meet Williams at an early date at one of the New York clubs, but Coulon said he was not in a hurry to arrange a return match with the Baltimore phenomenon. Williams on the other hand declared that he was prepared to fight Coulon 20 rounds on the coast at short notice; also that he was ready to take on the French champion here. Williams' manager said Thursday that the Kid was under a pull when he outpointed Coulon in the Garden in New York recently and that if he could induce Coulon to box 10 rounds again in this city the latter would lose his title by the knockout route.

HARVARD VS. VANDERBILT

A Great Crowd at the Stadium Today

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 9.—The Black and Gold of Vanderbilt university waved against the Crimson of Harvard in the stadium today in the first game between the most promising of southern football teams and the Harvard eleven.

The day was ideal, there being scarcely any wind and just cool enough for keen, snappy football. The Vanderbilt team, which arrived yesterday after a 1200 mile journey, spent the night quietly in Newton and planned to come over to the stadium shortly after lunch. About 25 loyal supporters of the team made the trip from the south, but there was a large delegation of southerners attending Harvard and many residents from the south in and around Boston in the stadium.

Yale Vs. Brown

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 9.—The odds favored the Blue in the annual gridiron battle on Yale field this afternoon between Yale and Brown, although the Yale coaches expected that it would be a hard fought contest. Two years ago the Brunonians came to New Haven and administered a stinging defeat to the Bulldog, but last year Yale had its revenge by winning with a comfortable margin.

Although Brown scored on Harvard, the Yale coaches were hopeful of keeping the Blue goal-line from being crossed. While the rest the Yale team had last Saturday and the suspension of practice on account of the death of Right Guard Yerk may have set the team back in its development, it brought the men to good physical condition for the game today.

The coaches decided to start Cornell at quarter today because he is a stronger player than Wheeler, although not quite as clever a field general.

The Brown eleven and subs arrived in New Haven last night from Hartford, where they spent the afternoon. The men were reported to be in prime condition.

Navy Ready for Bucknell

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 9.—The Navy's team is on edge for the battle with Bucknell this afternoon and there is a strong feeling among the Middies' adherents that their team will do its best work of the season at this game. During the week the navy coaches have gotten more in the way of real improvement drilled into their men than during any similar period and the team in practice has shown something of its accustomed dash and spirit. With Rodes at quarter, Nichols and Ingram at the halves and H. Harrison in the fullback place it is thought the final best combination has been picked for today's game.

West Point vs. Indians

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 9.—The Army team meets the Carlisle Indians here today for the first time since 1905. That game was won by the Redmen 6 to 5. The Army hoped to win today despite the speed and ability of Thorpe, the Indians' star halfback. With Captain Devore back in the Army line after a three weeks' absence the cadets were wonderfully strengthened.

Dartmouth Meets Cornell

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 9.—O'Connor, Cornell's brilliant halfback, will lead his teammates against the Dartmouth eleven in their annual game here this afternoon. This change came as a result of an injury to Captain Butler of Cornell in practice. As this is the last home game on Cornell's schedule and as the team has not played against Dartmouth for several years a large crowd is expected. The Dartmouth players are in good condition.

Princeton vs. N. Y. University

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 9.—Princeton meets New York university here today in the next to the last football game on their schedule. The Tigers are in good condition and all the regulars will start in the contest. The New York is not expected to prove a difficult proposition and the coaches will send in many subs during the game.

Today's Big Games

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Today's gridiron program in the east offered many promising attractions for football enthusiasts. The Yale-Brown and West Point-Carlisle games took large crowds from New York city but there was perhaps even wider interest in the two intersectional contests, the east and west meeting at Philadelphia in the game between Pennsylvania and Michigan and the battle at Cambridge between Harvard and Vanderbilt. Yale has not been seen on the gridiron for a fortnight and today's game was generally looked upon as a prophecy of what the Blue could be expected to do in the final championship games against Princeton and Harvard.

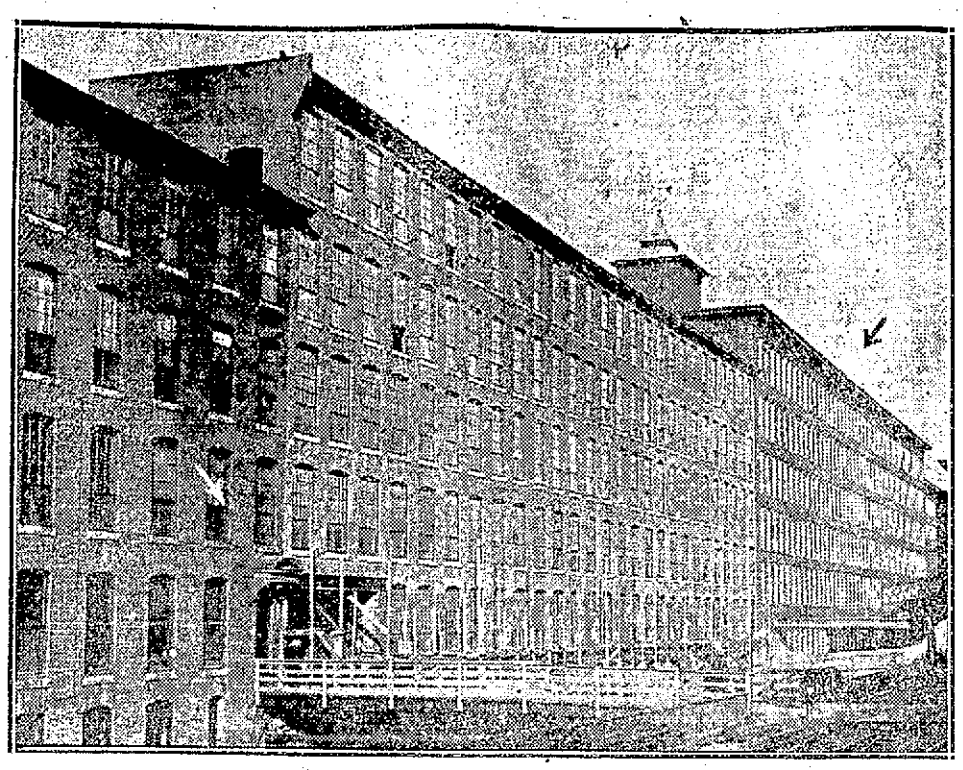

Thousands of New Yorkers were attracted to West Point for the Army-Indians battle. Many persons went for no other reason than to see in action "Jim" Thorpe, all around athletic champion of the world, and possibly the greatest individual player on the gridiron today.

Vanderbilt, although unbeaten this season and regarded as the fastest aggregation ever developed in the south, was so light compared with the Harvard eleven that betting odds favored the Crimson. That the Cambridge coaches did not expect a very trying game was indicated by their decision to keep Brickley, Wendell and some other stars on the sidelines

White Arrow Indicates Office of the Appleton Company, and Black Arrow Points to the Hamilton Mfg. Co.

The exterior of the new Appleton mill on Jackson street, which will be known as the New Number 1 mill, is completed and now all that remains to be done before the building is ready for occupancy is the interior carpenter work. This will be finished in about one month, and when done the structure will be a beautiful one, and will prove a grand acquisition to the Appleton company.

The brick work was done by Patrick O'Hearn, contractor, and it was finished two weeks ago. The roofing, which was in charge of F. H. Weaver & Son, was laid last week, and now the interior carpenter work, which is in charge of the Burton H. Wiggin company, is being done. Mr. Wiggin expects that he will be ready to vacate in about three or four weeks, and then the structure will be turned over to the company.

The erection of the building, which is five stories and basement, was started early this spring. On June 15, Mr. Wiggin and his men did their first work on the building. At that time the window sills were set up in the basement. From that time until the present, the brick work and carpenter work were carried on jointly.

The erection of the structure progressed rapidly, but the greatest progress was made during the past month. On Oct. 5 but four stories were up and work on the fifth floor was started. Since that time the entire fifth story and the roof have been finished, and the windows in all floors put in.

At the present time the carpenters are at work on the interior of the building, laying the floors and partitions, and all the lower floors are practically ready to be occupied. The company, however, will not have power in the structure until after the entire work has been finished.

The exterior of the building is of modern design, and connects the Appleton and Hamilton mills, running along the canal. It is 240 feet by 160, and when finished will be utilized by the company for general work. In some of the departments at the mill crowded conditions exist, but machinery is to be transferred from the different rooms and conditions will be improved in all departments.

Business Good at Boott

Agent Thomas of the Boott reports that business at his mill is very good at the present time. All departments are running at their full capacity, and the employes are working their regulation week. Mr. Thomas stated that as yet no successor to Victor E. Pihl, mechanical superintendent, who resigned his position, has been appointed. Mr. Pihl has gone to Peacedale, R. I., where it is understood that he will accept a postion similar to the one he held at the Boott.

Busy in Other Mills

In several of the other mills visited by a Sun reporter brisk business was reported, and the mill men feel satisfied that conditions during the winter will be very good.

Silk Ribbon Factory

While it is not generally known, it is nevertheless a fact that Lowell has one of the best equipped silk factories in this section of the country and the factory has been located here since 1903. The work is being done in the building formerly occupied by the Thorndike Mfg. Company as a suspender factory and is located on Thorndike street, just above Hale street. There are two buildings, located there, one of wood and the other a brick structure.

The silk factory is located in the wooden building, and is known as the J. A. Dalrymple & Co. Silk Ribbon factory. Offices of the company are located in Boston and Haverhill. The principal work of the company is the manufacturing of silk ribbons for shoes, while beading is also done there. The ribbon is made there and is later dyed, all being done at the Lowell factory.

The output of the factory is very large, especially so at the present time. There are 40 people employed there and all are working full time. In fact the business at present is better than ever, and work is being done on orders from South America and Cuba, and several other distant places.

The ribbons are ordered to be made and dyed, according to the size and color of the shoes. The samples are forwarded to the local factory and all shades are made here, the work being especially designed to be used with felt shoes.

The local factory is in charge of Charles D. Rodger, a local man, who is superintendent and manager. Mr. Rodger has been in charge of the plant since it opened here in 1903 and during that time much progress has been made under his capable direction.

Mr. Rodger was connected with the building long before the silk factory located there, being a foreman for his brother when the latter had charge of the suspender factory, which was located there. When the Dalrymple Co. came here they secured Mr. Rodger to take charge of the plant and he was a success from the start. In speaking of the work, Supt. Rodger said that it is work that demands great skill, and that all work must be perfect before it leaves the factory. He says that business has increased wonderfully during the last few years, and at present the business is the best since the factory was established. The shoe business is very brisk now, and as the silk ribbon manufactured there is an accessory, the latter business acts accordingly.

New Industry

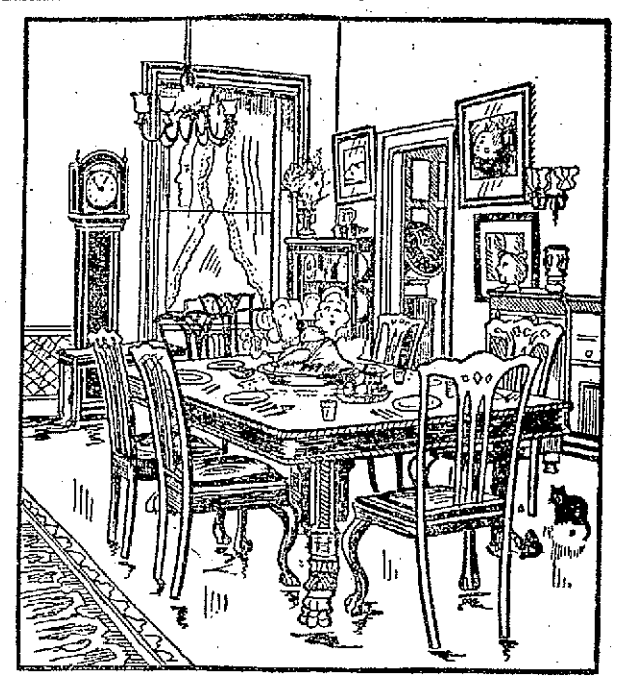

In the brick section of the building, formerly occupied by the Thorndike Mfg. Co., a new industry is being located. The latter is being established by the Johnson-Walker Co. of Providence, R. I., and will be known as the Union Webbing Co. Men are busy there setting up looms and other machinery, and the factory will be ready for occupancy within a few days. This company will manufacture ladies' cotton belts and neckties, and will employ about 60 people. Charles Godfrey of Providence has been appointed superintendent of the new factory, and he, with a number of men, are getting the place in condition to start work.

URGENT SELLING

CAUSED RENEWED UNSETTLEMENT IN TODAY'S MARKET

London's Prices For Our Issues Went Down to One to Two Points—Weakness Was in Coppers, Steel and Standard Railroad Shares

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The depressed state of the foreign market resulting from the situation in the Balkans was reflected in the weakness of the local market at today's opening. Declines of a point or more extended throughout the active list with signs of further liquidation for European account.

Further losses were incurred in the first hour with marked weakness in steel, the copper group and others. Various other issues denoted liquidation.

Urgent selling of securities abroad by reason of the latest turn in the Balkan situation caused renewed unsettlement here during today's brief session. London's prices for our issues were down one to two points, and this condition was later duplicated here. Weakness was most pronounced in the coppers and steel later, however, extending to all the standard railroad shares. Lowest prices were reached in the final dealings, at which time most of the gains resulting from Wednesday's post election rise were wiped out. The market closed weak.

FEMININE HINTS AND NOVELTIES

How Do You Like the New Headgear That Has Been Designed for the Women to Wear This Season Which is Most Attractive and Becoming

MOTOR AND EVENING MODELS.

SLOUCHY VELVET OR PLUSH HATS SET LOW ON THE HEAD A FAD OF THE SEASON.

Hat shapes are insignificant and almost commonplace in their contours this season, but the trimmings on them "play such tricks before high heaven as make the angels weep." Small hats that fit the head closely are extremely fashionable, and if one wants to be ultra chic one must wear her little hat slouched down over her head in a rowdyish, undignified fashion.

Indeed, these shapes are worn closer over the head than ever, and the approved style demands that they cover one eye and all of the hair unless the curly locks are arranged very low over the brow. So you can easily figure out that "the colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady" are going to look very like in the smart small hat of the winter.

For ordinary wear the small hats are of velvet, velours or a soft silky beaver, but whatever the material the makeup is invariably soft and almost slouchy in effect. Many of these pliable crowns have the amateurish appearance one often sees in a homemade creation that aims at Parisian chic, but falls far of the mark. It is possible to punch one of the soft crowns into all kinds of shapes without damaging its beauty in the least—in fact, every time it's hit it bobs up smiling.

The sole trimming on the small plush or velvet hat is apt to be a single rose of silk or satin posed at one side on the narrow upturned brim, and very smart. If undistinguished, it looks. However, sobered down with a nice little veil the effect is not rowdyish.

On some of the brown plush hats are extremely good looking imitations of sealskin. A fur tail laid perfectly flat against one side of the hat is the only adornment. But when one comes to study them these so called new shapes are not so widely different from those worn last year. The difference lies in a simmering down of styles. The shape that is wider at one side than the other and broader at the front than in the back is still with us.

The earmark of the best looking of the new hats is their soft and supple appearance, with trimmings so placed that they look as if they were about to fall off the head at one side. Feathers project over brims at the most perilous angles, and wings and quills find themselves flat on their backs, with a hat brim for a resting place.

Sweeping aigrets and fancy plumes are reserved to trim the Sunday best chapeau. Aigrets, by the way, are not so long as they were last year. The spirals are shorter and spread out, thereby making a better show. One wants this effect, since the bird of paradise has more than amounted to its weight in gold, so far as price is concerned. But one cannot exactly say that the bird of paradise feather is cheap this season. A recent display of Paris hats contained an adorable little model with shallow upturned brim and soft crown developed in Russian squirrel skin. This fur is the wealthy relative of the poor little grubbing gray animal we know so well and love, but would hardly recognize in the cultured pelt of mole color marked with black that distinguishes its Russian kinsman. The sole trimming on the squirrel skin hat was a paradise plume of the same mole gray shade, and the price for the confection was $89.

Black and white effects are with us, to be sure, but they will not rule everything as they did last year. Black hats garnished with white for dressy wear will always be a la mode.

And in connection with these ceremonious shapes the picture hat is never out of fashion. It alters in details only. This year we are back to soft, furry felts with wavy brims, to velvet and satin, of course, and even to old world brocades. Furniture brocade is used with great effect for some picture hats, which are each trimmed with a sweeping plume or a single sable skin.

An inch wide facing of contrasting tone is often very becoming and striking, as is an under edge if it be white in the same material as the hat itself.

The way of wearing a hat this season has everything to do with its style. This idea is best illustrated by glancing at the hat with towering plume seen in one of the cuts. This hat is tipped at such an angle that the ostrich pom pom stands almost erect. The hat could also be worn straight, the pom pom slanting out toward the left side.

Tiny close fitting bonnets are wonderfully fetching as an accompaniment to elaborate afternoon costumes, and the one illustrated of white plush with a gray and blue embroidered band trimming and a touch of sealskin on the brim, is charming.

As an example of audaciously placed trimmings on hats look at the angle of the feather on one of the hats pictured. It is a model of plush and felt with a fabric quill of silk. Who would have dreamed a season or two ago of slanting a hat feather out sideways in this pert manner? Yet the effect is undeniably chic, as the illustration shows. The smart sailor of brown velvet is a delightful example of the way in which fur is being used to trim winter hats. Skunk is the pelt employed for the hat, muff and neckpiece. A bow of orange velvet and orange silk roses add ohio to the hat.

FOUND GUILTY OF THREATENING

Man Ordered to Pay a Fine of $15—Other Cases Heard in Police Court Today

This morning's session of the police court proved to be another of those long drawn out affairs, there being a diversity of cases and one particular case proved lengthy inasmuch as it was necessary to use an interpreter.

Guilty of Threatening

John Gaukas was charged with drunkenness and threatening John Vingren. He pleaded guilty to drunkenness, but not guilty to threatening.

Nellie Vingren, a bright girl about 12 years of age, testified that Gaukas and two other men called at her home, 328 Adams street, about 8 o'clock Wednesday morning and asked for her father. She told them that her father was not in the house. They returned later and inquired for the father and for the second time she told them her father was not in. They came a third time, and upon learning that Vingren was not at home, it is alleged told the witness that they were going to kill her father and mother and a man who lived down stairs.

The girl said that each of the men had a knife up his coat sleeve and on the third visit to the house and finding that the father was not at home, Gaukas struck the table with his fist and his knife fell out of his sleeve and dropped to the floor. She picked up the knife and hid it and subsequently the police were notified of the threat.

Mrs. Vingren, who was present when the men called, corroborated the testimony offered by the preceding witness, her daughter, and said when she asked the men why they wanted to kill her husband, Gaukas said: "I must kill him because he is a witness in a case in police court." Gaukas said he was also going to kill the man who lived downstairs.

John Vingren said he is afraid of the defendant on account of the latter calling at his house, and threatening to do him bodily harm. He said Gaukas threatened him in a saloon about a year ago, but had never had any trouble with the man. Witness said he was a defendant in court a short time ago and Gaukas' daughter had testified against him, but he had no ill feeling against Gaukas for that incident.

John Gaukas, the defendant, said that he and John and Stanislaw Dudek called to see a friend in a house in Adams street shortly after eight o'clock Wednesday morning. He denied that he called at Vingren's house and said he never carried a knife on his person. Witness, however, later changed his story and said he saw Mrs. Vingren in the doorway and she asked him what they wanted and he said, "If your husband is in we will speak to him."

The court after considering the evidence in the case found Gaukas guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $15 for threatening and $8 for drunkenness.

Case Continued

Couple Sent to Jail

John E. Lee and Susan E. Waldron were arrested in a lodging house in Middlesex street last night by Patrolmen Sheridan and O'Keefe, and when arraigned in police court this morning on complaints of drunkenness and adultery they entered a plea of guilty. Each was sentenced to six months in jail.

Lewd Cohabitation

The cases of Arthur A. Beauregard and Mary E. Howe, charged with drunkenness and lewd and lascivious cohabitation, came up on continuance. During the course of the testimony offered it was brought out that Beauregard is married and has a wife and family. Both were found guilty, the man being sentenced to six months in the house of correction and the woman was given a suspended sentence to the women's reformatory and placed on probation for one year. Beauregard appealed.

Drunken Offenders

Harry A. Bent, charged with drunkenness, has been drunk since he was released from jail, hanging around bar rooms and doesn't live with his family, according to the testimony of Patrolmen Dooley and Killoy. He was sentenced to two months in jail.

James E. Butler, while under the influence of liquor yesterday, called at his home and when refused admittance kicked in the door and put his wife out of the house. Mrs. Butler notified Patrolman Flanagan and the latter placed Butler under arrest. The court sentenced him to the state farm.

Frank H. Fifield was fined $6.

WANTED DANS PUT UNDER BONDS

Master Pevey Declined Motion of Dakota Dan's Counsel--- Teacher a Witness

BOSTON, Nov. 9—Miss Hattie Keith, the Melrose music teacher, who was the sweetheart of Daniel Blake Russell, was a witness for "Dakota Dan" yesterday afternoon at East Cambridge. She had given her testimony in part before, but her examination was suspended until after the claimant himself should finish his story under cross-examination. That happened at noon.

The testimony of Miss Keith was strong and candidly for the claimant. She declared in firm tones, with an air of conviction, that she had "no doubt and never had any doubt" that the claimant was Daniel Blake Russell. Her cross-examination was not finished when court adjourned until Monday.

When the examination of the claimant was concluded just before noon yesterday, Mr. Scharton, who had tried to get the Middlesex county grand jury to take up the alleged perjury in the case, which he contended had been committed by one or the other of the Dans, made a demand that Master Pevey place both "Dakota Dan" and "Fresno Dan" under bonds so that their presence would be secured until the case was finished. Master Pevey declined to take such action.

Paid $1.50 a Day by Estate

A little later Deputy Sheriff Harry I. Walker stepped up to "Dakota Dan" and handed him a paper and some money. The claimant glanced at it and took it over to Mr. Scharton.

"Look what the other side has given," he said.

It was a summons made out to "James D. Russell, alias James D. Rousseau, alias James D. Rusaw, calling himself Daniel Blake Russell," and ordering him to be present from day to day until the final disposition of the case.

"What did they give you with it?" demanded Mr. Scharton.

"They gave me $2," said the claimant, and he added with a humorous twinkle, "it's $2 of my own money."

Hereafter the respondents will each day have to pay the claimant $1.50 under his summons. "Fresno Dan," who has testified that his allowance since he has been accepted as the real Daniel Blake Russell was $10 a week, was not in court and has not been for several weeks. Both Dans apparently are now drawing an equal amount from the Russell estate.

In finishing his redirect examination of the claimant yesterday Mr. Scharton asked if the fact that his father would not buy him clothing was the real cause of his leaving home in 1885. He said it was not the only one. He said that he had told his mother something he discovered concerning his father. He also said that his relations with his brother, William, had not been pleasant. William, he said, had chased him out of the tool room twice with a hatchet and had kicked him out of bed and frequently pulled the bed clothing off him.

Reason Why He Didn't Show Scar

The claimant said he had scratched his name on the inside of a bell his father had given for the town hall and that when he came back to Melrose after his long absence he and his counsel had found a part of the name where he had put it with his knife. He also told of saving two children who had fallen into a ditch partly filled with water.

To Mr. Scharton the claimant declared he had never written any letters or sent any photographs to the Rousseau family in New York state. The claimant denied that he had ever been coached or tutored as to persons or places in Melrose by Frank E. Morton in Dakota, he said, but had told Morton things about Melrose. He said his trunks in Dakota had been broken into and a lot of letters and photographs had been stolen.

He said he had not testified at the first trial that he had a scar on his leg such as the real Daniel Russell was known to have, because his counsel told him if he told about the scar the people who were to testify that he was James D. Rousseau would swear Rousseau had a scar like it.

He said he disguised his handwriting to Mr. Almy because he didn't know what they were going to do with it.

"If William, my brother, had asked me for it he could have had it at any time," he continued. "But they wouldn't let me see him. I didn't know how to treat a gang of rogues."

Why He Put a Coat Over His Head

Mr. Nason asked the claimant why he had put a coat over his head while he was in Malone, N. Y., during a recess of the former trial. He said his counsel advised him to do so. There was a crowd of people around who threatened if they could not see him they would break in the door. He didn't know but that he might be killed.

He said detectives were trying to get a picture of him to give to some of the Rousseaus.

"While you were there didn't you have some people see you for the purpose of saying that you were not Rousseau?" Mr. Nason asked.

"Yes," replied the claimant.

"Who was it?"

The claimant was asked about a picture of himself that at the last trial was testified to as having been in the house of one of the Rousseaus for years. He declared he had one like it in the trunk which was broken into in Dakota. He would not swear that the one Mr. Nason showed him was the one that was stolen from his trunk. But it was one like it.

That closed the examination of the claimant. Then Mr. Scharton argued for holding the two Dans under bonds. He declared it would be an object lesson to other witnesses to prevent them coming over here to give perjured testimony. He did not think it would prejudice either side if bonds were exacted from both claimants.

Mr. Nason strongly objected that the proceedings would be unusual and unnecessary.

Master Pevey said he was not ready as yet to decide that perjury had been committed by either of the two Dans, as he had not heard all the evidence.

Miss Keith Resumes Testimony

Miss Keith told of her first meeting with the claimant after his return to Melrose in 1909. She said he looked the same as he did when he went away, except that he was older and larger. She knew his voice and said he had the same bashful manner of hanging his head.

"Was his manner of greeting more effusive than it used to be?" Mr. Scharton asked.

"No," replied the witness.

"Did he relate incidents known only to yourselves?"

"Yes," said the witness. "He reminded me of the days he used to walk home from school with me. He also told me of sharpening my pencils for me, which was true. He recalled to me that he used to want me to stay in with him at school when he could not go out at recess.

"Did Mr. Almy call on you?" Mr. Scharton asked.

"Yes, once. He said he came to me because I knew Daniel Blake Russell better than any girl in Melrose and that he was partial to me. He said he'd consider it a favor if I would go and interview him when he returned, if he should. Mr. Almy also said he was a French Canadian and could not read or write. He told me that if I did interview him not to give him any points."

"Did you know of 'Fresno Dan's' coming to Melrose?"

"I heard of it in the court room."

"Did Mr. Almy see you in regard to interviewing him?"

"No, sir."

Witness then repeated her statement that the claimant is Daniel Blake Russell.

Know Him Instantly

To Miss Nason, Miss Keith said that when she saw the claimant in her home July 9, 1909, her recognition of him was instantaneous.

Miss Keith declared he spoke first. He said: "How do you do, Miss Keith. You look the same as you always did."

"On the day the claimant passed your house in an auto did not Mr. Edmund Gould say to you that he was the claimant and did not you say that you wouldn't have known him?"

"No, sir."

"With your recollection of Daniel Blake Russell when he went away did you expect to see a man of the athletic carriage, the power and grace of this man here?"

"I should say that Daniel Blake Russell was a well built young man whom I would expect to grow into just such a man as he is now."

The witness admitted that in company with the claimant she had called on persons in Melrose, among them Miss Conant, Mrs. Westgate, Mrs. Bryant, Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Cook. She also called with the claimant on others outside of Melrose on the matter of the claimant's identification.

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—United States Customs Inspectors William J. Sleet and J. F. McKenna yesterday raided the premises at 32 Tyler street and arrested Yee Sing on the charge of concealing, selling and having in his possession opium. Veteran's Will Allowed

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—The will of Andrew J. Cassidy, leaving his property with $20,000 to his life-long friends, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Rich of Dorchester, was allowed by Judge Morton in the supreme court yesterday. The contestants withdrew objections because of inability to show relationship to the testator. They were Mrs. Mary B. Lambert and Mrs. Elizabeth McAlduff.

The testator was a drummer boy in the Civil war and for years was in the orchestra of the Boston theatre and also in Carter's Military band. He taught drumming. He was 70 years old when he died in February last. For years he lived with Mr. and Mrs. Rich.

MORE LETTERS READ

At the "Dynamite Trial" in Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 9.—"I inclose a photograph which I took from the gallery."

That was the way Edward Smythe, secretary of an Ironworkers' union at Peoria, Ill., sent to the union's international headquarters at Indianapolis a photograph of Herbert S. Hockin, member of the executive board, which had been taken from the rogues' gallery in the police department, according to letters produced yesterday by the government at the trial of the accused "dynamite conspirators."

John J. McNamara's reply to Smythe, as read, was as follows:

"That was not the way to send that photo. Hereafter when you find photos of members of the executive board in the rogues' gallery put them in a separate envelope and mark them personal. Pres. Ryan was present when your letter came and I told him he had a fine executive board."

Hockin, accused by Ortie E. McManigal as the director of the "flying squad of dynamiters," and now successor to McNamara, was said by the government to have been photographed in Detroit, where he formerly lived.

After the loss of life at the Los Angeles explosion and during the six months before the arrest of the dynamiters, McNamara wrote letters to members of the union cautioning them to be "careful" as to the kind of letters they sent to headquarters. It was charged in connection with the reading of a McNamara letter to Murray L. Fannell, Springfield, Ill., as follows:

The government produced a notice head "warning" and signed by Pres. Frank M. Ryan and Hockin, which was published in the Union Magazine a month after the McNamaras were arrested, and the purpose of which, the government alleges, was to induce the members to destroy evidence about dynamitings.

Judge A. B. Anderson prohibited the government from introducing as evidence a copy of records of the court of Bristol county, Mass. George O'Donnell had been indicted on a charge of causing an explosion at Somerset, Mass., June 15, 1908, but he was convicted on a minor charge and on being released he escaped a second arrest. The government asserted that Frank C. Webb of New York paid $580 of O'Donnell's expenses out of the union's funds.

Accusations that Philip A. Cooley, New Orleans, had an ironworker admitted to membership in the union to do dynamiting and that Cooley planned to blow up works at Houston, Texas, were detailed by the government.

A McNamara letter dated Jan. 10, 1911, to Cooley, was read:

"It seems to be common knowledge that a certain member was admitted for a purpose and all the details seem to be known by several people. I am of the opinion that it would be unwise to do anything whatever. Under existing circumstances a person cannot be too careful, for there are so many persons acting as informers.

"Another report received was that you wanted some organizing work done for much less than it was worth and much less than was set aside for this particular job. I can understand how that would be if some fore-flusher got all the particulars and then got cold feet, he would justify himself by saying somebody was double-crossing him."

To Improve Channel

BANGOR, Me., Nov. 9.—An expenditure of about $1,000,000 for the improvement of the St. John River channel and the building of new dams is suggested in the report of engineers who have been employed for the past year by the international St. John river commission. The river forms a part of the northeastern boundary line of the United States and is used extensively for log driving.

The commission, which is composed of men appointed by the United States and Canada, will consider the report of the engineers at a hearing in this city Nov. 14.

WITNESSES SET FREE

They Spent a Long Time in Jail

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Eleven, sailors held as witnesses against Vicent Maria, cook of the American schooner, Margaret Thomas, who is charged with the murder of the master of that vessel, Capt. James T. Delano, while lying at Port au Prince, Martinique, were discharged yesterday by U. S. Commissioner Hayes in the Federal building. Three of them will go to Port au Prince where the alleged murderer will be tried.

The men have been in East Cambridge jail for the past three months and the seven not wanted in the West Indies were paid off, the compensation of each being $1 per day. The money of the other three was held up, payment being dependent upon their reporting at the trial.

CAUGHT IN HEAVY GALE

Schooner Walcott Towed Into Vineyard Haven

VINEYARD HAVEN, Nov. 9.—With her seams strained so badly that it was necessary to keep the pumps working constantly to prevent sinking, the four-masted schooner George Walcott of Portland was today towed into the harbor here by a tug. The Walcott encountered violent southeast gales off Block Island Thursday. She lost both of her small boats and when picked up by the tug her cabins were filled with water and cabin partitions broken down.

The Walcott was bound from Newport News for Bangor with a cargo of coal. Temporary repairs will be made here and she will proceed to her destination under sail.

JACK AND JILL INJURED.

Fall Down Steep Hill Which They Had Ascended in Quest of Water -- Both Will Recover.

Jack and Jill, the two charming children of Mr. Jack Jill and Mrs. Jill, were the unfortunate victims yesterday of a painful though not necessarily dangerous contretemps. The accident occurred on the slope of the hill near the home of the two injured children at 304 Mount Vernon avenue.

The well from which the Jills procure their water is situated on the apex of this small mountain. Ordinarily wells are placed at the foot of hills, but that is where the Jill well differs from the common or garden variety. It would have been much easier and cheaper for Mr. Jill to have had his water hole put in at the foot of the slope in question. But he happens to be an earnest advocate of violent exercise for the young and when the well arrived from New York he had it inserted at the top. Thus, much against their wishes, the Jill children have, by dint of carrying heavy buckets up and water down the hill, blossomed into the robust childhood which came so near to an untimely end yesterday.

Jack will be seven years of age the middle of next month, and Jill is some two years his junior. In spite of their tender years they are so well developed that they survived an accident which would have been fatal to many a grown person. The Jill family's constant use of the dampness has contributed a good deal to this. In addition to a couple of horses, the family numbers among its pets a small flock of Pekin ducks. The horses have a continual thirst and the duck pond is always calling for water which the two must supply. Then every Saturday night the bath tub has to be filled several times from the same source. There was an older boy, Jerry by name, who used to help with the bucket, but he was a bit wild and one dark evening two years ago he ran away after having simultaneously dropped his bucket and the remark that he was "going to beat it for some land where wells grew on level ground." He has never been heard from since, and it is believed that as an extra precaution he joined the army under an assumed name.

About 11.30 o'clock yesterday morning Mrs. Jill came to the kitchen door and called to the two children who were playing out back of the hen house.

"Jack," said she, "you'll have to lope up the hill and bring down a can of water for dinner."

"Not on your life!" remonstrated Jack, who takes after his wild brother somewhat. "Who brought the last bucket of water? I did—and it's Jill's time now."

"My time!" snapped Jill, "I brought the last bucket myself. Besides she's already told you."

Mrs. Jill's nose whispered in her ear that the roast was burning. So not having time to hear all the evidence, she handed down a decision that will stack up pretty well against Solomon's best.

"You'll both go for the water," said she, "and if I hear of any scrapping on the way there'll be a business session in the woodshed when your father comes home tonight. Now show some speed."

The two grumbled a bit but took the pail by the arm and started out. However the alleged injustice rankled in the lad's bosom, and to get back at his sister he stopped at Dago Frank's fruit stand, which is just opposite the Jill home, and squandered a couple of pennies on as many bananas. He devoured these on the way up, interspersing his bites with praise of the delicacy of the fruit, but he did not offer any to his sister.

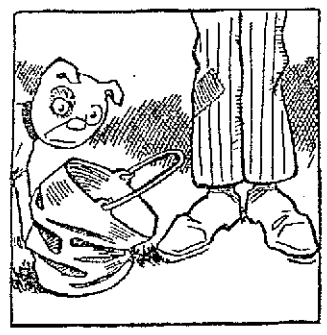

Having arrived at the well, Jill filled the pail, managing to dexterously spill a good deal of water on Jack, who was just tending to the last of the second banana. As the latter reached for his side of the pail his shoe lit on a piece of the banana's overcoat which he had carelessly cast aside. After turning several complete somersaults in the air Jack lit on his bean and started rapidly down hill.

She clapped her hands and jumped up and down in her glee. In coming down from one of these jumps her own foot found the elusive bit of peeling and she was soon following her brother in an irregular and highly painful course down the hill. The pail, to make it unanimous, rattled along after them.

They landed at the bottom in a confused heap. All of them were unconscious when the ambulance came, except the pail. The two were hurried to Mercy Hospital, where a hasty examination was made by Dr. Shiras, M. D. It was found that Jack had sustained a slight fracture of the skull just to the rear of the left ear. Jill, it is feared, is internally injured. Their injuries are not thought to be dangerous. The bucket was a total loss.

"Pretty soft," Jack said to a reporter soon after regaining consciousness. "All I gotta do here is lay back on the goose feathers and push the button for ice water. No chasing up that little Mount McKinley after water for the ducks to navigate in. They say I won't be out for a couple of weeks—I don't care a fraction of a rap whether I ever get out or not." Jill declined to make a statement.

Condition of pail after the accident.

Dr. Ignatz Von Bugberg, an expert connected with the Chemical Bureau of the City Health Bureau, declared, after a microscopic interview with some of the water from the well, that their lives were probably saved by their painful fall.

"Each drop of that water," he declared, "is a complete zoo of deadly germs. There is a full colony of microbes for every complaint from hangnails to Bubonic plague. They are there so thick that they need straps to hang on. I have repeatedly warned the inhabitants of this part of town against using water from this well. I shall at once recommend that the well be pulled up and destroyed."

Mrs. Jill stated last night that she was thankful that her children had side-stepped the Grim Reaper. She said that when the well was planned she advocated putting it in at the bottom of the hill, and that she would use her influence to have her husband fit the shack with pipes and connect onto a city water main.

Both Jack and Jill were resting comfortably at a late hour last night.

WORTHY LESSON FROM LAWRENCE

The city of Lawrence has been widely criticized in the press of the country on account of the industrial conditions which were made to appear very much worse than they really were. But we are glad to say a good word for the city of Lawrence in regard to the work it has done and is doing for the prevention of tuberculosis.

The Lawrence board of health has issued one of the best circulars on the prevention and cure of tuberculosis that it has been our privilege to see; and such circulars are sent in great numbers to the newspaper offices. This circular from Lawrence is couched in very simple language and is of reasonable length, although it is as comprehensive as some that are much larger.

The circular first explains tuberculosis, how it is contracted and how it proves fatal. The subject of cure is treated under three heads, namely, Faith, Hope and Charity. The final section on prevention is as follows:—

It is a public duty to prevent the spread of disease. Tuberculosis is a communicable disease. Consumptives should be more careful than sufferers from other sicknesses.

Consumptives should avoid the use of alcohol. They should have nine hours sleep, sleeping alone if possible, and in rooms to themselves.

Sleeping room windows should be kept open day and night, in all weathers. They should provide themselves with individual dining utensils, drinking cups, towels, etc.

Consumptives cough up much matter or sputum. It is highly dangerous to all healthy persons because it contains large number of tubercle bacilli or germs capable of transmitting the disease.

Consumptives should never swallow sputum, for in this way the disease is spread to other parts of the body. Males should wear no beard or mustache to which germ-laden sputum may adhere.

Those suffering from tuberculosis should never spit on floors, sidewalks, or public places, for sputum quickly dries, becomes powdered and flies around as clouds of highly-infected poisoned dust.

They should not spit on handkerchiefs or rags, for later these will soil the hands, face and clothing. Avoid the nasty house fly; they carry germs on their feet.

Consumptives should wipe their lips with paper napkins. These should be held before the mouth when coughing or sneezing, to catch the fine spit particles thrown out. When used once the napkin should be burned.

Careless consumptives give the disease to other persons, but if precautions are taken the disease can be arrested, isolated in the few patients, treated and cured.

Lawrence having a tuberculosis hospital is well equipped to fight this disease, but Lowell having no institution in which it can be treated at any stage must suffer greatly from its ravages until such time as we can provide such a hospital.

Some years ago the people were led to believe that a contagious hospital would soon be built, but for some reason the project was dropped in the midst of a controversy over the selection of a site. There are plenty of sites for a contagious or even for a tuberculosis hospital, and as the statutes make it imperative upon cities like Lowell to provide a hospital for the isolation of contagious diseases, it remains to be seen how long Lowell can continue in its present course without any suitable place for the isolation and treatment of contagious diseases, including tuberculosis.

It would seem that to meet the requirements of a city of 100,000 people, two distinct hospitals would be needed, one for such diseases as diphtheria and scarlet fever and another for consumptive cases. The lack of money seems to be the only obstacle; but it would be better to borrow money to build a hospital of moderate size first and have it so constructed and located that it could be easily added to as the resources of the city might permit and necessity demand.

THE BALKAN WAR

People at this distance can have but little conception of the tragic events being enacted in Turkey. The capture of Saloniki by the Greek forces was preceded by the pillage of the city by the Turks and the massacre of the Christian residents. This victory by the Greeks, attended as it was by the capture of 27,000 prisoners, is one of the fatal blows to Turkish power in Europe. The Bulgarian armies on the other hand have the stronghold of Adrianople ready to surrender and are at the gates of Constantinople. In all probability by Monday or at the latest some time next week, this historic city will be in possession of the Bulgarian army, and the Sultan and his court will have fled to Asia Minor. Then the Balkan allies will be in a position to dictate the terms of peace, and they will do so without any obsequious deference to the powers of Europe. It is quite probable that European Turkey will be partitioned among the allies and that a new arrangement will be made with the powers in regard to Constantinople, the navigation of the Dardanelles and the Sea of Marmora. Nothing but good can result from this war which brings to Turkey terrible retribution for the many fiendish atrocities perpetrated by Turkey upon the Christians within her dominions. War is terrible while it lasts, and this war in particular has a double terror in the fact that the Turks are determined as a last resort to massacre all the Christian residents they can find before fleeing before the enemy. It is to be hoped that the struggle will soon be terminated and that thereafter the power of Turkey reduced to one of international insignificance will be confined to a small portion of the Asiatic continent.

INDEPENDENCE FOR THE PHILIPPINES

President-elect Wilson has received a cablegram of congratulation from Sergio Osmena, speaker of the Philippine assembly. The Filipino official reminds President-elect Wilson of the democratic pledge to grant the Philippines complete independence in accordance with the reiterated petitions of the Philippine assembly. This is a question on which the democratic party is strongly committed against the imperial policy and in favor of granting the Philippines an independent government.

In the last democratic platform one of the planks reaffirmed the party's thrice announced attitude against imperialism and colonial exploitation of the Philippines. On the question of granting the islands independence the platform said: "We favor an immediate declaration of the nation's purpose to recognize the independence of the Philippine islands as soon as a stable government can be established, such independence to be guaranteed by us until the neutralization of the islands can be secured by treaty with other powers. In recognizing the independence of the Philippines, our government should retain such lands as may be necessary for coaling stations and naval bases."

It is quite likely that President-elect Wilson will urge a declaration of the party's policy towards the Philippines during the first session of congress next year.

THE PARTY LEADERS

President Taft is planning how to save the republican party from extinction while Col. Roosevelt is formulating a scheme by which he can finish the work of annihilating it in the next two years and making the new Bull Moose party the only political body to wield effective opposition to the democratic party. President Wilson and the new congress will carry out their pledges in a manner that will put both the other parties off the map for a very considerable period.

THE NEXT LEGISLATURE

It is estimated that the Massachusetts senate will have 27 republicans and 13 democrats and the house 135 republicans, 95 democrats, six progressives and four others. On a joint ballot the republican party will have a plurality of 54. That means that no democratic candidate for U. S. senator will have any chance of election.

Seen and Heard

Is it strange or isn't it, that men who are interested in politics will read the story of an election in their favorite paper and immediately proceed to forget all about the figures? A group of men were discussing election returns last night at the club and not one of them could come within 40 rows of apple trees of the vote polled in this city by any of the candidates. In view of their failure to remember votes, majorities, etc., the thought occurred to me that I might serve a good purpose by re-publishing some of the figures and here goes: The city vote for president was as follows: Wilson, dem., 6459; Roosevelt, prog., 3752; Taft, rep., 3034. For governor—Foss, dem., 6367; Walker, rep., 3016; Bird, prog., 2718. For lieutenant-governor, Walsh, dem., 5630; Luce rep., 3610; Cosgrove, prog., 2458. For congressman—O'Sullivan, dem., 6534; Rogers, rep., 5044; Osgood, prog., 867. For councilor, Hogan, dem., 6380; Simpson, rep., 3799; Hunter, prog., 1553. Mr. Hogan received the biggest vote of any candidate, not excepting Gov. Foss whom he led by 72 votes.

Here is a genuine case of professional pride.

"A millionaire cattleman led a visitor into his library, a great room lined with thousands of books.

"See them?" said he.

"Yes," replied the visitor.

"They're all bound in calf, ain't they?"

"Yes," the visitor agreed, "they seem to have a uniform binding."

The millionaire (swelling with pride)—"Well, sir, I raised all them calves myself!"

Two telegraph operators were seated in a down town cafe recently when an athletic young man and an exceedingly pretty girl entered. They were placed at a table opposite the "key" men, who were sitting side by side in a position facing the girl. As is the custom of the craft when wishing to discuss some one in a public place they telegraphed to each other using their knives on the plate.

"Peacherino, isn't she?" one ticked to the other.

"Bet they aren't married. If they are, all she needs to do to get a divorce is to exhibit that map of his in court."

While the two men were enjoying a huge laugh over their silent joking they were surprised and somewhat alarmed to hear some more "table knife telegraphy." The "peacherino" was doing it, and she did not look at all pleased, either.

"You two had better look out while you are all together," carelessly ticked her knife blade while she listened to something her companion was saying. "This sack and boob, as you called him, with the divorce map, is my husband—safe mover by trade. He eats fresh little boys."

Something happened to the "wires" about that time, and all communication ceased.

CONTENTMENT

I had my dream and so I lived content;
A dream beneath the wide, kind skies of old;
Out in the orchard where the soft winds bent
The swaying branches and strange stories told
Of life within the far-off town of men—
Mad music on the highway and the gleam
Of glory on life's firing line—and then
I lived content because of such a dream.

I have my dream and so I live content—
A dream within the gray walls of the town,
Of oldtime orchard lanes, the fragrant scent
Of mignonette and roses—fields of brown
And golden harvest—the remembered glow
Of God's lost sunshine waning to the gleam
Of star-lit dusk, back home again, and so
I live content because of such a dream.

Leg Fractured

Thomas Welch living on the Groton road in North Chelmsford, met with a serious accident while riding on the handle bars of the motorcycle owned by Mr. Paul Scribner. The two had turned out for an approaching automobile when Welch was thrown heavily from the handle bars sustaining a fractured leg. He was assisted home by Mr. Scribner and was attended by Dr. Varney, who, assisted by Dr. T. L. Gage, set the broken limb. Today he is resting quite comfortably.

HOW GIRLS MAY AVOID PERIODIC PAINS

The Experience of Two Girls Here Related For The Benefit of Others.

Rochester, N. Y.—"I have a daughter 13 years old who has always been very healthy until recently when she complained of dizziness and cramps every month, so bad that I would have to keep her home from school and put her to bed to get relief.

"After giving her only two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound she is now enjoying the best of health. I cannot praise your Compound too highly. I want every good mother to read what your medicine has done for my child."—Mrs. RICHARD N. DUNHAM, 311 Exchange St., Rochester, N.Y.

Stoutsville, Ohio.—"I suffered from headaches, backache and was very irregular. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and before I had taken the whole of two bottles I found relief. I am only sixteen years old, but I have better health than for two or three years. I cannot express my thanks for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I had taken other medicines but did not find relief."—Miss CORA B. FOSNAUGH, Stoutsville, Ohio, R.F.D., No. 1.

Hundreds of such letters from mothers expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished for their daughters have been received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

RESCUED HIS COMRADE

Man Dives Into Tangle of Debris in Cellar

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Patrick Monahan, iron worker, was, in his own eyes, only doing a comrade an ordinary "good turn" when he made a daring dive yesterday and saved the life of Walter Gugger, his young helper, in skyscraper construction.

Gugger lost his balance on the second floor and fell headlong, striking against girders, into a basement filled with eight feet of water and a tangle of iron and wood. Monahan shinned down a pillar one floor and then, heedless of the obstructions, plunged after the lad into the hidden perils of the pool. Struggling amid the debris he made several fruitless dives before finally bringing Gugger to the surface, and finding him still alive although unconscious.

It was not Monahan, but his comrades who told the story. Monahan only said:

"Well, if I fell, Gugger would have gone after me in the same way."

SUITS ARE ENTERED

Following Hot Campaign in Cambridge

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Eight suits for $5000 each were filed yesterday in Cambridge by Representatives James W. Bean and C. Burnside Seagrave against Russell D. Crane, a fellow member of the house, and three Cambridge newspapers, the Standard, the Times and the Recorder.

The actions are a sequel of the bitter political campaign waged between the republicans and progressives in Cambridge.

An open letter was sent to Seagrave & Bean, editors and publishers of the Cambridge Chronicle, and published verbatim in the Standard, Times and Recorder, Oct. 26. The records of Bean & Seagrave, both in their city and state political life, were criticised.

Representative Crane had been listed as a republican and was elected to the house of representatives for two terms from the third Middlesex district by the republican party. Last July he became a progressive.

Representative Seagrave was also a representative from the third district at the last session of the house, and ran for re-election last Tuesday.

During the campaign the Chronicle editorially commented on Representative Crane and his manner of campaign. Representative Crane in an open letter to the Chronicle criticised Bean and Seagrave and sent copies of the letter to all the Cambridge papers.

BILLERICA

At the regular morning service of the North Billerica Baptist church the Rev. W. E. Waterbury of Boston will preach. At the evening service Rev. C. H. Williams will speak on the subject, "A Great Feast With Ample Room." Mr. Fred Booth will sing at the evening service.

The Williams Bible class will hold its meeting at 12 o'clock and will discuss the subject, "Progress on Temperance Reform."

The Chambre club, an organization connected with the St. Anne's mission, held its regular monthly meeting last Tuesday evening in the parish house. Aside from the regular business it was voted to hold its monthly meeting on the first Tuesday of each month instead of the first Monday as they have done in the past.

Mr. Charles Hurst, the well known butcher of North Billerica, has given up his business to accept a position with J. Smith of Gorham street, Lowell.

The meeting of the Billerica board of trade will be held in the town hall, Billerica Centre Nov. 11, at 7.45 o'clock.

STRUCK BY AUTO

An automobile owned and operated by Dr. Joseph A. Mehan, while passing along Merrimack near the corner of Central street about six o'clock last night, struck and knocked down a four-year-old girl. The accident occurred just as the mill operatives were on their way to their homes and it is believed that the child in trying to avoid the crowd stepped directly in front of the machine.

The little one was taken into Hall & Lyon's drug store, where it was found she was suffering from several minor bruises about the left eye. After she had been attended she was able to go to her home.

Start the Day Warm With a PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

SLEEPING with the windows open is a "first aid" to health and beauty. But it makes getting up in the morning a chilly ordeal.

With a Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater you dress in comfort on the coldest day.

A touch of a match, and the Perfection is aglow in a minute. Later, you can carry it to any other room, and breakfast, read or sew in comfort.

In fact, a Perfection Heater is just as good as a fire, and much cleaner and more convenient.

It is a handsome heater, too. Ask your dealer to show you a Perfection, or write for descriptive catalogue.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Opera House

If a married woman really loved another and was sued for divorce would she face the publicity and grilling of a court or let her case go by default? That is one of the problems which arises in "A Butterfly On the Wheel" the play which enjoyed such an immense vogue in New York last season and London the year before. Everyone who has heard of this play—and it seems to have earned a national reputation—knows that one of the scenes takes place in a courtroom where the trial of Mrs. Admaston, sued for divorce by her husband, the Right Hon. George Admaston, M. P., is in progress. The way in which this scene has been staged and the almost heartless manner in which the frail little witness is examined have made the play the talk both of New York and London. It has had much to do, too, with its popularity but the entire story is clever and interesting enough to stand upon its merits without the trial. There will be a matinee and an evening performance of "A Butterfly on the Wheel" today.

"LITTLE BOY BLUE"

Next Tuesday, Nov. 12th, Henry W. Savage will present at the Opera House, direct from Boston, "Little Boy Blue," Rudolph Schanzer and Carl Lindau provided the book and lyrics, and Henry Bereny composed the music. It was put in proper form for production in this country by A. E. Thomas and Edward Paulton and proved to be the daintiest and most pleasing of the many musical plays offered in New York last season.

The story has to do with the adventures of a Parisian barmaid—who is the half-sister of the heir to a Scottish estate—and for whom Lord Goberdeen, an uncle is searching in the French capital. She is induced to assume boy's clothing by one Dupont a detective and masquerades as her brother—accompanying the braw Highlander back to Scotland.

Her deception is discovered but at the proper time the real "Boy Blue" appears on the scene and the situation is saved.

"MADAME X"

The noted novelist and dramatist, Alexandre Bisson is at his best in "Madame X." In the selection of the present company for "Madame X," the management exercised great care, not only in engaging artists of positive ability, but types that fill the visual requirements of the roles and convey to the auditors the best possible effect of the real characters living their parts on the stage. "Madame X" comes to the Opera House Wednesday, Nov. 13 for four nights and two matinees. Seats on sale.

Keith's Theatre

Another ten-strike musical act is programmed for the Keith theatre next week "The Love Trust," music by B. A. Rolfe, with comedians and pretty girls, will be on tap for the whole of next week. It is a refined musical comedy, running 30 mins. Selbin and Grovini, performers on musical instruments and makers of many kinds of amusement, are among the very best known in the world. Monroe, Mack & Lawrence offer one of the mother-in-law comedies, with much of an interesting comedy nature to it, and Marion Munson and Hal Forrest will give "The Kidnapping of Bianca." Other acts will be supplied by Misses Meriku and Carmen, dancers; Williams & Brooks, in "The New Cadet"; John T. Murray, comedian, and Marsh Craig, contortionist. Special entertainments for tomorrow.

The Playhouse

"The Hypocrites," a high-class English drama by Henry Arthur Jones, will be the attraction at The Playhouse (formerly Hathaway Theatre) next week. The piece is an unusually good one and is almost sure to reflect creditably, not only on the members of The Drama Players themselves, but on the producer, Kendal Weston, both for his excellent judgment in selecting such an offering and the manner in which he will put it on. Weston's remarkable cleverness as a producer is one of his many commendable assets and assists very materially in the pronounced success which the company has enjoyed during its present run. He is giving his patrons just what they desire in the way of refined entertainment, and his peculiar faculty of giving each presentation a Weston touch is a pleasing addition to the weekly offerings.

Monday night and Tuesday afternoon of next week a beautiful autograph of Miss Constance Jackson will be given each lady occupying an orchestra seat. Don't forget, only Monday night and Tuesday matinee. Order your tickets now and assure yourself of the best seats. Tel. 811.

Merrimack Square Theatre

The Merrymakers, who made such a favorable impression last week, are again to be seen at the head of a mighty fine bill at the Merrimack Square theatre next week. Their offering for the coming week is called "A Texas Cyclone," and is sure of meeting with the approval of all patrons. New faces are to be seen, the piece is bright and snappy, full of amusing comedy situations, and will give this clever company opportunity to display its skill.

Harry Le Clair, billed as America's greatest portrayer of female types, is another number on the program to make a fast bid for first honors. His act is unique and original and also carries not a little of the comedy vein. Harry Thriller, "The Lad with the Chairs," and Harry Curran are to be the other acts, and the pictures will also be up to the high standard set by this theatre. New slides of current events will also be shown.

The bill for the sacred concerts tomorrow contains a varied list of five first class vaudeville acts together with a number of new photo-plays. There are to be but two performances, the matinee starting at 3, while the evening performance is continuous from 7 to 10.30, and all the seats are to be reserved. Phone 2053.

The Kasino

The smoothest running skates that ever rolled over a smooth surface are to be found at the Kasino on Thorndike street hill. That is one reason for the constantly increasing patronage at this popular amusement resort. Another reason for Kasino success is the character of its patronage.

Women's Relief Corps, G. A. R.

The annual inspection of James A. Garfield Women's Relief Corps was held in Post 120, G. A. R. hall, Thursday night, Mrs. Caroline R. Morse, of Corps 43, Arlington, who is the department inspector, being in charge. On account of the illness of the corps president, Mrs. Offutt, Mrs. Mira F. Killpatrick, past president, ably filled the chair. Supper was served at 6 o'clock by Mrs. Martha Fife, matron, assisted by Mrs. Carrie Storm, after which the meeting was called to order for the business session. One candidate was initiated; one application received for new membership and one to be admitted by transfer. The entire work of the ritual was gone through, which the inspecting officer complimented as having been done excellently. Her remarks were very interesting. She is the guest of Mrs. Killpatrick. As visitors present were Mrs. Margaret W. Wagland of Needham corps, Lawrence, who made pleasing remarks, Mrs. A. E. Lowell of Needham corps, Mrs. Sarah L. Murphy of Billerica, and Mrs. Sarah A. Kelley of E. Weymouth Heights.

On Nov. 21, in the evening, will be observed the 29th anniversary of the institution of this corps, to which Post 120 is invited.

Aborn Grand Opera Co.

The Aborn Grand Opera company appeared at the Opera House last night in "Madame Butterfly," and the various roles were sung with a degree of excellence rarely equalled by any similar production in this city. The leading roles were admirably sung and the English translation so novel was highly appreciated, although it must have been a hindrance to the singers trained in the tongue in which the opera is written. Miss Danietta Alvina scored a success in the difficult role of little Butterfly while Henry Taylor, as the Pinkerton proved a high class tenor. Miss De Sellum added much to the character of the music by her rich contralto voice. Her duet with Miss Alvina was one of the features of the performance. Mr. D'Angelo as a baritone gave a good interpretation of the character of Sharpless. The chorus work was in keeping with the solo parts, strong and efficient, while the orchestra met all the requirements of the occasion in a very acceptable manner. The audience was large and appreciative, the scenery abundant and appropriate. This particular company strengthened the reputation of the Aborn organization by its artistic work last evening. Those who attended, even the critics, apparently enjoyed the performance immensely.

CAUSED SLIGHT FIRE

Gas Stove with Leaky Connections Caused Dangerous Blaze on Middlesex Street

An alarm from box 171 at 7.30 o'clock last night summoned a portion of the fire department to a slight blaze in a house on Middlesex street opposite the power house of the Bay State Street Railway Co., but the blaze was extinguished before any material damage had been done.

It is understood that a gas stove which had been recently installed had not been properly connected and when a woman in the house attempted to light the stove the gas which leaked from one of the pipes was ignited and a large flame of fire shot out. The woman became frightened and when she ran into the street crying "Fire" a bystander pulled in the alarm. The blaze was speedily extinguished upon the arrival of the firemen.

A LITTLE NONSENSE

GOOD NAME.

Katharine—Why does she call her little poodle "Samson?"

Mrs. B.—I'm trying hard to catch up with my diary before the end of the year. Haven't written anything in it for two months.

Mrs. W.—But can you remember what you did every day?

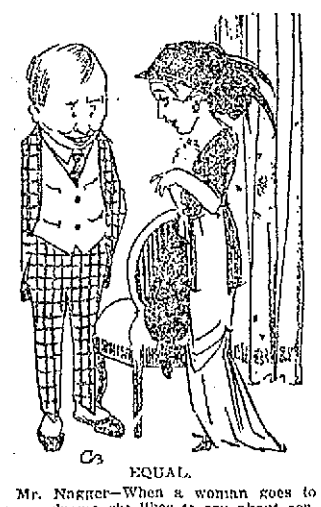

Mrs. B.—Of course. I played bridge.

SOME STICKLER.

"Stickler! Worse than that. Why, say, that woman would find fault because Eve didn't have a chaperon when she arrived in Eden!"

EQUAL.

Mr. Nagger—When a woman goes to see a drama she likes to cry about sorrows that don't concern her.

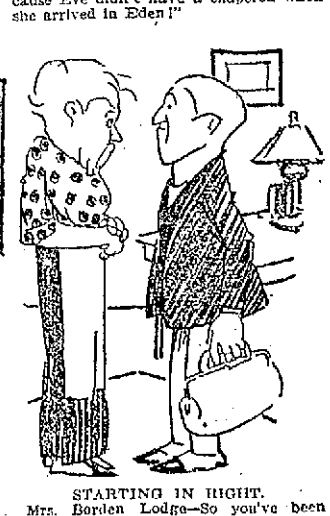

Mrs. Nagger—And a man likes to go to a ball game and get sore at the umpire, whose decisions do not affect him in the least.

HE WAS NEXT.

Mr. Hobson—Does your wife look after your clothes?

Mr. Dobson—Yes, especially the pocketbook.

STARTING IN RIGHT.

Mrs. Borden Lodge—So you've been boarding with Mrs. Hammond-Egg. She always pretends that she doesn't keep boarders.

The directors of the Lowell Art Association held their first meeting of the season yesterday afternoon at the Whistler house. Treasurer Chase reported that the outstanding bills of the society, chiefly for coal, printing and advances by the directors, totalled at present about $125 more than the presently available resources will be. Perhaps a third of the current membership dues remain unpaid. It was suggested that the association, now that it has its property practically free from debt, should seek to extend its membership widely with the idea of increasing both its usefulness and its revenues. A new house committee is to be appointed furthwith which will assume full charge of the property and oversee its rental.

ANOTHER CHILD BORN

22d to Arrive in a Centralville Family

A son was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Dagenais of 86 Ennell street, West Centralville. The child was christened last night at St. Louis rectory by the pastor, Rev. J. N. Jacques, and was given the names of Joseph Eugene, the sponsors being Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Ducharme.

The parents of the newcomer certainly do not believe in race suicide, for although they have been married but 21 years, their 22d child was christened last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Dagenais were born at Cap Sainte, Que., Mr. Dagenais being 42 years of age, while his wife has not yet reached her 38th birthday. They were married in Lowell at St. Joseph's church on Aug. 30, 1891.

Mrs. Dagenais was formerly Miss Motard, and she comes from a large family, being one of 14 children, and two of her sisters, both living in Lowell, Mrs. Azarias Lavallee and Mrs. Alphonse Milot, have raised large families, the former being the mother of 14 children, while 11 children were born to the latter.

It is with pride that Mr. Dagenais mentions the fact that his father was the father of 22 children.

As above stated Mr. and Mrs. Dagenais were married 21 years ago and 22 children were born to them, two of them being twins. There were six girls and sixteen boys, and of this number but four are now living. They are Henri, Jeanne, Jules and the latest born, Joseph Eugene.

Mr. Dagenais is well known in this city, being employed in the packing department of the Lawrence Mfg. Co. He is also a prominent member of the Centralville Social club.

ELLIOTT—James G. Elliott, for many years a resident of this city, died quite suddenly, Thursday, at his home in Newark, New Jersey. His age was 67 years. From information received here by relatives, he had been ill but a short time, and it is presumed that the cause of death was an attack of heart failure. Mr. Elliott was born in Lunenburg, Vt., June 11, 1845. He came here as a young man in 1865 and served several terms as a member of the common council, and later as an overseer of the poor. Freight Rate Increase Suspended

WASHINGTON, N... 9.—The interstate commerce commission today suspended the Bangor & Aroostook railroad's recent increase in freight rates on excelsior until March 12, 1913. The railroad wants to advance the proportionate rates on excelsior from Mills, Me., to Brownsville Junction, Me., from two to five cents per hundred pounds, and from Monson Junction to Greenville, Me., from three to five, except that it proposes to apply at 3½ cent rate to all these shipments to New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

THE WAR WITH TURKEY

fact that the allied Balkan states were working in complete harmony on all questions. He declared that they demanded the complete disappearance of the sovereignty of the sultan from European Turkey and the division of the territory among the victorious nations belonging to the Balkan league. The partition of Turkish territory, he said, had already been arranged along broad lines by the allies, the only questions left open for discussion being those relating to the destiny of Constantinople, Saloniki and the Dardanelles.

The fate of Constantinople and the Dardanelles, said the premier, would be left to the decision of the European powers. As for Saloniki, however, the Balkan allies had not yet reached an agreement as to who was to have it.

TURKISH GRAND VIZIER SAYS HE WILL MAINTAIN ORDER TO THE END

PARIS, Nov. 9.—The Turkish grand vizier, it is said, has informed the foreign ambassadors in Constantinople that he will maintain order there until the end. If, however, the Turkish capital should be entered by the invaders the grand vizier declared that he could not say what the exasperation of the populace might lead to. Results would be on the conscience of Europe, he said.

According to a despatch to the Matin, the grand vizier said:

"Do not think that either I or the sultan will ever abandon Constantinople. My sovereign will await death in his palace and I in my office."

The aged Moradunghian Pasha, the Turkish minister for foreign affairs, according to another special despatch from Constantinople, is directing affairs there with singular tenacity and devotion in spite of his 85 years. He appears to be infusing new life into the population of the Turkish capital. For 11 days he has not left his office. In the course of an interview today, he said:

"If it were I would post on every wall of the capital and print in big type in every Turkish newspaper the solemn declaration made three weeks ago by the European powers that they would not permit the seizure of Turkish territory. At the same time I would publish the text of the 27 treaties concluded during the last century by the nations of Europe, guaranteeing the integrity of the Ottoman empire."

Gen. Mahmoud Mukhtar Pasha, was sent by Nazim Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief, to notify the grand vizier that the Turkish army would not accept either mediation or intervention. According to a despatch to the Journal from Constantinople, the commander-in-chief declared that if the government did not heed the wishes of the army the soldiers would come to Constantinople and cannonade the government offices and itself prevent the dismemberment of the empire.

The leaders of the committee of union and progress also informed the grand vizier that there would be a terrible revolution unless the Turkish army continued to fight until the last ditch.

The officers who were sent into retirement from the Turkish army in 1909 for political reasons are now being reinstated, according to a special despatch from Constantinople to the Echo Den Paris. They will do their utmost to lick into shape any fresh troops being drafted into Nazim Pasha's army, which is being reorganized behind the lines of Tchatalja. Ghazi Ahmet Muktar Pasha, the veteran victor of Kars in the Russo-Turkish war of 1877 and a former grand vizier in a published interview explained the part department. They could do only one thing. They fled."

An interview with a Bulgarian soldier who participated in the battle of Lule Burgas is published in the Matin. He says:

"What struck us most was the harmlessness of Turkish shooting. The bullets flew high over our heads as if the Turkish soldiers were not aiming, but shooting with their heads turned.

"On the other hand the effect of our fire was terrible."

KURD SOLDIERS ARE SAID TO BE KILLING CHRISTIANS IN CONSTANTINOPLE

PARIS, Nov. 9.—Serious disorders are reported to have broken out in Constantinople, where Kurd soldiers are said to be killing Christians in the Galata quarter, according to a special despatch from Bucharest, Rumania, published by the Paris Midi under reserve. Some buildings of the Turkish capital are said to have been set on fire. The banks and foreign embassies are guarded by detachments of Turkish troops who are still obedient to discipline.

THE BULGARIANS MAKING A FIERCE ATTACK ON TURKISH POSITIONS

VIENNA, Nov 9—The Bulgarians are now attacking with all their strength the remaining Turkish positions about Tchatalja and the fall of these vital Turkish defenses in front of Constantinople is only a matter of hours, according to today's despatch from the Reichpost's correspondent. The Bulgarian third army has penetrated far into the forest region south of Derkos lake, preparatory to the advance on Constantinople while the first army is engaged against the main Turkish position east of Tchatalja. This position is not yet completely pierced but the end of the Turkish resistance appears to be in sight.

The raw Turkish troops, large numbers of which were rushed out from Constantinople to meet the enemy's advance, are fighting strongly but the exhausted veterans of the earlier battles are offering little serious resistance.

BRITISH BATTLESHIPS SAILED TODAY FOR THE NEAR EAST

MALTA, Nov. 9.—The British battleships Hibernia, Brittania, Commonwealth and Dominion, as well as the British cruiser Black Prince left here today for the Near East. They sailed within two hours of the receipt of orders from the British admiralty.

PILLAGE BY THE TURKS RAISES THE FEAR OF A GREAT PANIC

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 9.—Stories of the distress among the Turkish troops, of the panic which seized upon various bodies of the men, and, what is worse, tales of pillage, rapine and massacre, continue to come in from various points.

It is reported that Nazim Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief, has decided to send home several thousand of his men who have shown the white feather on the field of battle, but logic would suggest that they deserved more serious punishment.

Reports of the excesses of the fleeing Turkish troops in the town of Silivri, a port on the Sea of Marmora southwest of Tchatalja line, apparently are authentic. Many of the inhabitants are said to have been massacred and the town almost completely burned. The population of Silivri was mostly Greek.

Such stories as these do not tend to reassure the minds of the dwellers in Constantinople, where a sufficiently panicky feeling already prevails.

Warships Reassuring

Some of the sensational stories telegraphed abroad concerning the situation in Constantinople not only are exaggerated but mischievous, as they are likely not only to react locally, but cause anxiety among friends of members of the foreign colonies here.

The presence of warships of the foreign powers, which it is understood soon will number 12, is surest guarantee of the safety of property and lives of Europeans, but the Turks also deserve credit for the strong measures taken for keeping order within the capital.

The authorities are acting under a plan arranged by the foreign office and the foreign consulates also have devised arrangements to protect their subjects. Two British steamers are lying in the harbor, ready to embark British subjects and the people of other countries have similarly been provided for.

The lack of news from the theatre of operations confirms the view already telegraphed that the Bulgarians as well as the Turks are much exhausted from the fierce battles at Lule Burgas and Toborlu.

Cholera Suspected

Pitiful scenes continue to be witnessed daily with the arrival of trainloads of wounded from the front. It is a significant fact that most of these men are slightly injured, which would indicate that the badly wounded would have small chance of being picked up.

Almost without exception the wounded are on the verge of collapse from exhaustion. Many have been without attention for days and a majority of them without food or water for 24 hours.

The hospitals are already overcrowded and symptoms resembling cholera have appeared. Those suspected of having the disease are isolated in a special shed.

If the dread cholera should come to Constantinople, where already there is much distress and suffering among the wounded and the refugees, the consequences are too horrible to contemplate.

It is impossible, even roughly, to estimate the number of refugees in the capital. There are fresh arrivals each day and every mosque in Stamboul and the suburbs is crowded. Families from various villages and districts are striving as much as possible to keep together.

All the refugees seem resigned to their fate and anxious to go to Asia Minor, where they say the government has promised to give them land. Their long strings of carts with the children and household effects in them gave the appearance of the exodus of the Turkish race from Europe.

Royal K. Dexter took out papers a day or two ago, but he has withdrawn from the contest. He notified the city clerk this forenoon that he had withdrawn. Mr. Dexter is a former alderman. He was a candidate for the municipal council last year and was the tenth man on the ticket. John McManus has withdrawn from the school board contest. The candidates for the municipal council besides the two commissioners, Messrs. Brown and Donnelly, whose terms expire this year, are: Harvey B. Greene, whose home is at 73 Marlborough street. Mr. Greene is pretty well known to the people of Lowell. His business is that of florist. He is associated with the board of trade and a former president of the board. He is also a former chairman of the park commission and is a member of the Huntington hall commission. Mr. Greene has been an ardent supporter of the new charter since the beginning and has advocated it at home and abroad.

Charles H. Hobson is treasurer of the H. R. Barker Mfg. Co., and also treasurer of the Lawler Damper Regulating Co., of New York. His home is at 169 Holyrood avenue. He was a candidate for the municipal council last year and received a big vote.

Smith J. Adams is in the wall paper business. He is a former alderman and lives at 9 Stevens street.

Hercules Toupin is also a former alderman and was a candidate last year. He is a druggist and lives at 320 Hildreth street.

Charles J. Morse is a former superintendent of streets and is well known throughout the city.

Jeremiah J. Connors is another ex-alderman. He was the lone democratic alderman the year that Geo. H. Brown was mayor. He is also a former member of the common council.

James J. Gallagher is a fruit dealer with a store in Merrimack street near Dutton street. He is a former alderman and president of the Mathew Temperance Institute.

John W. Daly is a former alderman and well known to the voters of Lowell. Mr. Daly has already started a campaign of outdoor speechmaking, and it is believed that this practice will be quite liberally indulged in.

Daniel T. Fitzgerald belongs in Lowell but is employed in Lawrence. He was in business in this city some years ago.

George E. Burns is connected with the Wilson Coal Co. He is a well known singer and a former alderman. He lives at 61 Eighteenth street.

School Board Candidates

Now we will pass on to the school board candidates and see who's who. The first on the list will be two of the three present incumbents whose terms expire this year, Dr. O'Connor and Mr. McKenzie. Mr. Rogers' term expires this year, but he has been elected to congress and the best he can do is to wish the board luck in the years to come. Other candidates for the board include Joseph Harvey, plumber, 863 Moody street.

Abel Campbell, real estate, Harris avenue.

Richard Sykes, mill overseer, 9 Rockingham street.

Perry D. Thompson is a lumber dealer and lives at 185 Andover street. Mr. Perry owns the old Dix farm in East Chelmsford. He is the son of the late A. G. Thompson, former postmaster.

Wilfred P. C. Caisse, jr., whose papers were filed late today, is a druggist and lives at 773 Merrimack street.

The directory gives Harry L. Downs' employment as that of moulder and his home address is 591 Bridge street.

The nomination papers of Harvey B. Greene and Charles H. Hobson were filed at the city clerk's office at 4.15 o'clock by Arthur L. Gray, president of the board of trade.

How to Vote

The names of the four candidates for the municipal council receiving the highest vote, will go on the ballot on election day, while the names of the six leading candidates in the school board contest will go on the ballot. Voters will cast their ballots for two candidates for the municipal council and three for the school board.

Some Difference

Last year there were 91 candidates for the municipal council and 35 for the school board.

Registration Very Light

The total registration for the week or up to last night at least, did not reach the century mark. Ninety-new names were added to the list and 43 of the 90 were women. The total registration for yesterday was 57, 29 males and 28 females. Registration will be continued this afternoon and evening from 7 to 9. There will be registration Monday from 1 to 5 and 7 to 9 p. m. Tuesday will be the last day of registration for the preliminary election and the hours for registration on that day will be from 1 to 9 p. m. continuously.

Recounts Monday Morning

The recounts petitioned for will begin Monday morning at 8 o'clock and those acquainted with the situation believe that the recount will put Henry J. Draper, democratic candidate for senator, ahead of Erson B. Barlow, the republican candidate. The original count gave Barlow the advantage but on the very narrow margin of eight votes. It is believed that Mr. Draper was defeated by the bungling count in precinct 3 of ward 2. This precinct is very substantially democratic and it is figured that in view of that fact the democrat would be the one least liable to lose because of the pied count.

Petitions for a recount of the vote for various state officers were filed with the city clerk at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The offices for which the votes are to be recounted are state auditor, state attorney general, state treasurer, and member of the governor's council. The petitions were filed by wards, every ward being represented except ward 8, which for some unknown reason, was not represented.

Eight Hour Law

The Trades and Labor council filed a petition at the city clerk's office this afternoon to have the question of the acceptance of the 8 hour law for laborers and mechanics placed on the ballot.

THE POWERS DIVIDED AS TO POLICY WHEN PEACE IS DECLARED

Two Forts Guarding the City of Adrianople Fall Into Hands of Besiegers—Austria-Hungary Threat Ignored

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The latest developments brought about by the surrender of the great fortress of Saloniki with its garrison of 25,000 men leaves only three centers, Scutari, Monastir, and Janina in the western field of operations in the hands of the Turks while in the eastern theatre of war two of the forts guarding Arianople have fallen into the hands of the Bulgarian besiegers and another Bulgarian army is actually behind the eastern end of the Tchatalja lines outside Constantinople. The Servians and Greeks at the same time are marching victoriously through Macedonia and Albania.

A greater danger than the Balkan war, however, now threatens Europe. The powers forming the Triple Alliance (Germany, Austria-Hungary and Italy) and those composing the Triple Entente (France, Great Britain and Russia) are divided into two distinct camps as to the policy to be followed when peace between Turkey and the Balkan allies has been brought about.

Absolutely ignoring the threat of Austria-Hungary that she will not tolerate the Servian occupation of Albania or of a port on the Adriatic sea, the armies of King Peter continue their advance through the country which they have been practically ordered to keep out of. They are also making their way to the Adriatic coast which can have only one object in view, namely the seizure of one or more ports.

KARTALTPE AND PAPAZTEPE TAKEN AFTER DESPERATE ARTILLERY DUEL

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 9.—The Bulgarian army besieging Adrianople, today captured Kartaltpe and Papaztepe, two of the outer line of forts defending the city. They were taken after a desperate artillery duel between the besiegers and defenders. The Bulgarian troops suffered a large number of casualties.

WAR IN BALKANS AFFECTING DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS BETWEEN GREAT POWERS

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The war in the Balkans is already affecting the diplomatic relations among the six great powers of Europe. The Triple Alliance, composed of the governments of Russia, France and Great Britain, is slowly but surely exerting its influence in favor of the Balkan states while the Triple Entente, which is made up of Germany, Austria Hungary and Italy, is making unobtrusive but certain efforts in behalf of the Ottoman empire.

Russian popular feeling will force the government to take the part of the Slavic states and when Russia does so she can count on the support of her ally France and of her friend, Great Britain. This is not because they particularly care whether Servia gets all she wants or not but because if they want Russia's help when they are in trouble they must support her in her day of trial. The diplomats of the six great powers are keeping in the closest touch in the hope of preventing the situation from becoming any worse.

It is thought in diplomatic quarters that it will be hard to hold Servia back in Albania, for flushed with victory and supported by her allies she will do her utmost to realize her ambitions. She

CAR AND COAL CART COLLIDED

In Gorham Street Last Night—Driver Injured, Horses Hurt, and Wagon Damaged

One of the electric cars, known as a mill special, coming in from the Billerica mills on the Gorham street line collided with a heavy coal team, the property of John P. Quinn, the local coal dealer about six o'clock last evening. The car, it is said, was coming at a fair rate of speed and struck the rear end of the coal cart, which was being driven in the car tracks. The collision occurred about 200 yards this side of the Chelmsford line.

The driver, Michael Haley, as a result of the collision was thrown from his seat to the ground, landing between the pair of horses. He complains of injuries to his shoulder and head and was unable to report for work this morning. Both horses were injured, and Mr. Quinn states that one may die. The other, though injured considerably, is expected to recover. The cart was also badly damaged.

According to a witness of the accident, the driver had a narrow escape from serious injury. When he was thrown from his seat, the pole and the harness saved him from striking the pavement below. Several of the passengers on the car went to his assistance, and found it necessary to cut the harness in order to extricate the driver from his position. Night Watchman Barry of the A. B. Humphrey Co.'s stable, went to the injured man's assistance, and he with several others succeeded in taking the man from under the horses' feet.

One of the spectators, in relating the story, said that it was a miracle how Driver Haley escaped without being killed. He landed directly under the horses' feet, said the speaker, and only for the timely arrival of Mr. Barry and others would have undoubtedly been kicked to death.

According to the owner of the team, the driver was returning from Billerica where he had delivered a load of coal. He had a very heavy cart, with two strong horses. On his homeward trip, he took the car tracks, two wheels of the cart being in the track, while the other two were on the side. At the point of the road where the collision occurred, the tracks run close to the side of the thoroughfare, and the driver not hearing or seeing the approaching car continued on his way. With the noise of the team, the ringing of the bell could not be heard, he says.

When the point above mentioned was reached, the car struck the cart and threw it some distance. The motorman quickly applied his brakes, and with the other passengers went to the man's assistance. They first assisted the driver from his position after which their attention was directed to the horses.

GROOM IS 71

And the Woman He Married is Just Ten Years His Junior and His Fourth Wife

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Although the five-day law threatened to fill a "Curfew-shall-not-ring-tonight" role yesterday on the wedding bells of Joseph H. Burnham, who is 71, and Mrs. Mary Matilda Taylor, who is 61, both of Newton, love found a way and the marriage was solemnized only a little behind schedule time at the Eliot Congregational church.

Many a younger bridegroom would have been balked if he had done as Mr. Burnham, gone with his bride to the city clerk's office with the intention of getting out a license and being married immediately after, only to learn of the law requiring an interval of five days between the time of the issuing of the license and the solemnizing of the ceremony.

Many a younger bridegroom would have postponed the wedding then, but Mr. Burnham had had too much experience. Three times before he had been married, so he could think clearly. He sought to find if there was no way around the law. When City Clerk Frank M. Grant gave him some advice, he sought out Judge John C. Kennedy, who presides over the police court and got a dispensation and then the Rev. H. Grant Person, pastor of the church, tied the knot.

His bride has been married once before. Both were reticent about their romance.

"We're old friends," they said, smiling on each other. "And now we're lovers. That's all."

At 1 Channing street, Newton, where Mrs. Taylor had boarded no one knew about the romance. The marriage ceremony itself was a quiet one neither bride nor bridegroom having attendants. On the application Mr. Burnham names Essex as his birthplace and his bride declares she was born in St. Johns N. F.

Lowell High Won

The Lowell High school team defeated the South Boston team at Washington park this afternoon by the score of 45 to 0.

M'MANIGAL TO TESTIFY

At Trial of the Dynamite Cases

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 9.—Ortie McManigal, to whose confession as a dynamiter are attributed many of the circumstances which led to the imprisonment of the McNamara brothers in California and to the indictment in Indianapolis of 45 union labor leaders now being tried was to take the stand as a witness for the government in the "dynamite" trial about noon today.

Twice brought across the continent from Los Angeles, first to appear before the federal grand jury last winter and now to testify before the men whom he accuses of having put him in the dynamiting business, McManigal has occupied a unique place in criminal annals.

McManigal directly accused Herbert Hockin, now secretary of the International Association of Bridge & Structural Ironworkers of inducing him to go dynamiting under pay of the union.

"I had been a member of the ironworkers union since 1903," said McManigal, "and had worked in Milwaukee, Chicago and Joliet, Ill., when, in June, 1907, Hockin came to me while I was working on the Ford building in Detroit. Hockin said the executive board of the union had decided to clean out the open shop concerns and I was the man to do it. He said: 'You used to work in a stone quarry and you know how to use explosives. You'll be paid by the union.'

"I protested, but he told me if I didn't do as the executive board said he'd see that I was boycotted against getting a job. I finally consented.

"Where to get the dynamite was the question. I decided to go to my uncle, William Behm, at Bloomville, O., who had a stone quarry. I went to Bloomville, June 22 and brought back to Detroit in a suit case 35 pounds of dynamite, some fuse and caps.

"I told Hockin I had the dynamite in my room. He said, 'All right. You've gone this far and you had better pull off the job between one and two o'clock in the morning.'

"I went to my room and prepared three bombs, each with 50 feet of fuse. I went back to the Ford building and waited in an alley to see if there were any police about. Seeing none I put one bomb in the firebox of the boiler in the building under construction, another in an air compressor and a third near the cylinder.

"Joining the ends of the fuse at one point I lit all of them. They were fixed to go off at about 1 a. m. It was then 10 p. m. I again looked about the alley. I noticed a kitchen door at the rear of a restaurant opened on the alley opposite where the bombs were and thinking some people might run out at the first explosion and be injured by the second or third explosion I shut the door and jammed a barrel of garbage against it. Then I went to my room and waited to hear the noise. It came about one o'clock. I heard the newsboys calling 'extra.'"

"Did you see Hockin the next day?" asked Dist. Atty. Miller.

"Yes, he had paid me $20 for expenses to Bloomville. He said I would be fully compensated for my work as the executive board had set aside a certain amount for each job but he said I must keep at it. He said I would receive $125 for a job at first and I was to send a newspaper account of each explosion so he could get the money from the international union. The clipping was to verify the fact that the explosion had occurred."

MAYOR J. F. FITZGERALD

At Odds With Police Com. O'Meara

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—A few warm exchanges of opinion characterized the conference which Mayor Fitzgerald held yesterday at his office with Police Commissioner O'Meara. Supt. Pierce of the police department and the street commissioners relative to remedying traffic conditions in the down town district.

The mayor reiterated his belief that it is high time for a traffic squad in the city, that the police should be schooled and that those in charge of the crossing patrolmen should visit other cities for the purpose of learning the best method of handling traffic.

The police commissioner thought differently, and pointedly informed the mayor he believed that on account of the peculiarities in Boston streets a traffic squad would not be practical. Commissioner O'Meara also contended that the Boston police know their business and need no instruction from those in other cities.

Conditions on Tremont street, and more especially between Winter street and Temple place, were first discussed. The commissioner suggested that loafers might be driven off the common in the vicinity of Park street if the city council adopted an ordinance proposed some months ago giving the police the same authority on the common they exercise on the streets.

As a means of remedying the congestion on Tremont street, the mayor suggested the use of the underground passageway being constructed over the Winter street subway to divert surface travel from the Park street subway exit, and the street commissioners agreed that it would be an excellent plan. The mayor expressed a belief that the passageway might be connected with the underground stations of the subway.

THE JOLLY CLUB

Surprised Mr. and Mrs. Hill and Presented Them Six Dining Room Chairs

The members of the Jolly club tendered Mr. and Mrs. Hill a grand surprise the other evening, when they walked into the home of the popular couple on Steadman street, and after presenting them six beautiful dining-room chairs, provided an enjoyable entertainment. The presentation address was delivered by Mr. Fred Bailey, and Mr. Hill accepted the furniture with thanks. Whist was then played, Miss Hunter winning first prize. A feature of the musical program was the cornet selection by Frank Harrington. Refreshments were served, under the direction of the following committee, which had general charge of the affair: Mrs. Jennie Willard, Mrs. May Willard, Lizzie Griffin, and Mr. and Mrs. Will Harvey.

Largest Water Bill

The largest individual water bill ever paid the city was paid the water department by the N. Y., N. H. & H. railroad. The bill was paid a few days ago and amounted to $13,098.33. It was an old bill that had been hanging fire for over a year and the railroad after careful investigation decided that it was a just bill and paid it.

Monthly Bills Approved

The municipal council held a brief meeting this forenoon. It was a meeting of the committee on accounts and monthly bills were approved.

THE PROGRESSIVE PARTY

Refuses to Unite With the Republicans

BROCKTON, Nov. 9.—The agitation for a fusion of the republican and progressive forces in an effort to defeat the democrats in the municipal election came to an end last night when a mass meeting of progressives unanimously voted not to fuse, but on the other hand to enter a complete ticket for the city election.

While the progressives were discussing the plan first suggested by Alderman Bragdon, who, up to yesterday, was a candidate for the republican nomination for mayor, the republican city committee was in session 25 feet away, waiting for a favorable response to their overtures.

The republicans, through messengers which flitted from one meeting to another, learned that the progressives refused to be tamed. When the news finally reached the republicans that the progressives had voted to stand by their guns and fight the republicans as well as the democrats and all other parties, the republicans adjourned, as there was nothing for them to do.

Four members of the republican city committee, Alderman Charles S. Bragdon, ex-City Solicitor William G. Rowe, Herbert A. Boyden and Adelard Ledoux, resigned from the committee and will probably join the progressive movement.

After leaving the republican headquarters Alderman Bragdon went over to the progressives meeting and enrolled himself as a bull moose. The alderman yesterday resigned as a candidate for the republican nomination for mayor. He says he is not a candidate for the progressive nomination, but will accept it if it is tendered him.

The meeting of the progressives was the first held since the state election. It was voted to hold caucuses next Thursday evening. Women, whether registered or not, will be allowed to vote. When the question of a fusion ticket was take up, Eldon B. Keith, the party candidate for state treasurer, favored it, but all the other speakers were against it, and the motion to place a complete ticket in the field was passed without a dissenting voice.

Killed by Automobile

LEWISTON, Me., Nov. 9.—The coroner's inquest into the death of Jean Cliche, who was killed by an automobile at the corner of Main and Lisbon streets last week, was completed last evening. The testimony was conflicting and the jury made no effort to determine the blame for the accident, simply returning a verdict that he came to his death by being run over by an automobile driven by Arthur E. Walker.

It is claimed that Pinard, two years ago, stole a mattress from the house of Theophile Calsse and later cut it into pieces and stuffed it down a chimney in a house occupied by Joseph Boudreau, a fire resulting.

The Latest Plan to Toy With Death

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Frederick R. Law, steeplejack and parachute jumper, has devised a new method of trifling with death. He is preparing to ascend in a balloon and when at a height of 500 feet or so explode two bombs, each containing 50 or 60 pounds of dynamite, his idea being that the explosive would destroy the balloon and let him drop to the ground. He is only waiting for a good day to make the experiment.

CHELMSFORD

The 18th annual supper and rollcall of the Central Baptist church was held last evening, and it proved a most pleasant affair. The members and friends assembled at 5.30, and a social hour was enjoyed, after which supper was served. Following the supper Rev. Charles H. Ellis, pastor, officiated as presiding officer and the rollcall was called. Reports of the different church departments were then read and all showed excellent results. One report that was very pleasing to all assembled was the announcement of the church improvements, including the installation of a fine pipe organ.

At the conclusion of the meeting all adjourned to the auditorium, where Rev. H. R. Harris of the Paige street church of Lowell gave the address of the evening. Two solos, "A Song Divine," by Mrs. H. A. Vickery, and "Anchored," by Miss Lillian Cann of Worcester, with Mrs. W. C. Ward as accompanist, were much enjoyed features of the evening.

The committee in charge was Rev. C. H. Ellis, George M. Seeton, Mrs. F. J. Whittemore, Mrs. Nellie P. Parker and Miss Bertha H. Dutton.

The following Centre school teachers are taking up special studies at the Lowell Normal school: Miss Susan S. McFarlin, writing and psychology; Miss Eliza Spaulding and Miss May Farnham, writing and English; Miss Helena B. Lyon, writing and trees; Mrs. Eva M. Godfrey and Miss Florence M. Stites, writing and plays.

Rev. Wilson Waters will take for the subject of his morning sermon at All Saints church on Sunday, "The Blind Man."

At the Central Baptist church, Rev. Charles H. Ellis will take for the subject of his morning sermon, "Crowns," and for the evening, "Excuses."

Rev. Earl Alan Roadman will preach on "The Marks of Nobility," at the Central Congregational church Sunday morning.

The Y. P. S. C. E. meeting at seven o'clock will be led by Miss May Files.

A son was born on Thursday to Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hagerman, at their home in Tufts College.

THE LAST CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Congress during the last session appropriated $1,019,412,710, as shown yesterday by the official statement of James C. Courts, clerk of the house committee on appropriations, and Kennedy F. Rea, assistant clerk of the senate committee on appropriations.

As compared with the appropriations of 1911, there was a decrease of $7,270,170.

Of the 16 appropriation bills, the measure providing for the postoffice department headed the list with $271,429,598. The pension bill, much augmented because of the service pension increase, came second with $165,146,145.

The navy bill called for an expenditure of $123,225,007 and the sundry civil bill for $112,039,184.

The principal reductions were made in the army, navy and fortifications bills and the largest increases in the postal service, river and harbor and pension bills.

The clerks' statement also supplied facts regarding new offices and positions of employment created during the last session. Of these there were 20,964, involving an annual compensation of $22,193,580. As an offset, 13,915 places, with an annual compensation of $14,446,917, were abolished.

The increase included 42 additional members of the house of representatives as required by the new apportionment. In point of increased numbers the navy took the lead with 4000 enlisted men, and postal service came second, with an allowance of 2616 new employes in the lower grades.

COCOA IMPORTS

Will Exceed Those Of Any Previous Year—Tea Imports Also Show Increase

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Imports of cocoa into the United States in the year which ends with next month will exceed those of any earlier year and approximate 150 million pounds, against 57 million pounds ten years ago. The growth in the importation of this article in recent years has been much more rapid than that of tea or coffee. The quantity of cocoa, or cacao, imported in 1912 is practically three times as great as in 1902, a decade earlier, while tea imports show an increase of but 20 per cent and those of coffee are actually less than in 1902, the comparisons being for the 9 months ended with September of the years named.

This rapid increase in importations of cocoa has brought the United States to first rank in the consumption of that article, the present consumption, based upon the net imports of the calendar year 1911, being 130 million pounds, compared with 112 million for Germany, 60 million for France, and 56 million for the United Kingdom, out of a world consumption of approximately 500 million pounds. Of the world's imported coffee the United States is also the largest consumer, the net imports last year having been 796 million pounds, compared with 404 million for Germany, 245 million for France, 28 million for the United Kingdom, and 26 million for Russia. In imports of tea, however, the United States ranks third, her total imports of that article, 100 million pounds, being exceeded by those of the United Kingdom, 294 million pounds, and those of Russia, 165 million pounds. Germany's tea imports for consumption in 1911 amounted to but 8 million pounds, and those of France, 3 million pounds.

Most of the cocoa imported into the United States is produced in the West Indies, Central and South America. Of the 131 million pounds imported in the first 9 months of 1912, 31 million pounds were from the British West Indies, 28 million from Santo Domingo, 20 million from Ecuador, and 12 million from Brazil; while 20 million pounds were credited to Portugal and 7½ million pounds to the United Kingdom, though in fact produced in certain of their colonies.

Brazil is the chief source of our imported coffee, having supplied 435 million pounds out of a total of 651 million pounds imported in the 9 months ended with September, 1912, compared with 55 million from Columbia, 37¼ million from Venezuela, 37 million from the Central American States, 29 million from Mexico, and less than 60 million pounds from all other countries, including 42 million pounds imported from Europe.

Japan usually supplies about one-half of the tea consumed in the United States, though in the current year the proportion imported from that country is somewhat less than one-half. Of the 67 million pounds of tea imported in the nine months under review, 20 million pounds were from Japan, 18 million from China, 10 million from the East Indies, and 7 million from the United Kingdom, presumably the product of certain of her colonies.

In the period from 1880 to 1911 imports of cocoa from 0.6 million to 142 million pounds; those of coffee, from 404 million to 809 million pounds; and those of tea, from 68 million to 104 million pounds. Imports of cocoa are thus 20 times as much as in 1880, while those of coffee have about doubled in the same period and those of tea increased about 50 per cent.

DECREASE IN PENSION

The Amount This Year is $151,568,141

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—There are now on the government's pension roll 538,000 soldiers and sailors, 321,932 dependents and widows and 362 army nurses, according to the annual report of the pension bureau made public yesterday. These include 497,263 survivors of the Civil war and 238 widows of the War of 1812. To provide for all of them this year, $151,568,141 has been appropriated, a decrease of $3,276,096 from last year.

It is estimated that there were 2,313,365 individuals in the military and naval service of the United States in the Civil war, and that upward of 75 per cent of them are now dead.

The report predicts that the abolishment of the pension agencies, effective Jan. 31, 1913, and the payment of all pensions direct from the pension bureau, will result in a more efficient and economical administration, avoiding duplication of work and saving expense.

The total number of pensioners under general pension laws is 538,210, their pensions aggregating $144,973,569, and under special acts of congress 22,081, aggregating $6,584,572 annually.

From the foundation of the government to June 30 last, the United States paid $4,383,368,164 in pensions to soldiers, sailors and marines, their widows, minor children and dependent relatives on account of the military and naval service in the various wars and in regular service.

MAY BE MURDER VICTIM

Body of Man Was Found in Pond

MIDDLEBORO, Nov. 9.—Belief that the man whose body was found on the shore at Long Pond, Lakeville, at one yesterday afternoon was a murder victim has aroused the police officials.

A revolver was found in the bushes near where the body was discovered by Archie Demoranville, a hunter.

The body had evidently been dragged after the shooting to a thicket and covered with brush.

The medical examiner viewed the body yesterday shortly after it was discovered and was unable to find the slightest identification or anything that would furnish a clue to the murder. He gave it as his opinion that it was a murder and said the bullet passed entirely through the man's head. The body was in the bush probably three months.

The dead man was very dark skinned, about 30 years old and about 5 ft. 7 in. in height.

The physicians who examined the remains are now satisfied that the unfortunate was either a Finn or a Swede and not a Brava, as at first believed.

The body was removed to a local undertaker's rooms last night and an inquest was held at 9 this morning, at which Medical Examiner C. E. Morse and his assistant, Dr. A. V. Smith of Middleboro, and a representative of the state police will be present.

GIRL SHOT BY HER BROTHER

Twelve Year Old Boy Did Not Know That the Rifle Was Loaded

A fatal accident occurred last night in Billerica Centre, when a little girl, named Grace Webster, aged 10 years, was shot through the head by her young brother, Ralph, aged 12 years, who was playing with a 22-calibre rifle and who did not know the weapon was loaded. Immediately after the accidental shooting doctors were summoned to the place, but the child passed away in a short time.

Ralph and his sister Grace were playing in the kitchen at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Clifford Webster, just off River street, Billerica Centre. The boy found a 22-calibre rifle and began to do stunts with it, aiming at his sister's head. The children were having a good time of it, when suddenly Ralph pulled the trigger.

A sharp report followed and the little girl fell to the floor with a bullet wound in her forehead. Dr. M. A. Buck was hurriedly called to the home of the Webster family and the ambulance was quickly summoned to the scene of the shooting, but it was useless for the child passed away shortly after the arrival of the physicians and ambulance. Dr. J. V. Meigs, medical examiner, made the trip to the Centre with the ambulance and his finding was that the shooting was accidental. The little fellow who did not know the rifle was loaded was overcome with grief when apprised of the death of his little sister, while the parents are almost frantic over the death of their beloved daughter.

The little girl and her parents have lived in Billerica for about four years. She attended the Pollard school and was known to be a very bright child.

AN EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS

Expected by Democratic Senators and Representatives In Washington

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Practically every democratic senator and representative known to be in Washington agrees that an extra session of congress is inevitable and that it will be called shortly after Woodrow Wilson takes the oath of office on March 4.

Rep. Benj. G. Humphreys of Mississippi said yesterday afternoon that he was convinced that the session would be called and that the work of tariff revision would be taken up promptly and pressed until completion. Rep. John M. Garner of Texas said the same thing before leaving for the south and other Texans of prominence, who object to being quoted for fear they should seem to bring pressure to bear on the successful candidate, in private conversation express the same view.

The single exception so far discovered is Rep. Robert L. Henry of Texas, chairman of the committee on rules. Mr. Henry did not say he opposed an extra session, but he refused to discuss the matter in any way. Politicians here are wondering if this reticence has anything to do with Mr. Henrys' old ambition to be speaker of the house. He was a candidate for the democratic caucus nomination two years ago, although his candidacy was generally considered chiefly important because it stressed Mr. Henry's claims to head an important committee. In some quarters it is suggested that Mr. Henry might try to work up a following with which to oppose Speaker Champ Clark if the organization of the house were allowed to go over until the regular session. But his friends, while puzzled at his failure to express himself, say they don't believe he has any hopes of defeating Mr. Clark at this time.

Speaker Champ Clark is expected to reach Washington within the next ten days or two weeks, in time to take up the details of legislation in the short session of congress, which will begin three weeks from next Monday. Chairman Underwood of the house committee on ways and means is not expected until toward the end of the month.

Comparatively little legislation beyond the passage of the usual appropriation bills is expected to be enacted during the short session. The majority of the members of the house committee on appropriations are now on the way to Panama, under the leadership of Chairman Fitzgerald, with a view to making an especial investigation as to the needs of the work on the canal, and the clerks of the committee are busily engaged upon the framework of the various appropriation measures.

It is believed that the appropriation for the Isthmian canal which will be made by the next session will be the last to be required for the construction of that work. Up to date the appropriations have aggregated $322,541,468, and as the limit was fixed at $375,200,900, about $55,000,000 still will be required to complete the work, providing the full amount of the estimate becomes necessary.

BADLY BURNED

Mrs. Perkins of Westford Placed Box of Gunpowder in the Stove and Had Narrow Escape From Death

Mrs. Fletcher Perkins of Westford was very painfully and badly injured at her home yesterday. Mrs. Perkins while cleaning house discovered a small box of gunpowder which she paced in the stove with the intention of destroying it. Before the stove lid had been replaced on the stove the powder flashed up, severely burning her face, hands and clothing as well as singeing her hair and eyebrows. Serious and fatal results were stopped only through the presence of mind and promptness of Mrs. James Hildreth, who is 94 years of age. Mrs. Hildreth wrapped her rug and apron around Mrs. Perkins, whose clothing at that time was a blazing mass, and succeeded in extinguishing the flames. Dr. Wells was immediately called and treated Mrs. Perkins, who was very badly burned.

PRETTY DANCING PARTY

Was Held in No. Chelmsford Last Night

The class of 1913 of the North Chelmsford high school held a very pretty and enjoyable dancing party last evening in the town hall for members of the class and invited guests and friends. It was perhaps one of the most largely attended affairs of its kind that has taken place in some years.

The hall was decorated with pine trees and the class colors, green and gold; the stage and gallery especially presenting a most attractive appearance, for over them was suspended a large representation of the class emblem. The matrons were Mrs. P. S. Lowe, Miss Camille Fitzgerald, Mrs. A. W. Trubey and Mrs. Edgar Dixon.

Hibbard's orchestra gave a very pleasing concert from 8 to 8.30, after which general dancing began and continued until 12.30 when there was a short intermission, during which refreshments were served. Dancing was then resumed and continued till midnight. Special cars were on hand to convey the young people to this city.

Among those present were guests from Lowell, Lawrence, Andover and Cambridge. Following are the names of the class officers who were in charge of the affair: Gladys Prince, president, general manager; Mary Murphy, vice president, assistant manager; Marion Horne, secretary; Helen Haywood, treasurer; Harry Carlson, floor director; Bertha Wright, assistant floor director.

THE YALE COLISEUM

Plans Are Made to Seat 60,000

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 9.—Plans for Yale's proposed coliseum for football were made public last evening at a mass meeting of the undergraduates. Members of the committee in charge of the erection of the building addressed the students on the need of more playgrounds and a permanent football stand.

It is estimated that $700,000 will be required to carry out the plans of the committee, which call for $150,000 for land, $300,000 for a coliseum, $100,000 for a clubhouse, $50,000 for a new baseball stand and $100,000 for the general development of playgrounds. Of this amount only the $150,000 for the land has been raised.

The proposed coliseum will seat 60,000 persons. It will be in the shape of a great bowl, 25 feet of which will be sunken in the ground and 35 more built up on excavated earth. The entrances will be through tunnels running beneath the big run of earth, that will hold up the upper portion of the coliseum.

It will be possible to increase the seating capacity of the coliseum to 100,000 seats by building a steel structure over the top row of seats.

This plan has been accepted because it is the cheapest that has yet been devised. It does away with the cost of steel and forms a permanent structure. There will be nothing in the structure but concrete except wooden seats for the spectators.

The plan is to raise the necessary funds by selling privileges which will entitle the holder to the right to purchase football tickets. A subscription of $100 will entitle the subscriber to buy two tickets, and a subscription of $1000 will insure the right to buy ten tickets. This will be the largest privilege that will be sold.

Queen Esther at the Palace

A play entitled "Queen Esther at the Palace," which takes its theme from the Bible, was presented last night for the second time at the Methodist church on Gorham street. The vestry was crowded to its full capacity and the production was received with a great deal of applause.

One of the features of the entertainment was the costuming which was in strict accordance with the time and place in which the scenes were laid. The general stage setting, too, was very well gotten up.

The play was presented by the classes of Misses Isabel Caddell and Elizabeth Osley, and was under the supervision of Miss Maud Mountford. The accompanist was Miss Esther M. Caddell.

Those who took the principal parts were as follows:

The chamberlains were: Messrs. Orrin Taylor, George Higginbottom, Frank Killerby, William Haynes, Arthur Graham and Joseph Higginbottom. Buell Stark, Charles Taylor, Charles Neild and Earl Wilbur were the men-at-arms. Walter Matthews and Graham Pascall were fan bearers and the ladies in waiting were: Misses May E. Caddell, Esther Atkinson, Luella Laycock, Lena Howard, Lena Potter, Emeline Hancock, Martha Howarth, Hattie Potter, Lizzie Spillane and Blanche Scoble. The curtain attendants were Martha Matthews and Bertha Roper.

Twenty different tableaux comprised the play, they being as follows:

1—King Ahasuerus on the Throne, 2—Vashti. 3—The Council. 4—Mordecai. 5—Esther, the Maid. 6—Hegai. 7—Esther crowned queen (two scenes). 8—Mordecai at the King's Gate. 9—Haman. 10—Mordecai spurns Haman. 11—Mordecai mourns for people. 12—Esther told of her people's calamity (two scenes.) 13—Esther in the Outer Court. 14—Esther Given Golden Scepter (two scenes.) 15—Zeresh, Haman's wife. 16—Haman robes Mordecai. 17—Haman afraid before king. 18—Haman pleading to Esther. 19—Esther, in tears, pleads for her people. 20—Queen Esther telling the happy tidings to Mordecai.

Police Eject a Dozen

LONDON, Nov. 9.—A number of suffragettes last night made a demonstration in order to prevent John Burns, president of the local government board, from making a speech at Battersea. The police were called in, however, and ejected a dozen of the women and the meeting proceeded.

NEW ENGLAND'S GREAT CASH HOUSE

To the People of New England:

Forty years ago I started on its business career the firm now known as Houghton & Dutton Co.

It is with feelings of profound gratitude that I review the record of almost half a Century. What finer evidence is needed to prove that if you treat the public well it will treat you well? It has been my aim to build up our business on honor, to win and deserve the unwavering confidence and support of the public.

Our low cash prices and high quality merchandise were not sufficient in themselves to accomplish this. There were a thousand other additional ways in which the interests of the public were to be conserved and our mutual interests promoted. For this I have toiled, and that my efforts have not failed, the experiences of our clientele and the mammoth proportions our business has assumed, bear tangible witness on this our 40th Anniversary.

With a heart full of sincere appreciation I return my thanks to our numberless patrons, assuring them that there will be no change in this declared policy of the firm.

My three sons, who are associated with me in the business, are animated by the same business ideals and desires, and in asking for the continued support of the public I can most confidently guarantee that its interests will be served to the very limit of our ability.

"COME ON TO THE HUB AT OUR EXPENSE"

WARRANTS SWORN OUT

For Rube Marquard and Actress

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 9.—"Rube" Marquard, star twirler of the New York Giants, and Mrs. Joseph Kane, known on the stage as Blossom Seeley, are being sought by detectives, warrants having been sworn out for them by Mrs. Kane's husband. Both are accused of serious offences.

The warrants were issued by Magistrate Jaquetty yesterday, after a lively scene in one of the big beach front hotels. The husband of the woman and his detectives declare they found the "Rube" and Mrs. Kane together, but that they escaped down a fire escape by means of a ruse.

Kane says he booked the pair in an act known as "The Nineteenth Straight, or Breaking the World's Record," a skit based on Rube's pitching during the past season. The irate husband displayed a contract here by which Marquard and Blossom were, it is said, to receive $1500 a week. For arranging their booking Kane was to receive $100 a week.

"I was tipped off by friends that it was not a business proposition that was keeping them together," the husband declared this morning. Getting word from this city that Rube and Blossom Seeley were at the shore, Kane hurried to Philadelphia yesterday, got his detectives and then came to Atlantic City.

It was discovered that on Nov. 4 "Rube" Marquard and wife had registered in Marquard's handwriting, the detectives say.

"About 8 o'clock Marquard and Mrs. Kane appeared coming down in the elevator from a swell suite on the first floor overlooking the ocean. We followed them down the walk to the Apollo theatre, and then waited in the back of the theatre watching them. They were certainly a loving couple, keeping cuddled close up to each other in their orchestra seats.

"At 10.30 they came out together, took a rolling chair and went up the board walk to a cafe, where they stayed until about 12.30.

"Then they strolled back to the hotel and went up in the elevator together. We registered ourselves, getting a room next to that they occupied, and then called up Mr. Kane, who came down to the hotel. He came up to our room. We could hear 'Rube' and Mrs. Kane chatting away next door.

"We hurried into the hall, and making sure there was no way of escape, except by the door we attacked, rushed the door. For five minutes we shouldered into it, and it finally gave way."

Youngsters With Pimples.

By Dr. True

A mother asks me how she shall remove pimples and humors that disfigure her child's face. My answer is very simple and direct, because all such blemishes are the result of poisons in the system that should be carried off in the secretions, but are not.

When anyone finds the skin becoming sallow, dry, scaly, or when blackheads, pimples or blotches appear, they should at once take my Dr. True's Elixir for stomach and bowels. This is a most remarkable remedy. It is wholly vegetable, mild and pleasant, but very effective.

It corrects a wrong condition of stomach and bowels, and sets these important organs in healthy activity, so that waste and poison are driven from the system. No mother need feel anxiety about facial blemishes on her child if she will give my pleasant remedy a chance to remove the cause back of them. And I urge anyone, young or old, who is now enduring this embarrassment, to follow the same course. It will certainly correct the evil.

I recommend, too, that they use Parker's 2-30-2 Cold Cream on face and neck every night. In this way they will make the skin soft and beautiful, as well as free of disfigurement.

LODGE'S MAN MAY LOSE

Young Democrat Has Tied His Vote

LYNN, Nov. 9.—According to a recount in Lynn last night of the votes for Representative in the district in which Senator Henry Cabot Lodge resides and votes Charles McGlue, a young law student of Lynn, democratic candidate, has tied Senator Lodge's personal candidate, William D. Fisher, and on Monday night a recount of the vote in the town of Nahant will decide the winner of one of the seats in the house.

McGlue made his fight against the Lodge slate in the face of a personal appeal from the senior United States senator to the voters of the district, embodied in a circular in which, over his own signature he solicited votes for the candidate for the senate and the two candidates for the house to prevent the democrats capturing the state legislature.

THE SUPERINTENDENTS

Elected Snedden Head of Association

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—David Snedden, commissioner of education for Massachusetts, was elected president of the New England association of School Superintendents yesterday at the 91st meeting in Ford hall. The other officers chosen were: Vice president, Stanley H. Holmes, New Britain, Ct; secretary and treasurer, Valentine Almy, assistant commissioner of public schools for Rhode Island, Cranston, R. I.; members of executive committee, terms to expire 1915, D. H. Perkins, Portland, Me.; Charles W. Bickford, Manchester, N. H.; B. W. Tinker, Watertown, Conn.; to fill the unexpired term of Valentine Almy, secretary and treasurer, F. E. McFee of Woonsocket.

Principal Ernest Silver of the New Hampshire State Normal school at Plymouth, said: "It can be shown that the influx of country-bred citizens into our great cities is essential to the growth and development of city life, the heavy toll annually exacted from the rural districts by the call of the cities is a serious menace to the country.

Principal John L. Alger of the state normal school at Providence professed that before many years a year in normal school would count as a year in college for any student who might want to attend the latter institution.

William Orr, deputy commissioner of education for Massachusetts, claimed that the majority of young teachers today began their work not properly qualified to teach a primary or a secondary school, one reason being the lack of incentive for the student to spend money in training.

Supt. Franklin B. Dyer of Boston urged the need of "progressive" teachers in the Boston schools. "The progressives," he said, "are the teachers who expand and develop their own knowledge, as well as that of their pupils. The other classes of teachers are the misfits and the stationaries."

The association accepted a resolution recommending the lengthening of the required course of study for normal schools, and the provision in high schools of a course preparing for normal school work. Social centre work in schools was endorsed. In other resolutions the associations invited the attention of normal school authorities to the increasing need for the training of teachers for work with those lagging pupils for whom individual instruction in special schools and classes was needed and favored legislation providing for the automatic retirement of teachers upon completion of a reasonable length of service and the payment from public funds of adequate pensions. Approval was also given to the efforts now being made to introduce pre-vocational training, into the elementary grades, and, in the interest of increased efficiency, the number of pupils per teacher in the elementary grades to not more than 30 and in high school classes to not more than 20.

SOMERVILLE SETTLES

For Damage Done to School Property

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—The city of Somerville has paid the archbishop of Boston the sum of $21,000 for damages to the St. Joseph's church and school property growing out of the abolishing of the grade crossing on Webster avenue. When the case was tried before a jury in the superior court at East Cambridge in May the church authorities were awarded $17,532.67. The church authorities were not satisfied with the verdict and intended to carry it to a higher court, but an agreement was reached between the interested parties.

GUNMEN MAY PLEAD GUILTY

Alleged Murderers of Rosenthal Said to Be Willing to Admit Murder in Second Degree

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The rumor persisted in and about the criminal courts building today that the four gunmen indicted for shooting down Herman Rosenthal desired to withdraw their pleas of not guilty and enter pleas to murder in the second degree. Their counsel denied, however, that any such move was contemplated and Dist.-Atty. Whitman would make no comment. The prisoners themselves—Lefty Louie, Whitey Lewis, Dago Frank and Gyp the Blood—had nothing to say. There was no court session today. The selection of the jurors, five of whom had been chosen yesterday, will be resumed Monday.

MAYOR J. E. O'DONNELL

Replies to Criticism of Police at Polls

The following letter from the mayor to the superintendent of police relative to the blundering count of ballots in precinct 3 of ward 2, and a criticism appearing in a morning paper is self-explanatory:

Nov. 9, 1912.

Redmond Welch, Supt. of Police:

Dear Sir—Will you obtain for me at once a report from the patrolmen who were on duty at precinct 3, ward 2, on election day, Nov. 5th, as to what occurred there with reference to good order. My reason for obtaining such report is as follows: in the "Catch-All" column of the Courier-Citizen this morning, commenting upon the election returns sent in from that precinct, the writer states: "It is absurd that they (the precinct officers) should be able to plead in avoidance of the task that 'they are tired of having to keep the men from fighting.' Fighting in a Massachusetts polling booth should be summarily dealt with when any occurs, or even threatened, by proper police authority. The whole business seems to be up to Mayor O'Donnell as commissioner of public safety. If he cannot provide better for this precinct in the coming city elections, it is high time we got busy and overhauled the public safety department."

As is known to all, barring perhaps, the writer of the "Catch-All" column, the precinct officers in all precincts are selected by the commissioner of finance and not by the commissioner of public safety, likewise the police officers, two to a precinct, are ordered by the elections department. For years the elections department has ordered two officers to a precinct and they have been sent by the police department with instructions as to the performance of their duty. On this particular occasion they received special instructions from you relative to illegal voting. Therefore, instead of the "whole business" being up to the public safety department, the latter department is concerned only as to whether or not the officers at that precinct performed their duty, and for that reason I desire a report from them. I am somewhat surprised that a newspaper would pass judgment on so serious a matter without attempting to get at the facts in the case, though it is not to be wondered at, when, at the outset, it confounds the two departments of elections and public safety, and concludes with the significant statement: "It is high time we got busy and overhauled the public safety department." It would appear that the desire to overhaul the department has caused an inclination to overlook the truth. Respectfully,

James E. O'Donnell.

Inspector Moran Conducts Examinations

Seven applicants appeared at the office of the state inspector of boilers to be examined for the positions of firemen and 3rd class engineer by Mr. Edward Moran, who has charge of that department in this district.

The candidates for these licenses have been quite numerous of late and already nine men have sent in their applications to undergo the test next Friday morning. The apparatus and general facilities for the holding of these trials are located in the inspector's office in the Central block and are quite a help to the inspector. The men are required to make practical demonstrations of their ability along the lines which they desire to follow, such as the operation of valves, boilers, steam and safety guages, etc., and the work which they are required to do in the presence of Mr. Moran is no different than that which would be their duty in the engine room of a factory or mill. If they are found to be qualified for the positions in question, the licenses are made out and given to them immediately.

On last Thursday, two members of the board of examiners in Boston came to this city to examine, together with Inspector Moran, applicants who wished to qualify as first or second class engineers. There were eight candidates present to take this test which is similar to the regular weekly test except perhaps for the fact that it is more difficult, and out of this number three were found to be unfitted and as a consequence were rejected. In case of a failure to qualify, the applicants are allowed to take another examination but a space of 90 days must elapse between the tests. Among those who qualified for the first class engineer's licenses were two Lowell men, W. N. Prescott, of 85 Pleasant street, and Michael F. Heatherman, of 28 Lyons street. The license which is given these men is the highest which can be obtained in the department and requires a full knowledge of the different departments on the part of the applicants. The trial consists of oral questions and practical demonstrations in operating the apparatus in the office.

At a rough estimation Mr. Moran and the members of the state board have examined about 500 applicants during the past year in all branches combined and out of this number about 200 have been rejected.

Lowell Boys at Holy Cross

A large number of young people of this city will be pleased to learn that the Lowell boys who are at present studying at Holy Cross college in Worcester, are making elaborate plans to hold a third annual "Holy Cross" dance in this city on the eve of New Year's day. On the last two occasions on which the Holy Cross boys held these parties, the attendance was large and a very enjoyable time was spent by all present. Recently a number of inquiries have been made as to whether or not another party would take place this year. Among those who are in charge of the arrangements are Frederick Brady, Thomas Markham, William Reardon, William Connolly and several others. The particulars of the event are not yet complete, but will be made public at an early date.

WOMEN FIGHT FLAMES

Blaze Was Set By a Firebug

PITTSFIELD, Nov. 9.—Fire, believed incendiary, caused a loss of $60,000 to the Church family of Mt. Lebanon Shakers in Mt. Lebanon, N. Y., eight miles west of Pittsfield, yesterday afternoon. A strong northwest wind was blowing and for several hours the entire community was threatened.

The property destroyed consisted of three barns and a community storehouse containing 1500 bushels of oats, 600 bushels of buckwheat, 300 tons of hay, 500 bushels of rye, 50 bushels of potatoes, many other vegetables, farming tools and six calves. Four hundred bushels potatoes had already been distributed among the four Shaker families at Mt. Lebanon.

But for the heroic efforts of men and women of the Shaker colony, who formed a bucket brigade, the main administration building, the seat of the Mt. Lebanon ministry, and other structures would have been destroyed.

Women 70 years old worked valiantly with the few men with buckets of water in saving property.

Directing the work were Sister Emma Neal, head of the Church family, and Eldresses Catherine Allen and Harriet Bullard. Miss Bullard is 85 years old. She is the oldest member of the Mt. Lebanon ministry.

Henry Clough discovered the flames bursting through the windows shortly after 2 o'clock. The entire Shaker community, extending for a mile along the street at Mt. Lebanon, was summoned by ringing the church bell, and the Pittsfield fire department was asked to send apparatus. Chief William C. Shepard refused, because of the hard run over the mountain.

At least eight suspicious fires have occurred during the past year in the Lebanon valley, and it is thought the one yesterday was the work of a firebug.

One of the barns costing $30,000 had been completed but a few months. Three years ago buildings on the same site burned at a loss of $100,000. The Shakers were insured yesterday for only about a third of their loss. They will rebuild.

Is your fireplace ready for Thanksgiving day? If not, consult The Thompson Hardware Co.

COL. THEO. ROOSEVELT

Refuses to Accept Accident Policy

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Col. Roosevelt visited the Outlook office yesterday for the first time since he was shot at Milwaukee, and spent a busy day at the duties of the contributing editorship. He had talks with William H. Hotchkiss, progressive state chairman, and Bainbridge Colby of New Jersey.

"When Mr. Roosevelt was informed for the first time by the Outlook company of the accident policy which, issued by the Casualty Company of America, is now in force, and also of the fact that the company had tendered the return of the premium to the Outlook and demanded the return to them of the policy, he instantly stated that he would not accept any payment whatever under this policy, which has now been returned to the company."

Lawrence Abbott, when asked if The Outlook company, which paid the insurance premium, was as willing as Col. Roosevelt to waive aside all payments due under it, said he knew of no plans to recover any payments, and that the matter had been settled as the colonel wished it to be.

At the office of the Casualty Company of America it was learned that about 10 days ago The Outlook company gave notice of its intention to file a claim for weekly payments due for the period Col. Roosevelt was incapacitated on account of his wound. The Casualty company replied to this notice that The Outlook company was acting illegally, as the only person who could file a claim for indemnity was the person insured. In this case it was insisted upon by the company that Col. Roosevelt file his claim in person. This made it necessary that The Outlook company bring the whole matter to the attention of Col. Roosevelt.

In the mean time the Casualty company learned that the policy had been applied for without the knowledge or consent of the person insured. This, according to the company's lawyers, made the policy illegal, and the company offered to return the premiums paid in consideration of the surrender of the policy. At first The Outlook people would not consent to this, but yesterday afternoon the policy reached the office and premiums paid upon it were returned to The Outlook.

NEW MASONIC HALL

It Is Now Undergoing Finishing Touches

The remodelling and decorating of the new Masonic hall which is to be located in the hall formerly occupied by the Foresters in the Pollard block in Palmer street, is proceeding toward the goal of completion at a rapid pace and in a short time the Masons will have one of the most attractive and best equipped lodge rooms of any organization in this city.

The new home of the Masonic fraternity is located on the third floor of the building and is most convenient. Its chief feature when completed will be the large meeting hall upon which the finishing touches are now being made. The Masons will occupy nearly the entire third story of the edifice and no expense is being spared to make the place worthy of the organization which is soon to move there. The hall is of beautiful finish and furnishing. At either end and on one side are raised platforms for the presiding officers and speakers and a series of three or four broad steps form the approach to these. The place is of large dimension and is well lighted. Perhaps the decoration and finish of the woodwork and ceiling would first claim the attention of the visitor for these are of unique and attractive design. The place has been repainted and varnished and everything is spick and span.

Most of the work at present is being directed toward the completion of this hall. There are besides a number of other and smaller rooms which will in all probability be used as reception rooms, game rooms, business offices, etc. These, too, will be no less tastefully fitted out to be in keeping with the general high standard which the organization has determined upon and which the contractors are carrying out to the fullest capacity. It is expected that the new Masonic hall will be ready for occupancy about the first of the year.

A DEMOCRATIC SENATOR

Has Been Elected in Oregon

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 9.—Returns from every county in Oregon practically complete except one, give for United States senator: Lane, dem., 36,247; Selling, rep., 34,748; Bourne, ind., (incumbent), 24,376; Clark, prog., 9945.

Honey Boys' Concert

The second annual concert and dance of the Honey Boys, will be held in Associate hall on next Wednesday evening. This troupe of entertainers, though organized but last year, has made an enviable reputation in the minstrel fraternity, at home and abroad. They have given a number of concerts and all were pronounced successes. Last year the company went to Ayer, Lawrence and several other nearby places and were received so well that in practically every place, they were recalled for a second performance. At their local show last season, the Honey Boys were greeted by one of the largest crowds that ever assembled in the hall and the performance was worthy of the large attendance. This year, however, the troupe will appear in a new and original skit entitled, "Uncle Joe's Birthday in the Sunny South." The piece was written by Herbert E. Webster, Sr., of this city and the music is the work of William H. Way, and both are well known in this city for their ability in their respective lines. In order to present the show fittingly, special scenery has been secured for Wednesday, and also costumes, appropriate for the show have been ordered. The skit bids fair to be a snappy, tuneful performance, with the right kind of "pep" to it to make it successful. Rehearsals for the concert have been held and the soloists and members of the chorus are splendidly named for their parts. The performance, so the members say, will eclipse even the superior production given here last year. After the show dancing to the music of Kittredge's orchestra will be enjoyed. The Honey Boys in a short space of time have established a splendid reputation and hence a big crowd is expected.

WOMAN BURNED ALIVE

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—After kissing his wife good-bye as he started for work yesterday morning at 6 o'clock, Abraham Shanfield came to his home at 24 Balfour street in Roxbury 11 hours later, and opening the front door stumbled and fell over her charred body.

She had committed suicide by soaking her clothes with kerosene and then setting fire to them.

Mrs. Shanfield, who was 64 years old, had twice before tried to take her own life, according to the police. The last time was on Oct. 24, when she tried to asphyxiate herself and nearly succeeded.

She was allowed to return to her home, and, although she had seemed despondent for several days, her husband believed her health was improving. Neighbors recalled seeing the woman at the window of her home at noon yesterday. It is believed she soon afterward set her clothes on fire. No sign of smoke was seen.

BABY RUINS ROMANCE

Divorce Suit Reveals a Secret Marriage

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The curtain has fallen on the romance of little Josephine Brown, by many theatregoers considered the prettiest actress on the American stage. The curtain has been descending slowly since last March, when a girl baby was born to Miss Brown, but now it is down to the footlight level, and a divorce suit has been filed bearing the title Josephine Brown Liedwell vs. Robert Liedwell.

This notice that Josephine Brown is suing for a divorce will be the first news to many of her friends that she is married and positively the first news to all her friends, save those who knew her intimately, that she is the mother of the baby that brought about the first breach between Miss Brown and her husband, a separation soon to be followed and Mr. Liedwell went his way.

Josephine Brown in the season of 1910-11 was leading woman for William Gillette in his revival of "Held by the Enemy." She also was his leading lady in "Secret Service."

Mr. Gillette, young looking, handsome and magnetic, although he passed his youth some time ago, fell in love with his little leading lady. They were engaged to be married, when Miss Brown and her mother went to England at the close of the theatrical season of 1911, and the date of the marriage was tentatively set for the fall of that winter.

A few days after her arrival in London, Miss Brown met an ardent and persuasive young Irishman, Robert Liedwell of Dublin, a member of an old family and the last of his line, and married him quietly in June, 1911, in West London.

"Uncle Sam" came to New York and was not a success. Miss Brown was importuned by Mr. Gillette to star in a play he had purchased for her use. Then it became necessary to break the news of her marriage to Mr. Gillette.

Young Mr. Liedwell, his wife, and his mother-in-law lived in a flat uptown until the baby was born. Liedwell, according to Miss Brown, did not show a father's appreciation of the baby. He soon became bitter against the little mite because she was a girl when he had hoped for a boy. A bitter quarrel arose and Liedwell packed his trunks and departed. His wife has not seen him since and says she does not know where he is.

WANTS A LIBERAL

Congressman Gardner Favors Curtis Guild for United States Senator in 1913.

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—In a statement in which he also declares that he should view it as a mistake if any of the candidates prominently mentioned for the United States senatorship at the present time should be elected, Congressman A. P. Gardner of Hamilton last night said that under no circumstances would he accept election as Senator Crane's successor.

The statement followed inquiries as to whether Mr. Gardner would enter the senatorial race.

Mr. Gardner expresses the hope that there will be no caucus for senator in the coming legislature, but he does not suggest the course to be followed in determining the republican party choice. The election of a senator whose record and views are both liberal is favored by him as a means of rebuilding the republican party on liberal lines. His own sympathies lie in the direction of Ex-Gov. Guild, Mr. Gardner says, and the ambassador will receive support whether he is a candidate or not.

THE CASHIER RESIGNED

Quit His Position on Short Notice

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—The sudden resignation of Frederick H. Curtiss, for nine years cashier of the First National bank, announcement of which was made yesterday, is causing considerable stir in local financial circles.

No reason for his action was given by Mr. Curtiss. The resignation, filed but three days ago, went into effect on Thursday.

Daniel G. Wing, president of the bank, says these facts have no significance and that the best of feeling exists between the bank officials and Mr. Curtiss and that their business relations were entirely satisfactory.

Mr. Curtiss was cashier of the Massachusetts National bank until its consolidation with the First in 1903, and has served as cashier of the latter continuously since that time. His resignation, filed three days ago, was accepted at once and Mr. Curtiss left his place as cashier at the close of business on Thursday night. Downie D. Muir, one of the vice presidents of the bank, was elected to fill his place.

"The only statement I can make is that I have resigned from the First National bank," said Mr. Curtiss last night. "The report that ill health led to the resignation is unfounded. I am feeling very well. I have no plans for the future."

President Daniel G. Wing asserted that the resignation had been anticipated but said there was no reason for it so far as the company was concerned.

BOSTON PATROLMAN

Who Could Speak Chinese Language Fluently Goes to a Farm in Maine—Had Been Member of Force 14 Years

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Patrolman Linwood S. Leavitt, the only fluent Chinese conversationalist in the Boston police department, surrendered his badge and police outfit today to take charge of his 80 acre farm in Maine.

Leavitt has been a member of the police force about 14 years, and during most of that time he was on duty in the Chinese business and residential district about Harrison avenue.

At the outset of his career as policeman he realized what a tremendous handicap it was to "cover" the Chinese settlement without ability to speak the language. Chinese merchants discouraged his ambition to learn, but he finally obtained a tutor, and mastered the rudiments of the language.

For a long time he "mixed" with the Chinese and was even more wily than they, in that he knew what they were talking about while they thought they were safely carrying on conversations in Chinese in his presence.

JOHNSON SPENT NIGHT IN JAIL

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Jack Johnson, champion heavyweight pugilist of the world, last night occupied a cell in the county jail, due to his failure to furnish a $30,000 bond for his release on a charge of violating the Mann act.

Johnson's attempt to provide bond at the regular session of court failed, and Judge Landis agreed to hold a night session to give the pugilist an opportunity to obtain new bondsmen.

In his extended fight for bond, Johnson shed tears, pleaded, offered cash bond in almost any amount, and employed two attorneys, David Backrach and Edward Morris, in an effort to obtain his release.

Three prospective bondsmen failed to qualify and one of them, Albert C. Jones, was sent to jail after he had failed to obtain a bond of $10,000 for his appearance in court next Monday to answer a charge of contempt which was lodged against him by the court when he attempted to schedule property said to belong to his wife.

Tony May, another prospective bondsman, was ordered out of court because he gave answers to questions which the court considered untruthful.

"Give cash bond in any amount, but for goodness' sake keep me out of jail," Johnson pleaded with his attorneys.

Both Dist. Atty. Wilkerson and Judge Landis refused to consider a cash bond.

"An unparalleled attempt to swindle this court by offering unqualified bondsmen has been made," said Judge Landis. "I will not consider a cash bond."

Mr. Wilkerson said he understood that Johnson intended to leave this country on Nov. 30 if he obtained his release. The offense with which Johnson is charged is not subject to extradition.

Several other charges against Johnson are to be investigated by the grand jury, it is said.

Dist. Atty. Wilkerson said last night he intended to put Johnson on trial as soon as possible. The case probably will be called next week.

Catherine Dorsey, at whose home the young white girl, Lucille Cameron, lived, for several weeks, was arrested this afternoon. She had been hiding in a barn for three weeks. She was held under $5000 bond as a witness in the Johnson case and also was remanded to the marshal's custody.

Kid Broad Covers Up

Broad spent most of his time covering up so that Lavin could not get to him. Broad kept his arms crossed before him most of the time, and late in the bout, when the crowd was shouting its displeasure, Lavin deliberately held his chin out in an endeavor to get Broad to unfold. When he did Paddy caught him with a left jab and hooked him with a right, which sent Broad scurrying back to cover again.

New London Bouts

NEW LONDON, Conn., Nov. 9.—Three 10-round bouts, staged by Greenwood A. C. in Lawrence hall last night, resulted in Young Redman of Webster putting Young Sherman across the ropes for the count in the third round.

Bill Graham of New York sent "Dutch" Hynes of Springfield, Mass., to "the land of nod" in two rounds; and the main bout between the local Army champion, K. O. Palitz, and Terry Mitchell of New York went the limit at a very fast pace, with honors even.

Desmond Shades Bull Anderson

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Larry Desmond and "Bull" Anderson, both Brooklyn welterweights, fought 10 fast rounds at the East New York A. C. in Brooklyn last night. Desmond was a shade the better.

Bay Wood's Bout

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 9.—Bay Wood of Fall River won a decisive victory over Willie Moody of Philadelphia in Mechanics' hall last night before a large crowd.

Wood rushed the fighting in every round, and although Moody stood up to the onsets with marked spirit, he was practically worn down by the avalanche of blows. Wood took the initiative in every round and although the Philadelphian was a showy sparrer, he was unsuccessful in landing effectively. Neither boy scored a knockdown.

Al Shubert Surprised

NEW BEDFORD, Nov. 9.—Al Shubert, the clever New Bedford boxer, who has yet to meet defeat, caught a tartar last night, when he met Charley Harvey, bantamweight champion of Philadelphia, before the New Bedford A. C. The bout was declared a draw after 12 hurricane rounds.

The contestants slugged it out toe to toe on several occasions, but both finished in good shape, though Shubert had a badly swollen eye as a memento. Harvey's experience counted strongly in his battle against his younger and stronger opponent.

His defense was perfection and he ducked under Shubert's wicked right-hand swings with a sureness that discounted the New Bedford boy's best asset. At long range he jabbed his left into Shubert's face with tantalizing effect, and in the clinches he tied up his man with ease on nearly every occasion.

When both men cut loose in the mix-ups Shubert more than held his own, but Harvey was so shifty that he could not reach a spot that would make his own harder hitting count.

Young Dias and Eddie Sweeney fought a rattling eight-round draw, each scoring a knockdown. Flash Rogers of this city knocked out Young Sylvester of Onset in the first round.

Bobby Langley was knocked down by Young Lebrouf of the Montana A. C. in the semifinal and could not get up, having hurt his knee. The ring was in such bad shape that Young Corbett, the referee, refused to allow the main bout between Young Dyson and Harry Stone to go on, the bout being postponed until the 24th.

McGee Wins in Two Minutes

TESTIMONY OF THE MILLWORKERS

At Trial of Ettor, Giovannitti and Caruso May Be Concluded Today

SALEM, Nov. 9.—Counsel for the defense in the Ettor, Giovannitti and Caruso murder trial planned to conclude if possible today the taking of testimony of mill workers who took part in the events of the Lawrence textile strike at its inception. Though many witnesses have been summoned to testify relating to the calling of the strike, the incidents of the parade and speeches of the leading defendants, many of them may be eliminated as their stories would only add to the corroboration which already has been piled up.

Testimony relating to the operations to the police, the militia, mill owners and officials will next be inquired into.

An effort to establish an alibi for Joseph Caruso, co-defendant with Jos. J. Ettor and Arturo Giovannitti on trial here for the murder of Anna Lopizzo in the Lawrence textile strike last winter was begun here by his attorneys today.

Antonio Bartolo, Caruso's landlord, called as a witness for the defense, testified that he visited Caruso's tenement on the evening of Jan. 29 when Anna Lopizzo was killed and found Caruso there eating supper with his wife and his godfather, Salvatore Buonacosso.

The commonwealth has sought to prove that Caruso was present in the crowd of strikers in the fatal riot at Union and Garden streets. The shooting occurred there a few minutes before 5.30 o'clock.

"I went to Caruso's tenement about twenty minutes before six o'clock that evening," said Bartolo.

"Who did you see?" asked Attorney Fisk.

"I pushed open the door," he answered, "and there I saw Caruso, his wife and godfather. They were eating supper."

The witness said he stayed there some time because he heard shots fired in the street, the sounds coming from the direction of Union and Garden streets.

Bartolo said he left the Caruso house about 15 minutes later and did not see the defendant again that night. Five or six months ago, after Caruso's arrest Bartolo said he went to the defendant's attorney and related the supper incident.

On cross examination Bartolo said he had known Caruso and his wife about four years but was not related to either of them. All came from Sicily, however, he admitted.

Salvatore Buonaccosso, the godfather of Caruso, testified in support of the defendant's alibi. He said he went to Caruso's house on the night of the Lopizzo killing about 20 minutes after 5 o'clock.

"I saw Caruso and his wife there," he said. "They were starting to eat. I ate with them, some pigs' feet, some lima beans and some meat."

"Did anybody come to the house then?" asked Attorney Fisk.

"Yes, the boss of the house, Antonio Bartolo," said the witness.

Edward Riley, Archie Adamson, Gilbert Smith and William Barn, members of the strike committee, who previously testified, were recalled and asked if there was general belief in Lawrence among the strikers that dynamite had been planted at the instigation of the millowners to prejudice the cause of the workers. All answered in the affirmative.

Frank Reider testified that he went to the Jewish synagogue during the strike to hear the defendant, Ettor, speak.

"He told the strikers to keep away from the soldiers," said Reider, "and to let them freeze. He said they were looking for trouble and that it would hurt the strikers if they did anything to arouse them."

Mrs. Rosa Caruso, diminutive, black eyed and raven-haired wife of the defendant, who has become a mother since his arrest, testified in his behalf. She had been a constant attendant at the trial and moved from Lawrence to Salem when her husband was transferred to the Salem jail. Frequently Mrs. Caruso brings her baby to the courthouse, where the father is permitted to see it in an anteroom.

Mrs. Caruso corroborated the testimony of Bartolo and Buonaccosso as to Caruso's whereabouts on the evening of the Lopizzo killing. She testified through an interpreter.

"That night," she said, "Caruso came home about five minutes to five or five minutes past. He brought home some olives, some Roman cheese and some maccaroni."

Witness testified that she then cooked some lima beans and prepared supper. She related that she and her husband sat down to supper with Buonaccosso and that the landlord came in about 15 minutes later.

"Pretty soon we heard shots," said Mrs. Caruso, "and the boss of the house spoke about them. He stayed in the house till nearly 6 o'clock.

After supper Mrs. Caruso said she and her husband went to the Italian postoffice. She remained outside while Caruso entered to get the mail. She saw Policeman Marshall go into the postoffice. It was at that time the defense claims that Caruso offered to aid in locating the relatives of Anna Lopizzo.

Mrs. Caruso denied that she had ever seen Detective Lacourt, who testified for the state that he visited their home and that Caruso confessed he had stabbed Policeman Benoit.

HAS MANY NAMES

But President-Elect Wilson Likes the Title "Mister" Wilson, the Best He Says

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 9.—Woodrow Wilson looked over his mail today and found that there were seven different ways that people were addressing him. First there was "President-elect Wilson," the "Governor Wilson," also "Dr. Wilson" and "Prof. Wilson" for his one time university connection, then there was "His Excellency, President Wilson," and "His Excellency, Governor Wilson." Last but best liked of all by him was plain "Mr. Woodrow Wilson."

"I would rather be called 'Mr. Wilson' than anything else," he said today. "President-elect is too awkward a mouthful. I wish my friends would use 'Mister' in addressing me."

In Princeton, however, some of his classmates call him "Woodrow" and so do the people in town and students of the university. In his household Mrs. Wilson calls him "Woodrow," Joseph R. Wilson calls him "Brother" and one of his daughters calls him "Father."

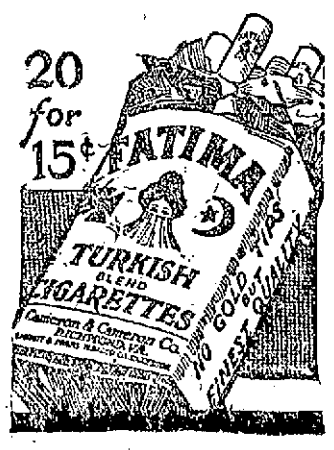

This completes the list of games by which Woodrow Wilson finds himself addressed every day.

may, however, be satisfied with something less than a port on the Adriatic sea and in view of the motto of the Balkan nations "the Balkans for the Balkan people" she can hardly turn a deaf ear to the claims of the Albanians to rule their own country.

On the other hand many think that Austria-Hungary will not risk losing the friendship of the Balkan nations with which she has a big trade. She has instructed her minister at Belgrade to put her point of view before the Servian government so that direct negotiations between the two countries will soon be opened.

In the meantime about a million soldiers are scattered across the territory of European Turkey, engaged in one of the most deadly wars of modern days. Even official despatches describe the battlefields as strewn with corpses. Among these must be many severely wounded men who unable to move wait in vain for the arrival of the ambulance corps, which is notoriously unable to cope with the task.

Confirmation came today both from Constantinople and Athens of the fall of Saloniki and its garrison into the hands of the Greeks. The first report of the capture was based on mere supposition. King George of Greece had received a despatch from Crown Prince Constantine saying the Turkish commander proposed capitulation. The crown prince demanded that the Turkish army within the city should lay down its arms and that Fort Karaburun should also surrender. He gave the Turkish commander until Friday morning to comply with his conditions. When the people of Gida, where King George had his headquarters heard 20 guns fired on Friday morning and then silence, they took it for granted that Soloniki had surrendered. When the last reports were despatched from the front there was every evidence of the early fall before the Bulgarian attack of the line of forts at Tchatalja in front of Constantinople while the fortress of Adrianople appeared to be slowly succumbing to Bulgarian bombardment, starvation and disease.

It is said that King Ferdinand of Bulgaria and probably also the other Balkan kings will lead the army which enters Constantinople and that they will be accompanied by Bulgarians, Servian, Greek and Montenegrin contingents.

While Bulgaria has declared her intention not to remain in the Turkish capital even the entrance of an invading army is likely to cause a revulsion of feeling in Russia against Bulgaria and possible complications.

With the arrival of the conquering army the sultan must necessarily leave for Asia Minor and his government will probably accompany him.

The Turkish capital so far is quiet and the arrival of the Italian battleship Emmanuel Filiberto and the Austrian cruiser Ashern today has had a soothing effect. The foreign embassies are well protected.

Conflicting reports were received later in the day from Bulgarian and Turkish sources as to the result of a battle on the western frontier of Adrianople. The Bulgarians claim to have captured the fort on Mount Kartal and another on Mount Papasa while the Turks declare that the Bulgarians were defeated with great loss in a two days' battle there.

CAPITULATION OF THE TURKISH FORTRESS OF SALONIKI HAS BEEN SIGNED

ATHENS, Nov. 9.—The capitulation of the Turkish fortress of Saloniki as well as Fort Kernburnun, was signed last night, according to an official despatch received by King George. Twenty-five thousand Turkish troops surrendered.

OFFICERS AND SEAMEN FROM NEWPORT TO BE SENT WITH U. S. CRUISERS TO TURKEY

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 9.—Arrangements were made today to send 300 petty officers and seamen to the naval training station at Philadelphia as part of the complement to man the cruisers Tennessee and Montana which have been ordered to Turkey. The request for the detail was received from the navy department today and the men will report at the Philadelphia navy yard tomorrow.

IT IS BELIEVED AUSTRIA AND SERVIA WILL REACH AN AGREEMENT

PARIS, Nov. 9.—Despite the critical nature of the Austro-Servian difference in regard to the Balkans, it is believed in official circles in St. Petersburg, according to a despatch to La Libertie that Austria and Servia will reach an accord without jeopardizing the peace of Europe. It is thought that King Ferdinand of Bulgaria and the Russian government are likely to bring influence to bear on Servia to restrain her territorial demands.

BALKAN NATIVES OPPOSED TO MAKING ALBANIA AN AUTONOMOUS STATE

BELGRADE, Servia, Nov. 9.—"The league of the Balkan nations is utterly opposed to making Albania an autonomous state as desired by Germany, Austro-Hungary and Italy," said Premier Jashitch of Servia, in the course of an interview here today.

Waters Surround Hotel

KATAHDIN IRON WORKS, Me., Nov. 9.—The heavy rain of Thursday night caused such a rise yesterday in Silver Lake and the west branch of the Pleasant river that several dwellings and cottages on their shores here were vacated yesterday.

The Silver Lake hotel was surrounded with water and the guests were sent to buildings on higher ground. Should the dam at the inlet of the lake burst the hotel would probably be swept away. A large force of men worked yesterday and last night hauling gravel and rocks to reinforce the dam.

Railroads Damaged

SHAWMUT, Me., Nov. 9.—Railroads and highways were damaged by a torrential rainfall Thursday night and early yesterday. A locomotive of a passenger train on the Skowhegan branch of the Maine Central railroad was ditched here by a washout. The three coaches remained on the rails and none of the 20 passengeas was hurt. The engineer and firemann escaped possible injury by jumping.

TO BUILD TEN STORY HOTEL

Report That Structure Will Be Erected on the Site of the Grosvenor Building

Report has it that arrangements are being made for the erection of a ten-story hotel on the Parker estate, corner of Merrimack square and Bridge street. This is the building in which is located the waiting room and street railway offices. It is said that the building will be of brick and modern in every respect.

The first inkling of any such proposition came with the putting in of the water service in the new Sun building. While these connections were put in, Commissioner Barrett was approached by parties representing the Parker estate and was requested to supply that estate with similar connections. This request was complied with and the connections were installed.

Mr. Barrett allowed it was a good proposition to put them in at that time rather than to wait until spring, when, he understood, changes were to be made in the present building. "I did not hear that a ten-story hotel was contemplated but it was suggested that changes would be made in the spring," said Mr. Barrett.

"The suggestion to install the connections appealed to me inasmuch as the excavation had been already made and to put them in while everything was in readiness would obviate the necessity of reopening the street in the spring. I know that changes are contemplated there, but I do not know just how extensive they may be. The service, however, will accommodate a ten story building.

THIS IS FIRE PREVENTION DAY

District Chief Sullivan Addressed the Pupils of the Moody School Yesterday

Today is the 40th anniversary of the great conflagration in Boston and in order to impress upon the minds of the citizens the desirability of disposing of all useless rubbish to assist in reducing the fire hazard, and such a fire as that which occurred 40 years ago today in the Hub, Gov. Eugene N. Foss has set this day for this purpose, and accordingly set a proclamation all over the state calling upon every citizen to co-operate in reducing the fire hazard by clearing away all rubbish, and preparing it for collection by city or town authorities.

The Lowell board of trade favoring this movement sent a request to all the local citizens to co-operate with the local health department during the coming week, beginning today, and clean up their yards, attics and cellars as well as any other place which may contain rubbish, and which when cleared greatly reduce the danger of fire.

The city is divided into six districts and the health department rubbish carts will take away the collection on the usual days, but the department will see that everything in the line of rubbish will be carted away in due time. The districts and the days the collection is made are as follows:

Monday: Market street and vicinity.

Tuesday: West Centralville.

Wednesday: From the Washington Tavern to and including Lawrence street, that section known as the "Flats," and the Fair Grounds section.

Thursday: The Highlands and Middlesex street as far as South and Gorham streets.

Saturday: Belvidere.

However, the residents of this city are notified that there is material which cannot be taken away by the health department as is stated in rule 2 of the rules and regulations of the health department, which read as follows:

"Ashes and house dirt kept for removal by the health department shall not be mixed with swill, or with mortar, brick, gravel or stone, and shall be kept in suitable vessels which shall be placed on the outside edge of the sidewalk upon such days as the collections are made in each ward. After collection the empty vessels or barrels shall be taken care of by the owners. All waste material of building construction or repair, trade or manufacturing refuse, garden sweepings or cuttings, must be removed by the owner at his own expense."

Agent Bates of the board of health stated this morning that all the refuse placed in proper vessels on the edge of the sidewalks shall be removed during the coming week, no matter how large the quantity may be, providing it is material the health department can handle.

Now it is easy for everyone to know what day the district clean-up is supposed to be complete and it is to hoped that all the alleyways in certain parts of the city will undergo a general cleaning which will mean a lot of prevention fires and also diseases.

Principal Green of the Moody school thinking it would be a wise move to instruct the pupils of his school as to fire prevention, etc., yesterday invited District Chief James Sullivan to give a brief lecture before the children, and Mr. Sullivan cheerfully agreed to do this and late in the afternoon the children gathered in the upper hall of the school and the district chief's lecture which was listened to with great interest was in part as follows:

"I came here this afternoon on the invitation of Mr. Green to say a few words to the girls and boys about the prevention of fires. Now, of course you all know that the governor of the state has designated the ninth day of November as "Fire Prevention Day," and it is the desire of the officials that we impress on the minds of the children and in fact of all the people the great necessity of doing all we can to reduce the great loss that we have each year by fire. The average loss in this state alone is about $9,000,000 a year, to say nothing of the loss of life; and in a great many cases those fires occur through carelessness.

"The ninth day of November is the 40th anniversary of one of the greatest fires that we ever had in this country, the great Boston fire of 1872. It has been estimated that ten millions acres of forest are burned annually at a loss of $20,000,000. Nine out of every ten of these fires could be prevented by using a little care. There has been a fire hazard commission appointed in this state and its members have made a number of recommendations which we think are very good and of which I am going to speak to you this afternoon."

The speaker then went along and gave several important bits of advice, which were as follows:

Know the location of the fire alarm box nearest your house; also learn how to send in an alarm of fire from the box.

There are two kinds of fire alarm boxes, the keyless and the box that opens with a key.

In case of fire keep cool, run to the box and pull the alarm.

Never pull in a false alarm of fire.

Be careful how you use matches; use only safety matches and keep them in metal holders. Don't light them in closets where light clothing or other inflammable material is hung; don't light them near lace curtains.

In lighting a fire in a stove never use kerosene oil in order to make it light quickly. Keep all light material, such as cotton, muslin or lace away from stoves and lighted gas jets. If you know of any place in your neighborhood where quantities of rubbish, shavings or paper have been allowed to accumulate notify a policeman or a fireman, also notify them if you know of any obstructions on a fire escape. If your clothing catches fire do not run, lie down and roll yourself in a blanket or rug to smother the fire. Learn where the exits are and the fire escapes in your building or school and do not forget about your fire drill. Do not put hot ashes in a wooden box or barrel, a metal barrel is the proper thing.

Don't drop a lighted match in any place where it can ignite leaves or other dry material. If you build a fire of leaves in your yard or for a picnic, or to prepare food while in the woods, don't leave it burning but stamp it out or otherwise extinguish it.

If you should see a man carelessly throw a lighted cigar stub into a place where it might ignite make it your business to see that it is stamped out because by so doing you might prevent a great fire. These are the principal precautions that should be observed.

HIGH SCHOOL ELEVEN

Met the South Boston Team Today

This afternoon South Boston is the opponent of the Lowell high eleven on the Washington park gridiron and according to all indications, the boys are going to be seen in action by a large gathering of spectators. The opinion of the majority of the fans seems to be that this game will result in another scalp for Coach Mahoney's braves who thus far are enjoying a season of marked success.

Two of Greater Boston's representative football performers have already been sent home with a goose egg after a humiliation at the hands of Captain Cawley and his men, and the Spindle City school is determined to use the visitors of today in the same merciless manner.

The contest next Friday afternoon against Lawrence academy which was recently arranged, bids fair to be one of the best and hardest fought struggles that Lowell people will have an opportunity of witnessing this season. With the exception of Manchester and Lawrence, Lowell High has lined up against comparatively easy and light teams and the management has decided that it will be to their advantage to meet a heavier and fast aggregation before the great contest against the Haverhill champs. Result: the Lawrence academy exhibition. If the Groton players fall a victim to the locals, "Our Boys" will be well in line for the title.

Lowell High 33, South Boston 0

Lowell High met the South Boston team at Washington park this afternoon. The game was a one-sided affair, the Lowell players outclassing the Boston team in every particular. At the end of the first half the score was Lowell 33, South Boston 0.

Cawley scored three touchdowns, Snider and Trull also scored one each. The goals were kicked by Cawley and Roane.

Many Unaware It Was Called Off

A man who accompanied C. J. Glidden's party on the trip from Detroit to New Orleans over the route that was to have been that of the Glidden tour and who got back in New York yesterday said as far as he could make out the American Automobile association had failed to give direct and formal notice to the hotel people along the line that the tour had been postponed until 1913. This man said that the woman proprietor of the hotel at Rogers Springs, Tenn., which was to have been a night stop for the tour, had hired extra cooks, had laid out money for provisions and had altogether incurred an expense of $300 in preparing for the tourists and up to the time this impromptu trip of Mr. Glidden came along she did not know that the tour was off.

It is to be inferred that the American Automobile Association merely issued statements to the newspapers, but did not notify all the persons along the line with whom arrangements had been made. So much so was this the case that Mr. Glidden's party was joined at Noblesville, Indiana, by a dealer in R. C. H. cars who thought that this was the regular Glidden tour and that he would find in it the cars of that make which were entered at the last moment in the tour. He had with him several customers to whom he intended to show the operation of these machines in regular touring, but inasmuch as there were no other cars but Maxwells in Mr. Glidden's party he could not very well accomplish what he was after. However, he did stay with the tour as far as Louisville.

The man who is quoted reported that nearly a thousand miles of the road between Detroit and New Orleans was good and there were some stretches that were really excellent, but that certainly 200 miles of the road could never be covered by a tour which was attempting to hold to a schedule of 20 miles an hour. This buckshot mud, which is so called because it is a surface made up of myriad pellets of mud, is so treacherous that cars that attempt to do much better than 15 or 16 miles an hour are apt to find themselves in a ditch.

This man said that as a result of Mr. Glidden's trip in the neighborhood of fifty cars might be counted on definitely for next year's Glidden tour. Furthermore he intimated that if the A. A. A. was not particularly anxious to run the Glidden tour next year there was an organization in the middle west which would be glad to take it up, although that would not be a national organization, and even though the name "Glidden Tour" were retained it might not have the same effect as if the backing were that of the national body.

JACK JOHNSON

Slept Six Hours During His First Night in a Prison Cell in Chicago—Request For Larger Cell Refused

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Jack Johnson's first night in the Cook county jail netted him six hours' sleep. "You know I've been disturbed a whole lot in the last month or so," said the negro prize fighter before retiring after his efforts to obtain freedom had been frustrated by irregularity in bail bonds that were intended to hold him for trial on charges of violating the "white slave" law. Johnson was assured that he would not be disturbed. A request by the pugilist that he be moved to a large cell was denied this morning.

Harvard Defeated Yale

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—The Harvard cross country team continued its victories today by defeating Yale in a five-mile race over the Chestnut hill course by a score of 15 to 65. The entire Harvard team, which won from Cornell last week, finished before the Yale men. The Yale freshmen defeated the Harvard freshmen over the same course by a score of 25 to 31.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Nov. 9—Returns from Lincoln county here today give the republicans six of eight members of the legislature, making that body stand 43 republicans and 41 democrats, indicating the election of a republican United States senator.

HARVARD VS. VANDERBILT

A Great Crowd at the Stadium Today

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 9.—The Black and Gold of Vanderbilt university waved against the Crimson of Harvard in the stadium today in the first game between the most promising of southern football teams and the Harvard eleven.

The day was ideal, there being scarcely any wind and just cool enough for keen, snappy football. The Vanderbilt team, which arrived yesterday after a 1200 mile journey, spent the night quietly in Newton and planned to come over to the stadium shortly after lunch. About 25 loyal supporters of the team made the trip from the south, but there was a large delegation of southerners attending Harvard and many residents from the south in and around Boston in the stadium.

Yale Vs. Brown

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 9.—The odds favored the Blue in the annual gridiron battle on Yale field this afternoon between Yale and Brown, although the Yale coaches expected that it would be a hard fought contest. Two years ago the Brunonians came to New Haven and administered a stinging defeat to the Bulldog, but last year Yale had its revenge by winning with a comfortable margin.

Although Brown scored on Harvard, the Yale coaches were hopeful of keeping the Blue goal-line from being crossed. While the rest the Yale team had last Saturday and the suspension of practice on account of the death of Right Guard York may have set the team back in its development, it brought the men to good physical condition for the game today.

The coaches decided to start Cornell at quarter today because he is a stronger player than Wheeler, although not quite as clever a field general.

The Brown eleven and subs arrived in New Haven last night from Hartford, where they spent the afternoon. The men were reported to be in prime condition.

Navy Ready for Bucknell

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 9.—The Navy's team is on edge for the battle with Bucknell this afternoon and there is a strong feeling among the Middies' adherents that their team will do its best work of the season at this game. During the week the navy coaches have gotten more in the way of real improvement drilled into their men than during any similar period and the team in practice has shown something of its accustomed dash and spirit. With Rodes at quarter, Nichols and Ingram at the halves and H. Harrison in the fullback place it is thought the final best combination has been picked for today's game.

West Point vs. Indians

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 9.—The Army team meets the Carlisle Indians here today for the first time since 1905. That game was won by the Redmen 6 to 5. The Army hoped to win today despite the speed and ability of Thorpe, the Indians' star halfback. With Captain Devore back in the Army line after a three weeks' absence the cadets were wonderfully strengthened.

Dartmouth Meets Cornell

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 9.—O'Connor, Cornell's brilliant halfback, will lead his teammates against the Dartmouth eleven in their annual game here this afternoon. This change came as a result of an injury to Captain Butler of Cornell in practice. As this is the last home game on Cornell's schedule and as the team has not played against Dartmouth for several years a large crowd is expected. The Dartmouth players are in good condition.

Princeton vs. N. Y. University

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 9.—Princeton meets New York university here today in the next to the last football game on their schedule. The Tigers are in good condition and all the regulars will start in the contest. The New York is not expected to prove a difficult proposition and the coaches will send in many subs during the game.

Today's Big Games

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Today's gridiron program in the east offered many promising attractions for football enthusiasts. The Yale-Brown and West Point-Carlisle games took large crowds from New York city but there was perhaps even wider interest in the two intersectional contests, the east and west meeting at Philadelphia in the game between Pennsylvania and Michigan and the battle at Cambridge between Harvard and Vanderbilt. Yale has not been seen on the gridiron for a fortnight and today's game was generally looked upon as a prophecy of what the Blue could be expected to do in the final championship games against Princeton and Harvard.

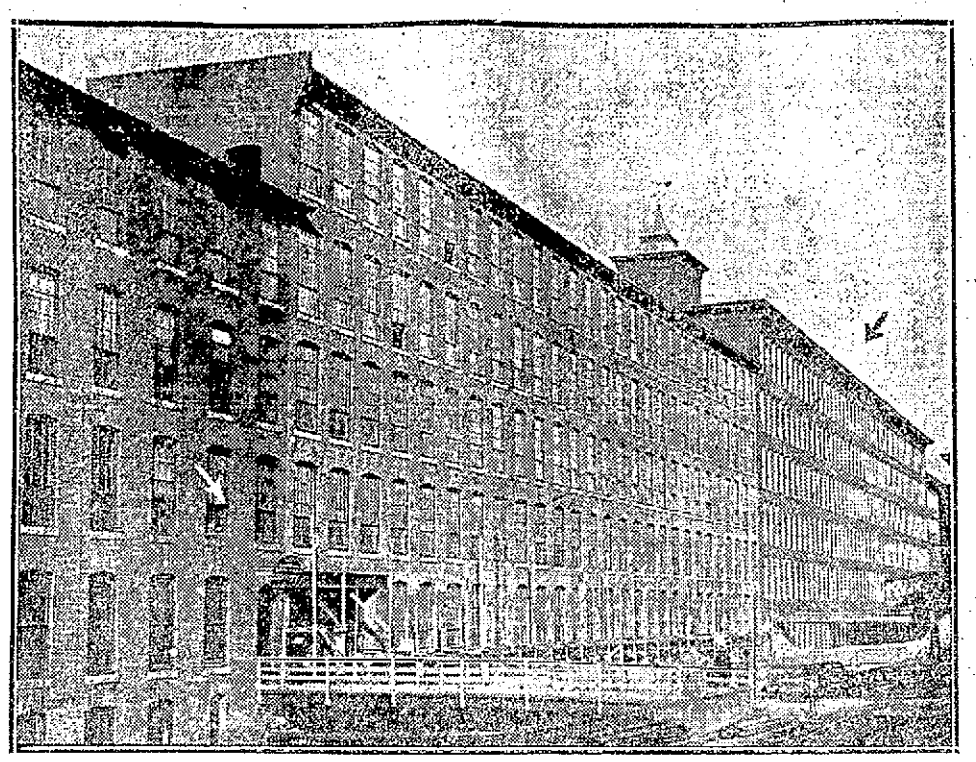

Thousands of New Yorkers were attracted to West Point for the Army-Indians battle. Many persons went for no other reason than to see in action "Jim" Thorpe, all around athletic champion of the world, and possibly the greatest individual player on the gridiron today.

Vanderbilt, although unbeaten this season and regarded as the fastest aggregation ever developed in the south, was so light compared with the Harvard eleven that betting odds favored the Crimson. That the Cambridge coaches did not expect a very trying game was indicated by their decision to keep Brickley, Wendell and some other stars on the sidelines

The Ward Two Muddle

Mr. Charles H. Noble, republican supervisor of elections, who served at precinct 3 of ward 2 on election day, says the errors were caused by a man who was incompetent and who was not a voter. He further says this man was put there by the republican executive of the ward and that he, Mr. Noble, protested at the time against the selection.

The exterior of the new Appleton mill on Jackson street, which will be known as the New Number 1 mill, is completed and now all that remains to be done before the building is ready for occupancy is the interior carpenter work. This will be finished in about one month, and when done the structure will be a beautiful one, and will prove a grand acquisition to the Appleton company.

The brick work was done by Patrick O'Hearn, contractor, and it was finished two weeks ago. The roofing, which was in charge of F. H. Weaver & Son, was laid last week, and now the interior carpenter work, which is in charge of the Burton H. Wiggin company, is being done. Mr. Wiggin expects that he will be ready to vacate in about three or four weeks, and then the structure will be turned over to the company.

The erection of the building, which is five stories and basement, was started early this spring. On June 15, Mr. Wiggin and his men did their first work on the building. At that time the window sills were set up in the basement. From that time until the present, the brick work and carpenter work were carried on jointly.

The erection of the structure progressed rapidly, but the greatest progress was made during the past month. On Oct. 9 but four stories were up and work on the fifth floor was started. Since that time the entire fifth story and the roof have been finished, and the windows in all floors put in.

At the present time the carpenters are at work on the interior of the building, laying the floors and partitions, and all the lower floors are practically ready to be occupied. The company, however, will not have power in the structure until after the entire work has been finished.

The exterior of the building is of modern design, and connects the Appleton and Hamilton mills, running along the canal. It is 240 feet by 100, and when finished will be utilized by the company for general work. In some of the departments at the mill crowded conditions exist, but machinery is to be transferred from the different rooms and conditions will be improved in all departments.

Business Good at Boott

Agent Thomas of the Boott reports that business at his mill is very good at the present time. All departments are running at their full capacity, and the employes are working their regulation week. Mr. Thomas stated that as yet no successor to Victor E. Pihl, mechanical superintendent, who resigned his position, has been appointed. Mr. Pihl has gone to Pearedale, R. I., where it is understood that he will accept a postion similar to the one he held at the Boott.

Busy in Other Mills

In several of the other mills visited by a Sun reporter brisk business was reported, and the mill men feel satisfied that conditions during the winter will be very good.

Silk Ribbon Factory

While it is not generally known, it is nevertheless a fact that Lowell has one of the best equipped silk factories in this section of the country and the factory has been located here since 1903. The work is being done in the building formerly occupied by the Thorndike Mfg. Company as a suspender factory and is located on Thorndike street, just above Hale street. There are two buildings, located there, one of wood and the other a brick structure.

The silk factory is located in the wooden building, and is known as the J. A. Dalrymple & Co. Silk Ribbon factory. Offices of the company are located in Boston and Haverhill. The principal work of the company is the manufacturing of silk ribbons for shoes, while beading is also done there. The ribbon is made there and is later dyed, all being done at the Lowell factory.

The output of the factory is very large, especially so at the present time. There are 40 people employed there and all are working full time. In fact the business at present is better than ever, and work is being done on orders from South America and Cuba, and several other distant places.

The ribbons are ordered to be made and dyed, according to the size and color of the shoes. The samples are forwarded to the local factory and all shades are made here, the work being especially designed to be used with felt shoes.

The local factory is in charge of Charles D. Rodger, a local man, who is superintendent and manager. Mr. Rodger has been in charge of the plant since it opened here in 1903 and during that time much progress has been made under his capable direction.

Mr. Rodger was connected with the building long before the silk factory located there, being a foreman for his brother when the latter had charge of the suspender factory, which was located there. When the Dalrymple Co. came here they secured Mr. Rodger to take charge of the plant and he was a success from the start. In speaking of the work, Supt. Rodger said that it is work that demands great skill, and that all work must be perfect before it leaves the factory. He says that business has increased wonderfully during the last few years, and at present the business is the best since the factory was established. The shoe business is very brisk now, and as the silk ribbon manufactured there is an accessory, the latter business acts accordingly.

New Industry

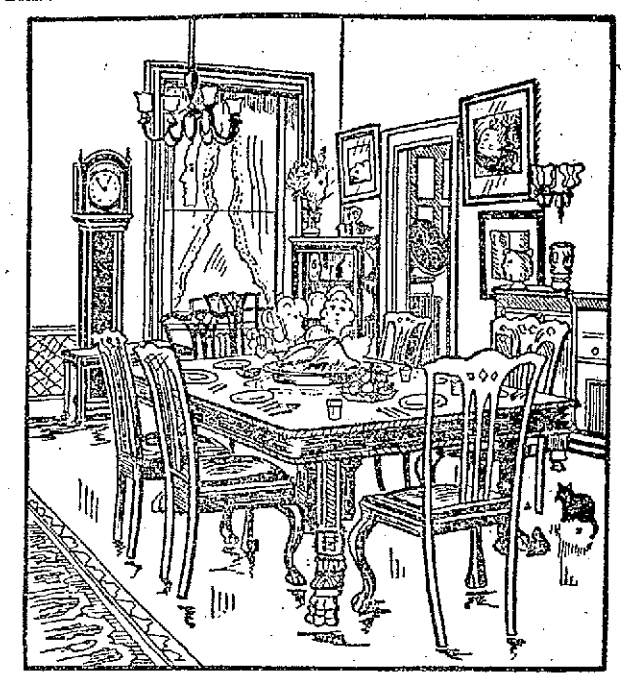

In the brick section of the building, formerly occupied by the Thorndike Mfg. Co., a new industry is being located. The latter is being established by the Johnson-Walker Co. of Providence, R. I., and will be known as the Union Webbing Co. Men are busy there setting up looms and other machinery, and the factory will be ready for occupancy within a few days. This company will manufacture ladies' cotton belts and neckties, and will employ about 60 people. Charles Godfrey of Providence has been appointed superintendent of the new factory, and he, with a number of men, are getting the place in condition to start work.

URGENT SELLING

London's Prices For Our Issues Went Down to One to Two Points—Weakness Was in Coppers, Steel and Standard Railroad Shares

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.- The depressed state of the foreign market resulting from the situation in the Balkans was reflected in the weakness of the local market at today's opening. Declines of a point or more extended throughout the active list with signs of further liquidation for European account.

Further losses were incurred in the first hour with marked weakness in steel, the copper group and others. Various other issues denoted liquidation.

Urgent selling of securities abroad by reason of the latest turn in the Balkan situation caused renewed unsettlement here during today's brief session. London's prices for our issues were down one to two points, and this condition was later duplicated here. Weakness was most pronounced in the coppers and steel later, however, extending to all the standard railroad shares. Lowest prices were reached in the final dealings, at which time most of the gains resulting from Wednesday's post election rise were wiped out. The market closed weak.

THE INDIANS

Play the Strong Lawrence Independents on the Fair Grounds This Afternoon

The Indian football team of this city will have for opponents on the Fair Grounds this afternoon the strong Lawrence Independents, from the down river city. The local boys are playing a great game and are confident of adding another scalp to their belts this afternoon. They have practiced hard for the encounter and are bound to give the Lawrence aggregation, which is reputed to be one of the best elevens in this section at its weight, a great tussle. The game starts at 3 o'clock.

FEMININE HINTS AND NOVELTIES

How Do You Like the New Headgear That Has Been Designed for the Women to Wear This Season Which is Most Attractive and Becoming

MOTOR AND EVENING MODELS.

Hat shapes are insignificant and almost commonplace in their contours this season, but the trimmings on them "play such tricks before high heaven as make the angels weep." Small hats that fit the head closely are extremely fashionable, and if one wants to be ultra chic one must wear her little hat slouched down over her head in a rowdyish, undignified fashion.

Indeed, these shapes are worn closer over the head than ever, and the approved style demands that they cover one eye and all of the hair unless the curly locks are arranged very low over the brow. So you can easily figure out that "the colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady" are going to look very like in the smart small hat of the winter.

For ordinary wear the small hats are of velvet, velours or a soft silky beaver, but whatever the material the makeup is invariably soft and almost slouchy in effect. Many of these pliable crowns have the amateurish appearance one often sees in a homemade creation that aims at Parisian chic, but falls far of the mark. It is possible to punch one of the soft crowns into all kinds of shapes without damaging its beauty in the least—in fact, every time it's hit it bobs up smiling.

The sole trimming on the small plush or velvet hat is apt to be a single rose of silk or satin posed at one side on the narrow upturned brim, and very smart, if undistinguished, it looks. However, sobered down with a nice little veil the effect is not rowdyish.

On some of the brown plush hats are extremely good looking imitations of sealskin. A fur tail laid perfectly flat against one side of the hat is the only adornment. But when one comes to study them these so called new shapes are not so widely different from those worn last year. The difference lies in a simmering down of styles. The shape that is wider at one side than the other and broader at the front than in the back is still with us.

The earmark of the best looking of the new hats is their soft and supple appearance, with trimmings so placed that they look as if they were about to fall off the head at one side. Feathers project over brims at the most perilous angles, and wings and quills find themselves flat on their backs, with a hat brim for a resting place.

Sweeping aigrets and fancy plumes are reserved to trim the Sunday best chapeau. Aigrets, by the way, are not so long as they were last year. The spirals are shorter and spread out, thereby making a better show. One wants this effect, since the bird of paradise has more than amounted to its weight in gold, so far as price is concerned. But one cannot exactly say that the bird of paradise feather is cheap this season. A recent display of Paris hats contained an adorable little model with shallow upturned brim and soft crown developed in Russian squirrel skin. This fur is the wealthy relative of the poor little grubbing gray animal we know so well and love, but would hardly recognize in the cultured pelt of mole color marked with black that distinguishes its Russian kinsman. The sole trimming on the squirrel skin hat was a paradise plume of the same mole gray shade, and the price for the confection was $39.

Black and white effects are with us, to be sure, but they will not rule everything as they did last year. Black hats garnished with white for dressy wear will always be a la mode.

And in connection with these ceremonious shapes the picture hat is never out of fashion. It alters in details only. This year we are back to soft, furry felts with wavy brims, to velvet and satin, of course, and even to old world brocades. Furniture brocade is used with great effect for some picture hats, which are each trimmed with a sweeping plume or a single sable skin.

An inch wide facing of contrasting tone is often very becoming and striking, as is an under edge if it be white in the same material as the hat itself.

The way of wearing a hat this season has everything to do with its style. This idea is best illustrated by glancing at the hat with towering plume seen in one of the cuts. This hat is tipped at such an angle that the ostrich pom pom stands almost erect. The hat could also be worn straight, the pom pom slanting out toward the left side.

Tiny close fitting bonnets are wonderfully fetching as an accompaniment to elaborate afternoon costumes, and the one illustrated of white plush with a gray and blue embroidered band trimming and a touch of sealskin on the brim, is charming.

As an example of audaciously placed trimmings on hats look at the angle of the feather on one of the hats pictured. It is a model of plush and felt with a fabric quill of silk. Who would have dreamed a season or two ago of slanting a hat feather out sideways in this pert manner? Yet the effect is undeniably chic, as the illustration shows. The smart sailor of brown velvet is a delightful example of the way in which fur is being used to trim winter hats. Skunk is the pelt employed for the hat, muff and neckpiece. A bow of orange velvet and orange silk roses add chic to the hat.

FOUND GUILTY OF THREATENING

Man Ordered to Pay a Fine of $15—Other Cases Heard in Police Court Today

This morning's session of the police court proved to be another of those long drawn out affairs, there being a diversity of cases and one particular case proved lengthy inasmuch as it was necessary to use an interpreter.

Guilty of Threatening

John Gaukas was charged with drunkenness and threatening John Vingren. He pleaded guilty to drunkenness, but not guilty to threatening.

Nellie Vingren, a bright girl about 12 years of age, testified that Gaukas and two other men called at her home, 828 Adams street, about 8 o'clock Wednesday morning and asked for her father. She told them that her father was not in the house. They returned later and inquired for the father and for the second time she told them her father was not in. They came a third time, and upon learning that Vingren was not at home, it is alleged told the witness that they were going to kill her father and mother and a man who lived down stairs.

The girl said that each of the men had a knife up his coat sleeve and on the third visit to the house and finding that the father was not at home, Gaukas struck the table with his fist and his knife fell out of his sleeve and dropped to the floor. She picked up the knife and hid it and subsequently the police were notified of the threat.

Mrs. Vingren, who was present when the men called, corroborated the testimony offered by the preceding witness, her daughter, and said when she asked the men why they wanted to kill her husband, Gaukas said: "I must kill him because he is a witness in a case in police court." Gaukas said he was also going to kill the man who lived downstairs.

John Vingren said he is afraid of the defendant on account of the latter calling at his house, and threatening to do him bodily harm. He said Gaukas threatened him in a saloon about a year ago, but had never had any trouble with the man. Witness said he was a defendant in court a short time ago and Gaukas' daughter had testified against him, but he had no ill feeling against Gaukas for that incident.

John Gaukas, the defendant, said that he and John and Stanislaw Dudek called to see a friend in a house in Adams street shortly after eight o'clock Wednesday morning. He denied that he called at Vingren's house and said he never carried a knife on his person. Witness, however, later changed his story and said he saw Mrs. Vingren in the doorway and she asked him what they wanted and he said, "If your husband is in we will speak to him."

The court after considering the evidence in the case found Gaukas guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $15 for threatening and $8 for drunkenness.

Case Continued

Couple Sent to Jail

John E. Lee and Susan E. Waldron were arrested in a lodging house in Middlesex street last night by Patrolmen Sheridan and O'Keefe, and when arraigned in police court this morning on complaints of drunkenness and adultery they entered a plea of guilty. Each was sentenced to six months in jail.

Lewd Cohabitation

The cases of Arthur A. Beauregard and Mary E. Howe, charged with drunkenness and lewd and lascivious cohabitation, came up on continuance. During the course of the testimony offered it was brought out that Beauregard is married and has a wife and family. Both were found guilty, the man being sentenced to six months in the house of correction and the woman was given a suspended sentence to the women's reformatory and placed on probation for one year. Beauregard appealed.

Drunken Offenders

Harry A. Bent, charged with drunkenness, has been drunk since he was released from jail, hanging around bar rooms and doesn't live with his family, according to the testimony of Patrolmen Dooley and Killoy. He was sentenced to two months in jail.

James E. Butler, while under the influence of liquor yesterday, called at his home and when refused admittance kicked in the door and put his wife out of the house. Mrs. Butler notified Patrolman Flanagan and the latter placed Butler under arrest. The court sentenced him to the state farm.

Frank H. Fifield was fined $6.

MATRIMONIAL

The marriage of Mr. Dennis F. Leary, a well known business man of Thorndike, Mass., and Miss May R. D. Mr. Daniel Leary of Waterbury was best man, while Miss Annie E. Foley, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. The bride was gowned in white satin and wore a large white picture hat with willow plumes and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. The bridesmaid was attired in blue silk and carried a hand bouquet of American roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Foley, 339 Lincoln street. A large number of the immediate friends of the young couple were present, including several from out-of-town. Rev. Fr. Smith and Rev. T. Franklin Wood, O. M. WANTED DANS PUT UNDER BONDS

BOSTON, Nov. 8—Miss Hattie Keith, the Melrose music teacher, who was the sweetheart of Daniel Blake Russell, was a witness for "Dakota Dan" yesterday afternoon at East Cambridge. She had given her testimony in part before, but her examination was suspended until after the claimant himself should finish his story under cross-examination. That happened at noon.

The testimony of Miss Keith was strong and candidly for the claimant. She declared in firm tones, with an air of conviction; that she had "no doubt and never had any doubt" that the claimant was Daniel Blake Russell. Her cross-examination was not finished when court adjourned until Monday.

When the examination of the claimant was concluded just before noon yesterday, Mr. Scharton, who had tried to get the Middlesex county grand jury to take up the alleged perjury in the case, which he contended had been committed by one or the other of the Dans, made a demand that Master Pevey place both "Dakota Dan" and "Fresno Dan" under bonds so that their presence would be secured until the case was finished. Master Pevey declined to take such action.

Paid $1.50 a Day by Estate

A little later Deputy Sheriff Harry I. Walker stepped up to "Dakota Dan" and handed him a paper and some money. The claimant glanced at it and took it over to Mr. Scharton.

"Look what the other side has given," he said.

It was a summons made out to "James D. Russell, alias James D. Rousseau, alias James D. Rusaw, calling himself Daniel Blake Russell," and ordering him to be present from day to day until the final disposition of the case.

"What did they give you with it?" demanded Mr. Scharton.

"They gave me $2," said the claimant, and he added with a humorous twinkle, "it's $2 of my own money."

Hereafter the respondents will each day have to pay the claimant $1.50 under his summons. "Fresno Dan," who has testified that his allowance since he has been accepted as the real Daniel Blake Russell was $10 a week, was not in court and has not been for several weeks. Both Dans apparently are now drawing an equal amount from the Russell estate.

In finishing his redirect examination of the claimant yesterday Mr. Scharton asked if the fact that his father would not buy him clothing was the real cause of his leaving home in 1885. He said it was not the only one. He said that he had told his mother something he discovered concerning his father. He also said that his relations with his brother, William, had not been pleasant. William, he said, had chased him out of the tool room twice with a hatchet and had kicked him out of bed and frequently pulled the bed clothing off him.

Reason Why He Didn't Show Scar

The claimant said he had scratched his name on the inside of a bell his father had given for the town hall and that when he came back to Melrose after his long absence he and his counsel had found a part of the name where he had put it with his knife. He also told of saving two children who had fallen into a ditch partly filled with water.

To Mr. Scharton the claimant declared he had never written any letters or sent any photographs to the Rousseau family in New York state. The claimant denied that he had ever been coached or tutored as to persons or places in Melrose by Frank E. Morton in Dakota, he said, but had told Morton things about Melrose. He said his trunks in Dakota had been broken into and a lot of letters and photographs had been stolen.

He said he had not testified at the first trial that he had a scar on his leg such as the real Daniel Russell was known to have, because his counsel told him if he told about the scar the people who were to testify that he was James D. Rousseau would swear Rousseau had a scar like it.

He said he disguised his handwriting to Mr. Almy because he didn't know what they were going to do with it.

"If William, my brother, had asked me for it he could have had it at any time," he continued. "But they wouldn't let me see him. I didn't know how to treat a gang of rogues."

Why He Put a Coat Over His Head

Mr. Nason asked the claimant why he had put a coat over his head while he was in Malone, N. Y., during a recess of the former trial. He said his counsel advised him to do so. There was a crowd of people around who threatened if they could not see him they would break in the door. He didn't know but that he might be killed.

He said detectives were trying to get a picture of him to give to some of the Rousseaus.

"While you were there didn't you have some people see you for the purpose of saying that you were not Rousseau?" Mr. Nason asked.

"Yes," replied the claimant.

"Who was it?"

The claimant was asked about a picture of himself that at the last trial was testified to as having been in the house of one of the Rousseaus for years. He declared he had one like it in the trunk which was broken into in Dakota. He would not swear that the one Mr. Nason showed him was the one that was stolen from his trunk. But it was one like it.

That closed the examination of the claimant. Then Mr. Scharton argued for holding the two Dans under bonds. He declared it would be an object lesson to other witnesses to prevent them coming over here to give perjured testimony. He did not think it would prejudice either side if bonds were exacted from both claimants.

Mr. Nason strongly objected that the proceedings would be unusual and unnecessary.

Master Pevey said he was not ready as yet to decide that perjury had been committed by either of the two Dans, as he had not heard all the evidence.

Miss Keith Resumes Testimony

Miss Keith told of her first meeting with the claimant after his return to Melrose in 1909. She said he looked the same as he did when he went away, except that he was older and larger. She knew his voice and said he had the same bashful manner of hanging his head.

"Was his manner of greeting more effusive than it used to be?" Mr. Scharton asked.

"No," replied the witness.

"Did he relate incidents known only to yourselves?"

"Yes," said the witness. "He reminded me of the days he used to walk home from school with me. He also told me of sharpening my pencils for me, which was true. He recalled to me that he used to want me to stay in with him at school when he could not go out at recess.

"Did Mr. Almy call on you?" Mr. Scharton asked.

"Yes, once. He said he came to me because I knew Daniel Blake Russell better than any girl in Melrose and that he was partial to me. He said he'd consider it a favor if I would go and interview him when he returned, if he should. Mr. Almy also said he was a French Canadian and could not read or write. He told me that if I did interview him not to give him any points."

"Did you know of 'Fresno Dan's' coming to Melrose?"

"I heard of it in the court room."

"Did Mr. Almy see you in regard to interviewing him?"

"No, sir."

Knew Him Instantly

To Miss Nason, Miss Keith said that when she saw the claimant in her home July 9, 1909, her recognition of him was instantaneous.

Miss Keith declared he spoke first. He said: "How do you do, Miss Keith. You look the same as you always did."

"On the day the claimant passed your house in an auto did not Mr. Edmund Gould say to you that he was the claimant and did not you say that you wouldn't have known him?"

"No, sir."

"With your recollection of Daniel Blake Russell when he went away did you expect to see a man of the athletic carriage, the power and grace of this man here?"

"I should say that Daniel Blake Russell was a well built young man whom I would expect to grow into just such a man as he is now."

The witness admitted that in company with the claimant she had called on persons in Melrose, among them Miss Conant, Mrs. Westgate, Mrs. Bryant, Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Cook. She also called with the claimant on others outside of Melrose on the matter of the claimant's identification.

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—United States Customs Inspectors William J. Sleet and J. F. McKenna yesterday raided the premises at 32 Tyler street and arrested Yee Sing on the charge of concealing, selling and having in his possession opium. Sing was arraigned before United States Commissioner Hayes, and in default of $500 bail was committed to the East Cambridge jail. The federal officers seized a layout in the raid.

Veteran's Will Allowed

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—The will of Andrew J. Cassidy, leaving his property with $20,000 to his life-long friends, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Rich of Dorchester, was allowed by Judge Morton in the supreme court yesterday. The contestants withdrew objections because of inability to show relationship to the testator. They were Mrs. Mary E. Lambert and Mrs. Elizabeth McAlduff.

The testator was a drummer boy in the Civil war and for years was in the orchestra of the Boston theatre and also in Carter's Military band. He taught drumming. He was 70 years old when he died in February last. For years he lived with Mr. and Mrs. Rich.

MORE LETTERS READ

At the "Dynamite Trial" in Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 9.—"I inclose a photograph which I took from the gallery."

That was the way Edward Smythe, secretary of an Ironworkers' union at Peoria, Ill., sent to the union's international headquarters at Indianapolis a photograph of Herbert S. Hockin, member of the executive board, which had been taken from the rogues' gallery in the police department, according to letters produced yesterday by the government at the trial of the accused "dynamite conspirators."

John J. McNamara's reply to Smythe, as read, was as follows:

"That was not the way to send that photo. Hereafter when you find photos of members of the executive board in the rogues' gallery put them in a separate envelope and mark them personal. Pres. Ryan was present when your letter came and I told him he had a fine executive board."

Hockin, accused by Ortie E. McManigal as the director of the "flying squad of dynamiters," and now successor to McNamara, was said by the government to have been photographed in Detroit, where he formerly lived.

After the loss of life at the Los Angeles explosion and during the six months before the arrest of the dynamiters, McNamara wrote letters to members of the union cautioning them to be "careful" as to the kind of letters they sent to headquarters. It was charged in connection with the reading of a McNamara letter to Murray L. Fannell, Springfield, Ill., as follows:

The government produced a notice head "warning" and signed by Pres. Frank M. Ryan and Hockin, which was published in the Union Magazine a month after the McNamaras were arrested, and the purpose of which, the government alleges, was to induce the members to destroy evidence about dynamitings.

Judge A. B. Anderson prohibited the government from introducing as evidence a copy of records of the court of Bristol county, Mass. George O'Donnell had been indicted on a charge of causing an explosion at Somerset, Mass., June 15, 1908, but he was convicted on a minor charge and on being released he escaped a second arrest. The government asserted that Frank C. Webb of New York paid $680 of O'Donnell's expenses out of the union's funds.

Accusations that Philip A. Cooley, New Orleans, had an ironworker admitted to membership in the union to do dynamiting and that Cooley planned to blow up works at Houston, Texas, were detailed by the government.

A McNamara letter dated Jan. 10, 1911, to Cooley, was read:

"It seems to be common knowledge that a certain member was admitted for a purpose and all the details seem to be known by several people. I am of the opinion that it would be unwise to do anything whatever. Under existing circumstances a person cannot be too careful, for there are so many persons acting as informers.

"Another report received was that you wanted some organizing work done for much less than it was worth and much less than was set aside for this particular job. I can understand how that would be if some fore-flusher got all the particulars and then got cold feet, he would justify himself by saying somebody was double-crossing him."

To Improve Channel

BANGOR, Me., Nov. 9.—An expenditure of about $1,000,000 for the improvement of the St. John River channel and the building of new dams is suggested in the report of engineers who have been employed for the past year by the international St. John river commission. The river forms a part of the northeastern boundary line of the United States and is used extensively for log driving.

The commission, which is composed of men appointed by the United States and Canada, will consider the report of the engineers at a hearing in this city Nov. 14.

WITNESSES SET FREE

They Spent a Long Time in Jail

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Eleven, sailors held as witnesses against Vicent Maria, cook of the American schooner, Margaret Thomas, who is charged with the murder of the master of that vessel, Capt. James T. Delano, while lying at Port au Prince, Martinique, were discharged yesterday by U. S. Commissioner Hayes in the Federal building. Three of them will go to Port au Prince where the alleged murderer will be tried.

The men have been in East Cambridge jail for the past three months and the seven not wanted in the West Indies were paid off, the compensation of each being $1 per day. The money of the other three was held up, payment being dependent upon their reporting at the trial.

CAUGHT IN HEAVY GALE

Schooner Walcott Towed Into Vineyard Haven

VINEYARD HAVEN, Nov. 9.—With her seams strained so badly that it was necessary to keep the pumps working constantly to prevent sinking, the four-masted schooner George Walcott of Portland was today towed into the harbor here by a tug. The Walcott encountered violent southeast gales off Block Island Thursday. She lost both of her small boats and when picked up by the tug her cabins were filled with water and cabin partitions broken down.

The Walcott was bound from Newport News for Bangor with a cargo of coal. Temporary repairs will be made here and she will proceed to her destination under sail.

JACK AND JILL INJURED.

Fall Down Steep Hill Which They Had Ascended in Quest of Water -- Both Will Recover.

Jack and Jill, the two charming children of Mr. Jack Jill and Mrs. Jill, were the unfortunate victims yesterday of a painful though not necessarily dangerous contretemps. The accident occurred on the slope of the hill near the home of the two injured children at 304 Mount Vernon avenue.

The well from which the Jills procure their water is situated on the apex of this small mountain. Ordinarily wells are placed at the foot of hills, but that is where the Jill well differs from the common or garden variety. It would have been much easier and cheaper for Mr. Jill to have had his water hole put in at the foot of the slope in question. But he happens to be an earnest advocate of violent exercise for the young and when the well arrived from New York he had it inserted at the top. Thus, much against their wishes, the Jill children have, by dint of carrying heavy buckets up and water down the hill, blossomed into the robust childhood which came so near to an untimely end yesterday.

Jack will be seven years of age the middle of next month, and Jill is some two years his junior. In spite of their tender years they are so well developed that they survived an accident which would have been fatal to many a grown person. The Jill family's constant use of the dampness has contributed a good deal to this. In addition to a couple of horses, the family numbers among its pets a small flock of Pekin ducks. The horses have a continual thirst and the duck pond is always calling for water which the two must supply. Then every Saturday night the bath tub has to be filled several times from the same source. There was an older boy, Jerry by name, who used to help with the bucket, but he was a bit wild and one dark evening two years ago he ran away after having simultaneously dropped his bucket and the remark that he was "going to beat it for some land where wells grew on level ground." He has never been heard from since, and it is believed that as an extra precaution he joined the army under an assumed name.

About 11.30 o'clock yesterday morning Mrs. Jill came to the kitchen door and called to the two children who were playing out back of the hen house.

"Jack," said she, "you'll have to lope up the hill and bring down a can of water for dinner."

"Not on your life!" remonstrated Jack, who takes after his wild brother somewhat. "Who brought the last bucket of water? I did—and it's Jill's time now."

"My time!" snapped Jill, "I brought the last bucket myself. Besides she's already told you."

Mrs. Jill's nose whispered in her ear that the roast was burning. So not having time to hear all the evidence, she handed down a decision that will stack up pretty well against Solomon's best.

"You'll both go for the water," said she, "and if I hear of any scrapping on the way there'll be a business session in the woodshed when your father comes home tonight. Now show some speed."

The two grumbled a bit but took the pail by the arm and started out. However the alleged injustice rankled in the lad's bosom, and to get back at his sister he stopped at Dago Frank's fruit stand, which is just opposite the Jill home, and squandered a couple of pennies on as many bananas. He devoured these on the way up, interspersing his bites with praise of the delicacy of the fruit, but he did not offer any to his sister.

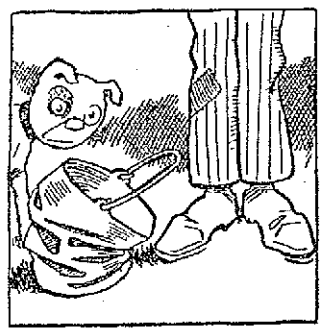

Having arrived at the well, Jill filled the pail, managing to dexterously spill a good deal of water on Jack, who was just tending to the last of the second banana. As the latter reached for his side of the pail his shoe lit on a piece of the banana's overcoat which he had carelessly cast aside. After turning several complete somersaults in the air Jack lit on his bean and started rapidly down hill.

She clapped her hands and jumped up and down in her glee. In coming down from one of these jumps her own foot found the elusive bit of peeling and she was soon following her brother in an irregular and highly painful course down the hill. The pail, to make it unanimous, rattled along after them.

They landed at the bottom in a confused heap. All of them were unconscious when the ambulance came, except the pail. The two were hurried to Mercy Hospital, where a hasty examination was made by Dr. Shiras, M. D. It was found that Jack had sustained a slight fracture of the skull just to the rear of the left ear. Jill, it is feared, is internally injured. Their injuries are not thought to be dangerous. The bucket was a total loss.

"Pretty soft," Jack said to a reporter soon after regaining consciousness. "All I gotta do here is lay back on the goose feathers and push the button for ice water. No chasing up that little Mount McKinley after water for the ducks to navigate in. They say I won't be out for a couple of weeks—I don't care a fraction of a rap whether I ever get out or not." Jill declined to make a statement.

Condition of pail after the accident.

"Each drop of that water," he declared, "is a complete zoo of deadly germs. There is a full colony of microbes for every complaint from hangnails to Bubonic plague. They are there so thick that they need straps to hang on. I have repeatedly warned the inhabitants of this part of town against using water from this well. I shall at once recommend that the well be pulled up and destroyed."

Mrs. Jill stated last night that she was thankful that her children had side-stepped the Grim Reaper. She said that when the well was planned she advocated putting it in at the bottom of the hill, and that she would use her influence to have her husband fit the shack with pipes and connect onto a city water main.

Both Jack and Jill were resting comfortably at a late hour last night.

WORTHY LESSON FROM LAWRENCE

The city of Lawrence has been widely criticized in the press of the country on account of the industrial conditions which were made to appear very much worse than they really were. But we are glad to say a good word for the city of Lawrence in regard to the work it has done and is doing for the prevention of tuberculosis.

The Lawrence board of health has issued one of the best circulars on the prevention and cure of tuberculosis that it has been our privilege to see; and such circulars are sent in great numbers to the newspaper offices. This circular from Lawrence is couched in very simple language and is of reasonable length, although it is as comprehensive as some that are much larger.

The circular first explains tuberculosis, how it is contracted and how it proves fatal. The subject of cure is treated under three heads, namely, Faith, Hope and Charity. The final section on prevention is as follows:—

> It is a public duty to prevent the spread of disease. Tuberculosis is a communicable disease. Consumptives should be more careful than sufferers from other sicknesses.
>
> Consumptives should avoid the use of alcohol. They should have nine hours sleep, sleeping alone if possible, and in rooms to themselves.
>
> Sleeping room windows should be kept open day and night, in all weathers. They should provide themselves with individual dining utensils, drinking cups, towels, etc.
>
> Consumptives cough up much matter or sputum. It is highly dangerous to all healthy persons because it contains large number of tubercle bacilli or germs capable of transmitting the disease.
>
> Consumptives should never swallow sputum, for in this way the disease is spread to other parts of the body. Males should wear no beard or mustache to which germ-laden sputum may adhere.
>
> Those suffering from tuberculosis should never spit on floors, sidewalks, or public places, for sputum quickly dries, becomes powdered and flies around as clouds of highly-infected poisoned dust.
>
> They should not spit on handkerchiefs or rags, for later these will soil the hands, face and clothing. Avoid the nasty house fly; they carry germs on their feet.
>
> Consumptives should wipe their lips with paper napkins. These should be held before the mouth when coughing or sneezing, to catch the fine spit particles thrown out. When used once the napkin should be burned.
>
> Careless consumptives give the disease to other persons, but if precautions are taken the disease can be arrested, isolated in the few patients, treated and cured.

Lawrence having a tuberculosis hospital is well equipped to fight this disease, but Lowell having no institution in which it can be treated at any stage must suffer greatly from its ravages until such time as we can provide such a hospital.

Some years ago the people were led to believe that a contagious hospital would soon be built, but for some reason the project was dropped in the midst of a controversy over the selection of a site. There are plenty of sites for a contagious or even for a tuberculosis hospital, and as the statutes make it imperative upon cities like Lowell to provide a hospital for the isolation of contagious diseases, it remains to be seen how long Lowell can continue in its present course without any suitable place for the isolation and treatment of contagious diseases, including tuberculosis.

It would seem that to meet the requirements of a city of 100,000 people, two distinct hospitals would be needed, one for such diseases as diphtheria and scarlet fever and another for consumptive cases. The lack of money seems to be the only obstacle; but it would be better to borrow money to build a hospital of moderate size first and have it so constructed and located that it could be easily added to as the resources of the city might permit and necessity demand.

THE BALKAN WAR

People at this distance can have but little conception of the tragic events being enacted in Turkey. The capture of Saloniki by the Greek forces was preceded by the pillage of the city by the Turks and the massacre of the Christian residents. This victory by the Greeks, attended as it was by the capture of 27,000 prisoners, is one of the fatal blows to Turkish power in Europe. The Bulgarian armies on the other hand have the stronghold of Adrianople ready to surrender and are at the gates of Constantinople. In all probability by Monday or at the latest some time next week, this historic city will be in possession of the Bulgarian army, and the Sultan and his court will have fled to Asia Minor. Then the Balkan allies will be in a position to dictate the terms of peace, and they will do so without any obsequious deference to the powers of Europe. It is quite probable that European Turkey will be partitioned among the allies and that a new arrangement will be made with the powers in regard to Constantinople, the navigation of the Dardanelles and the Sea of Marmora. Nothing but good can result from this war which brings to Turkey terrible retribution for the many fiendish atrocities perpetrated by Turkey upon the Christians within her dominions. War is terrible while it lasts, and this war in particular has a double terror in the fact that the Turks are determined as a last resort to massacre all the Christian residents they can find before fleeing before the enemy. It is to be hoped that the struggle will soon be terminated and that thereafter the power of Turkey reduced to one of international insignificance will be confined to a small portion of the Asiatic continent.

INDEPENDENCE FOR THE PHILIPPINES

President-elect Wilson has received a cablegram of congratulation from Sergio Osmena, speaker of the Philippine assembly. The Filipino official reminds President-elect Wilson of the democratic pledge to grant the Philippines complete independence in accordance with the reiterated petitions of the Philippine assembly. This is a question on which the democratic party is strongly committed against the imperial policy and in favor of granting the Philippines an independent government.

In the last democratic platform one of the planks reaffirmed the party's thrice announced attitude against imperialism and colonial exploitation of the Philippines. On the question of granting the islands independence the platform said: "We favor an immediate declaration of the nation's purpose to recognize the independence of the Philippine islands as soon as a stable government can be established, such independence to be guaranteed by us until the neutralization of the islands can be secured by treaty with other powers. In recognizing the independence of the Philippines, our government should retain such lands as may be necessary for coaling stations and naval bases."

It is quite likely that President-elect Wilson will urge a declaration of the party's policy towards the Philippines during the first session of congress next year.

THE PARTY LEADERS

President Taft is planning how to save the republican party from extinction while Col. Roosevelt is formulating a scheme by which he can finish the work of annihilating it in the next two years and making the new Bull Moose party the only political body to wield effective opposition to the democratic party. President Wilson and the new congress will carry out their pledges in a manner that will put both the other parties off the map for a very considerable period.

THE NEXT LEGISLATURE

It is estimated that the Massachusetts senate will have 27 republicans and 13 democrats and the house 135 republicans, 95 democrats, six progressives and four others. On a joint ballot the republican party will have a plurality of 54. That means that no democratic candidate for U. S. senator will have any chance of election.

Seen and Heard

Is it strange or isn't it, that men who are interested in politics will read the story of an election in their favorite paper and immediately proceed to forget all about the figures? A group of men were discussing election returns last night at the club and not one of them could come within 40 rows of apple trees of the vote polled in this city by any of the candidates. In view of their failure to remember votes, majorities, etc., the thought occurred to me that I might serve a good purpose by re-publishing some of the figures and here goes: The city vote for president was as follows: Wilson, dem., 5459; Roosevelt, prog., 3753; Taft, rep., 3024. For governor—Foss, dem., 6307; Walker, rep., 3016; Bird, prog., 2718. For lieutenant-governor, Walsh, dem., 5630; Luce rep., 3610; Cosgrove, prog., 2458. For congressman—O'Sullivan, dem., 6534; Rogers, rep., 5644; Osgood, prog., 867. For councilor, Hogan, dem., 6380; Simpson, rep., 3799; Hunter, prog., 1553. Mr. Hogan received the biggest vote of any candidate, not excepting Gov. Foss whom he led by 72 votes.

Here is a genuine case of professional pride.

"See them?" said he.

"Yes," replied the visitor.

"They're all bound in calf, ain't they?"

"Yes," the visitor agreed, "they seem to have a uniform binding."

The millionaire (swelling with pride)—"Well, sir, I raised all them calves myself!"

Two telegraph operators were seated in a down town cafe recently when an athletic young man and an exceedingly pretty girl entered. They were placed at a table opposite the "key" men, who were sitting side by side in a position facing the girl. As is the custom of the craft when wishing to discuss some one in a public place they telegraphed to each other using their knives on the plate.

"Peacherino, isn't she?" one ticked to the other.

"Bet they aren't married. If they are, all she needs to do to get a divorce is to exhibit that map of his in court."

While the two men were enjoying a huge laugh over their silent joking they were surprised and somewhat alarmed to hear some more "table knife telegraphy." The "peacherino" was doing it, and she did not look at all pleased, either.

"You two had better look out while you are all together," carelessly ticked her knife blade while she listened to something her companion was saying. "This sack and boob, as you called him, with the divorce map, is my husband—safe mover by trade. He eats fresh little boys."

Something happened to the "wires" about that time, and all communication ceased.

CONTENTMENT

I had my dream and so I lived content;
A dream beneath the wide, kind skies of old;
Out in the orchard where the soft winds bent
The swaying branches and strange stories told
Of life within the far-off town of men—
Mad music on the highway and the gleam
Of glory on life's firing line—and then
I lived content because of such a dream.

I have my dream and so I live content—
A dream within the gray walls of the town,
Of oldtime orchard lanes, the fragrant scent
Of migonette and roses—fields of brown
And golden harvest—the remembered glow
Of God's lost sunshine waning to the gleam
Of star-lit dusk, back home again, and so
I live content because of such a dream.

RESCUED HIS COMRADE

Man Dives Into Tangle of Debris in Cellar

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Patrick Monahan, iron worker, was, in his own eyes, only doing a comrade an ordinary "good turn" when he made a daring dive yesterday and saved the life of Walter Gugger, his young helper, in skyscraper construction.

Gugger lost his balance on the second floor and fell headlong, striking against girders, into a basement filled with eight feet of water and a tangle of iron and wood. Monahan shinned down a pillar one floor and then, heedless of the obstructions, plunged after the lad into the hidden perils of the pool. Struggling amid the debris, he made several fruitless dives before finally bringing Gugger to the surface, and finding him still alive although unconscious.

It was not Monahan, but his comrades who told the story. Monahan only said:

"Well, if I fell, Gugger would have gone after me in the same way."

SUITS ARE ENTERED

Following Hot Campaign in Cambridge

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Eight suits for $5000 each were filed yesterday in Cambridge by Representatives James W. Bean and C. Burnside Seagrave against Russell D. Crane, a fellow member of the house, and three Cambridge newspapers, the Standard, the Times and the Recorder.

The actions are a sequel of the bitter political campaign waged between the republicans and progressives in Cambridge.

An open letter was sent to Seagrave & Bean, editors and publishers of the Cambridge Chronicle, and published verbatim in the Standard, Times and Recorder, Oct. 26. The records of Bean & Seagrave, both in their city and state political life, were criticised.

Representative Crane had been listed as a republican and was elected to the house of representatives for two terms from the third Middlesex district by the republican party. Last July he became a progressive.

Representative Seagrave was also a representative from the third district at the last session of the house, and ran for re-election last Tuesday.

During the campaign the Chronicle editorially commented on Representative Crane and his manner of campaign. Representative Crane in an open letter to the Chronicle criticised Bean and Seagrave and sent copies of the letter to all the Cambridge papers.

The Williams Bible class will hold its meeting at 12 o'clock and will discuss the subject, "Progress on Temperance Reform."

STRUCK BY AUTO

An automobile owned and operated by Dr. Joseph A. Mehan, while passing along Merrimack near the corner of Central street about six o'clock last night, struck and knocked down a four-year-old girl. The accident occurred just as the mill operatives were on their way to their homes and it is believed that the child in trying to avoid the crowd stepped directly in front of the machine.

The little one was taken into Hall & Lyon's drug store, where it was found she was suffering from several minor bruises about the left eye. After she had been attended she was able to go to her home.

SLEEPING with the windows open is a "first aid" to health and beauty. But it makes getting up in the morning a chilly ordeal.

With a Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater you dress in comfort on the coldest day.

A touch of a match, and the Perfection is aglow in a minute. Later, you can carry it to any other room, and breakfast, read or sew in comfort.

In fact, a Perfection Heater is just as good as a fire, and much cleaner and more convenient.

It is a handsome heater, too. Ask your dealer to show you a Perfection, or write for descriptive catalogue.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Opera House

If a married woman really loved another and was sued for divorce would she face the publicity and grilling of a court or let her case go by default? That is one of the problems which arises in "A Butterfly On the Wheel" the play which enjoyed such an immense vogue in New York last season and London the year before. Everyone who has heard of this play—and it seems to have earned a national reputation—knows that one of the scenes takes place in a courtroom where the trial of Mrs. Admaston, sued for divorce by her husband, the Right Hon. George Admaston, M. P., is in progress. The way in which this scene has been staged and the almost heartless manner in which the frail little witness is examined have made the play the talk both of New York and London. It has had much to do, too, with its popularity but the entire story is clever and interesting enough to stand upon its merits without the trial. There will be a matinee and an evening performance of "A Butterfly on the Wheel" today.

"LITTLE BOY BLUE"

Next Tuesday, Nov. 12th, Henry W. Savage will present at the Opera House, direct from Boston, "Little Boy Blue," Rudolph Schanzer and Carl Lindau provided the book and lyrics, and Henry Bereny composed the music. It was put in proper form for production in this country by A. E. Thomas and Edward Paulton and proved to be the daintiest and most pleasing of the many musical plays offered in New York last season.

The story has to do with the adventures of a Parisian barmaid—who is the half-sister of the heir to a Scottish estate—and for whom Lord Gobercleen, an uncle is searching in the French capital. She is induced to assume boy's clothing by one Dupont a detective and masquerades as her brother—accompanying the braw Highlander back to Scotland.

Her deception is discovered but at the proper time the real "Boy Blue" appears on the scene and the situation is saved.

"MADAME X"

The noted novelist and dramatist, Alexandre Bisson is at his best in "Madame X." In the selection of the present company for "Madame X," the management exercised great care, not only in engaging artists of positive ability, but types that fill the visual requirements of the roles and convey to the auditors the best possible effect of the real characters living their parts on the stage. "Madame X" comes to the Opera House Wednesday, Nov. 13 for four nights and two matinees. Seats on sale.

Keith's Theatre

Another ten-strike musical act is programmed for the Keith theatre next week. "The Love Trust," music by B. A. Rolfe, with comedians and pretty girls, will be on tap for the whole of next week. It is a refined musical comedy, running 30 mins. Selbin and Grovini, performers on musical instruments and makers of many kinds of amusement, are among the very best known in the world. Monroe, Mack & Lawrence offer one of the mother-in-law comedies, with much of an interesting comedy nature to it, and Marion Munson and Hal Forrest will give "The Kidnapping of Bianca." Other acts will be supplied by Misses Merlin and Carmen, dancers; Williams & Brooks, in "The New Cadet"; John T. Murray, comedian, and Marsh Craig, contortionist. Special entertainments for tomorrow.

The Playhouse

"The Hypocrites," a high-class English drama by Henry Arthur Jones, will be the attraction at The Playhouse (formerly Hathaway Theatre) next week. The piece is an unusually good one and is almost sure to reflect creditably, not only on the members of The Drama Players themselves, but on the producer, Kendal Weston, both for his excellent judgment in selecting such an offering and the manner in which he will put it on. Weston's remarkable cleverness as a producer is one of his many commendable assets and assists very materially in the pronounced success which the company has enjoyed during its present run. He is giving his patrons just what they desire in the way of refined entertainment, and his peculiar faculty of giving each presentation a Weston touch is a pleasing addition to the weekly offerings.

Monday night and Tuesday afternoon of next week a beautiful autograph of Miss Constance Jackson will be given each lady occupying an orchestra seat. Don't forget, only Monday night and Tuesday matinee. Order your tickets now and assure yourself of the best seats. Tel. 811.

Merrimack Square Theatre

The Merrymakers, who made such a favorable impression last week, are again to be seen at the head of a mighty fine bill at the Merrimack Square theatre next week. Their offering for the coming week is called "A Texas Cyclone," and is sure of meeting with the approval of all patrons. New faces are to be seen, the piece is bright and snappy, full of amusing comedy situations, and will give this clever company opportunity to display its skill.

Harry Le Clair, billed as America's greatest portrayer of female types, is another number on the program to make a fast bid for first honors. His act is unique and original and also carries not a little of the comedy vein. Harry Thriller, "The Lad with the Chairs," and Harry Curran are to be the other acts, and the pictures will also be up to the high standard set by this theatre. New slides of current events will also be shown.

The bill for the sacred concerts tomorrow contains a varied list of five first class vaudeville acts together with a number of new photo-plays. There are to be but two performances, the matinee starting at 3, while the evening performance is continuous from 7 to 10.30, and all the seats are to be reserved. Phone 2053.

The Kasino

The smoothest running skates that ever rolled over a smooth surface are to be found at the Kasino on Thorndike street hill. That is one reason for the constantly increasing patronage at this popular amusement resort. Another reason for Kasino success is the character of its patronage.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Passaconaway Tribe 32, of the Improved Order of Red Men held a regular weekly pow wow in Odd Fellows hall last night and the gathering was well attended.

The chief spoke a few words on the initiation which is to take place some time next month. He urged them to induce as many to join as they are able so as to make the initiation a brilliant success. E. T. Goward, an officer in the greater Massachusetts council spoke on the duties of the council in general. A social hour concluded the meeting.

Hibernians

The committee on arrangements for the elaborately planned smoke talk met last night in A. O. H. hall and manifested a great deal of interest and enthusiasm in the success and importance of the event.

As speakers there have been secured several of the best orators in the Ancient Order of Hibernians who have promised the committee to be present at the smoke talk. There will also be a musical program, both vocal and instrumental, and a literary program which will prove an enjoyable feature of the entertainment.

The date set for this grand smoke talk and social is Monday, November 11 and the members of the organization here and out of town are looking forward to it with a great deal of pleasurable anticipation. It is confidently expected that a large number will be present at thi sevent which should prove to be one of the most enjoyable in the history of the society.

Knights of Pythias

Chevalier Middlesex Lodge, No. 2, Knights of Pythias, held its regular meeting last night with quite a large attendance. The second grand chancellor of the state lodge addressed the gathering with reference to a bible school which is to be held in Lawrence starting the second of next month. Past Chancellor Tucker also spoke a few words in this regard and with regard to other important matters. Considerable routine business was transacted. At this meeting there were several visitors from the lodge of Lawrence.

Royal Arcanum

Industry Council No. 1772, Royal Arcanum will give a concert and dance for the members and invited guests, Tuesday evening in Associate hall, the party starting at eight and closing at twelve o'clock. The musical program includes a number of songs by well known local singers and selections by the orchestra.

Foresters of America

The regular meeting of Court Wamesit, Foresters of America was held last evening in Pilgrim hall with a good attendance. Albert McDougal, deputy chief ranger, was in the chair. Three applications for membership were received and two were initiated into the order.

A report on the last dance and coupon drawing was made to those present by Financial Secretary Thomas Gurney, recording secretary, James White and Brother James Farrell. A rising vote of thanks was tendered them by the gathering for their excellent work. A class initiation will be held at the next meeting.

Spanish War Veterans

A patriotic meeting will be held at Memorial hall next Wednesday night under the auspices of the Adelbert Ames camp, U. S. W. V. P. Hildreth Parker will give an address on the history of the flag from the time of the landing of Columbus in 1492 until the present day. Invitations have been sent to the G. A. R., the Women's Relief Corps, the municipal council and school board, the militia companies and the boy scouts. Gen. Adelbert Ames has been invited to preside and Brig.-Gen. Philip Reade, U. S. A., retired, has also been invited.

Women's Relief Corps, G. A. R.

The annual inspection of James A. Garfield Women's Relief Corps was held in Post 120, G. A. R. hall, Thursday night, Mrs. Caroline R. Morse, of Corps 43, Arlington, who is the department inspector, being in charge. On account of the illness of the corps president, Mrs. Offutt, Mrs. Mira F. Killpartrick, past president, ably filled the chair. Supper was served at 6 o'clock by Mrs. Martha Fife, matron, assisted by Mrs. Carrie Storm, after which the meeting was called to order for the business session. One candidate was initiated; one application received for new membership and one to be admitted by transfer. The entire work of the ritual was gone through, which the inspecting officer complimented as having been done excellently. Her remarks were very interesting. She is the guest of Mrs. Killpartrick. As visitors present were Mrs. Margaret W. Wagland of Needham corps, Lawrence, who made pleasing remarks, Mrs. A. E. Lowell of Needham corps, Mrs. Sarah L. Murphy of Billerica, and Mrs. Sarah A. Kelley of E. Weymouth Heights.

On Nov. 21, in the evening, will be observed the 29th anniversary of the institution of this corps, to which Post 120 is invited.

Aborn Grand Opera Co.

The Aborn Grand Opera company appeared at the Opera House last night in "Madame Butterfly," and the various roles were sung with a degree of excellence rarely equalled by any similar production in this city. The leading roles were admirably sung and the English translation so novel was highly appreciated, although it must have been a hindrance to the singers trained in the tongue in which the opera is written. Miss Danietta Alvina scored a success in the difficult role of little Butterfly while Henry Taylor, as the Pinkerton proved a high class tenor. Miss De Sellum added much to the character of the music by her rich contralto voice. Her duet with Miss Alvina was one of the features of the performance. Mr. D'Angelo as a baritone gave a good interpretation of the character of Sharpless. The chorus work was in keeping with the solo parts, strong and efficient, while the orchestra met all the requirements of the occasion in a very acceptable manner. The audience was large and appreciative, the scenery abundant and appropriate. This particular company strengthened the reputation of the Aborn organization by its artistic work last evening. Those who attended, even the critics, apparently enjoyed the performance immensely.

CAUSED SLIGHT FIRE

An alarm from box 171 at 7.30 o'clock last night summoned a portion of the fire department to a slight blaze in a house on Middlesex street opposite the power house of the Bay State Street Railway Co., but the blaze was extinguished before any material damage had been done.

It is understood that a gas stove which had been recently installed had not been properly connected and when a woman in the house attempted to light the stove the gas which leaked from one of the pipes was ignited and a large flame of fire shot out. The woman became frightened and when she ran into the street crying "Fire" a bystander pulled in the alarm. The blaze was speedily extinguished upon the arrival of the firemen.

A LITTLE NONSENSE

GOOD NAME.

Katharine—Why does she call her little poodle "Samson?"

Mrs. B.—I'm trying hard to catch up with my diary before the end of the year. Haven't written anything in it for two months.

Mrs. W.—But can you remember what you did every day?

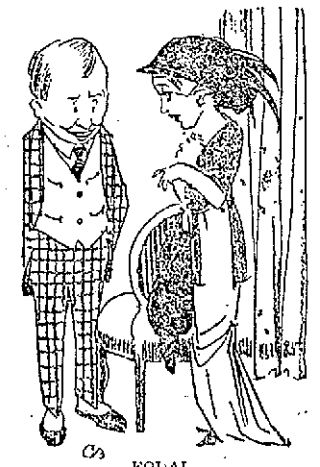

Mrs. B.—Of course. I played bridge.

"Stickler! Worse than that. Why, say, that woman would find fault because Eve didn't have a chaperon when she arrived in Eden!"

EQUAL.

Mr. Nagger—When a woman goes to see a drama she likes to cry about sorrows that don't concern her.

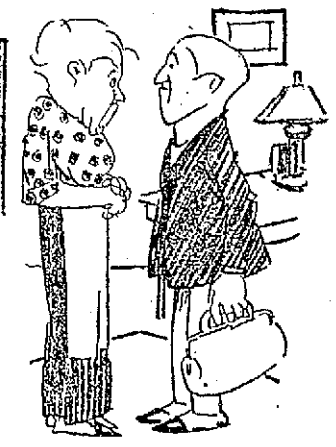

Mrs. Nagger—And a man likes to go to a ball game and get sore at the umpire, whose decisions do not affect him in the least.

HE WAS NEXT.

Mr. Hobson—Does your wife look after your clothes?

Mr. Dobson—Yes, especially the pockets.

STARTING IN RIGHT.

Mrs. Borden Lodge—So you've been boarding with Mrs. Hammond-Egg. She alway pretends that she doesn't keep boarders.

The directors of the Lowell Art Association held their first meeting of the season yesterday afternoon at the Whistler house. Treasurer Chase reported that the outstanding bills of the society, chiefly for coal, printing and advances by the directors, totalled at present about $125 more than the presently available resources will be. Perhaps a third of the current membership dues remain unpaid. It was suggested that the association, now that it has its property practically free from debt, should seek to extend its membership widely with the idea of increasing both its usefulness and its revenues. A new house committee is to be appointed forthwith which will assume full charge of the property and oversee its rental.

ANOTHER CHILD BORN

22d to Arrive in a Centralville Family

A son was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Dagenais of 86 Ennell street, West Centralville. The child was christened last night at St. Louis rectory by the pastor, Rev. J. N. Jacques, and was given the names of Joseph Eugene, the sponsors being Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Duquarme.

The parents of the newcomer certainly do not believe in race suicide, for although they have been married but 21 years, their 22d child was christened last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Dagenais were born at Cap Sainte, Que., Mr. Dagenais being 42 years of age, while his wife has not yet reached her 38th birthday. They were married in Lowell at St. Joseph's church on Aug. 30, 1891.

Mrs. Dagenais was formerly Miss Motard, and she comes from a large family, being one of 14 children, and two of her sisters, both living in Lowell, Mrs. Azarias Lavallee and Mrs. Alphonse Milot, have raised large families, the former being the mother of 14 children, while 11 children were born to the latter.

It is with pride that Mr. Dagenais mentions the fact that his father was the father of 22 children.

As above stated Mr. and Mrs. Dagenais were married 21 years ago and 22 children were born to them, two of them being twins. There were six girls and sixteen boys, and of this number but four are now living. They are Henri, Jeanne, Jules and the latest born, Joseph Eugene.

Mr. Dagenais is well known in this city, being employed in the packing department of the Lawrence Mfg. Co. He is also a prominent member of the Centralville Social club.

DEATHS

ELLIOTT—James G. Elliott, for many years a resident of this city, died quite suddenly, Thursday, at his home in Newark, New Jersey. His age was 57 years. From information received here by relatives, he had been ill but a short time, and it is presumed that the cause of death was an attack of heart failure. Mr. Elliott was born in Lunenburg, Vt., June 11, 1855. He came here as a young man in 1865 and served several terms as a member of the common council, and later as an overseer of the poor. For 19 years he was an overseer in the dress room of the Appleton Manufacturing company. Later he was with William H. Ward as a foreman. Some years ago he moved to Newark, N. J., and had lived there ever since. He was a member of Ancient York lodge A. F. and A. M., and he also belonged to the Odd Fellows. Frank G. Goodwin, retired lieutenant of the police department, was connected with Mr. Elliott by marriage.

She is survived by a husband, Lorenzo A., two daughters, Dorothy and Gladys and a son, Joseph; as well as her father and mother, two brothers, William Huntley of England and Joseph of this city, and a sister, Caroline in England.

Freight Rate Increase Suspended

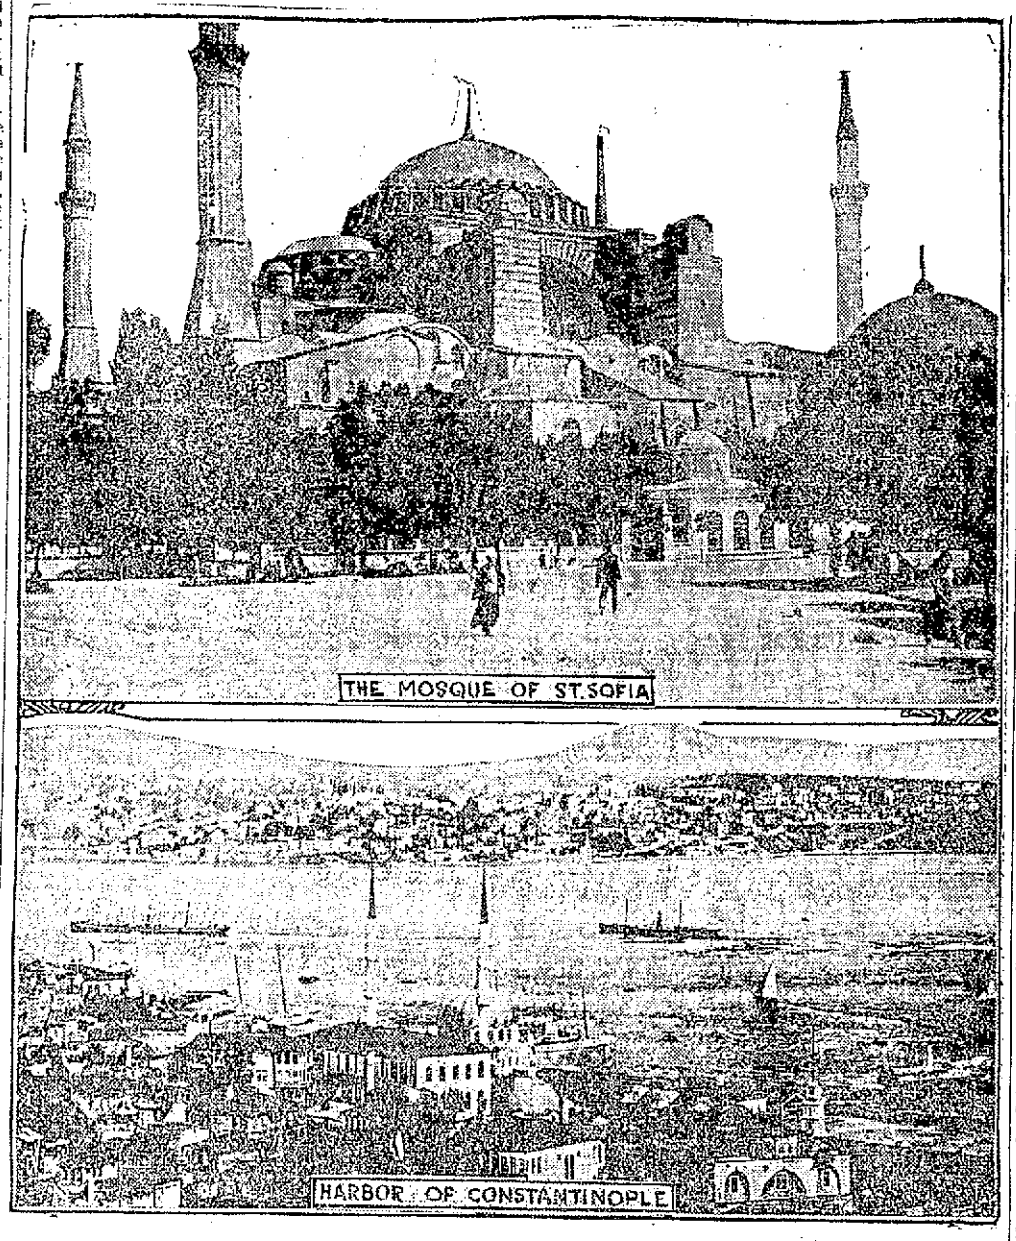

WASHINGTON, N. 9.—The interstate commerce commission today suspended the Bangor & Aroostook railroad's recent increase in freight rates on excelsior until March 12, 1913. The railroad wants to advance the proportionate rates on excelsior from Milo, Me., to Brownsville Junction, Me., from two to five cents per hundred pounds, and from Monson Junction to Greenville, Me., from three to five, except that it proposes to apply at 3½ cent rate to all these shipments to New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

fact that the allied Balkan states were working in complete harmony on all questions. He declared that they demanded the complete disappearance of the sovereignty of the sultan from European Turkey and the division of the territory among the victorious nations belonging to the Balkan league. The partition of Turkish territory, he said, had already been arranged along broad lines by the allies, the only questions left open for discussion being those relating to the destiny of Constantinople, Salonikl and the Dardanelles.

The fate of Constantinople and the Dardanelles, said the premier, would be left to the decision of the European powers. As for Saloniki, however, the Balkan allies had not yet reached an agreement as to who was to have it.

TURKISH GRAND VIZIER SAYS HE WILL MAINTAIN ORDER TO THE END

PARIS, Nov. 9.—The Turkish grand vizier, it is said, has informed the foreign ambassadors in Constantinople that he will maintain order there until the end. If, however, the Turkish capital should be entered by the invaders the grand vizier declared that he could not say what the exasperation of the populace might lead to. Results would be on the conscience of Europe, he said.

According to a despatch to the Matin, the grand vizier said:

"Do not think that either I or the sultan will ever abandon Constantinople. My sovereign will await death in his palace and I in my office."

The aged Moradunghian Pasha, the Turkish minister for foreign affairs, according to another special despatch from Constantinople, is directing affairs there with singular tenacity and devotion in spite of his 85 years. He appears to be infusing new life into the population of the Turkish capital. For 11 days he has not left his office. In the course of an interview today, he said:

"If it were I would post on every wall of the capital and print in big type in every Turkish newspaper the solemn declaration made three weeks ago by the European powers that they would not permit the seizure of Turkish territory. At the same time I would publish the text of the 27 treaties concluded during the last century by the nations of Europe, guaranteeing the integrity of the Ottoman empire."

Gen. Mahmoud Mukhtar Pasha was sent by Nazim Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief, to notify the grand vizier that the Turkish army would not accept either mediation or intervention. According to a despatch to the Journal from Constantinople, the commander-in-chief declared that if the government did not heed the wishes of the army the soldiers would come to Constantinople and cannonade the government offices and itself prevent the dismemberment of the empire.

The leaders of the committee of union and progress also informed the grand vizier that there would be a terrible revolution unless the Turkish army continued to fight until the last ditch.

The officers who were sent into retirement from the Turkish army in 1909 for political reasons are now being reinstated, according to a special despatch from Constantinople to the Echo Des Paris. They will do their utmost to lick into shape any fresh troops being drafted into Nazim Pasha's army, which is being reorganized behind the lines of Tchataija. Ghazi Ahmet Muktar Pasha, the veteran victor of Kars in the Russo-Turkish war of 1877 and a former grand vizier in a published interview explained the defeat of the Turkish army in the following way:

"The Young Turks have ruined our army. Formerly part of the officers came from the ranks and the remainder from the military schools. The Young Turks did not like that system. They began by pensioning or finding other situations for the men who had risen from the ranks and replacing them by youngsters from the military academy.

"Our battalions of infantry which are 800 strong had only seven officers each at the outbreak of the war, where as in the past they had always 16 or 17. What could you expect our brave soldiers to do without officers and without food, for we have no commissariat department. They could do only one thing. They fled."

An interview with a Bulgarian soldier who participated in the battle of Lule Burgas is published in the Matin. He says:

"What struck us most was the harmlessness of Turkish shooting. The bullets flew high over our heads as if the Turkish soldiers were not aiming, but shooting with their heads turned.

"On the other hand the effect of our fire was terrible."

KURD SOLDIERS ARE SAID TO BE KILLING CHRISTIANS IN CONSTANTINOPLE

PARIS, Nov. 9.—Serious disorders are reported to have broken out in Constantinople, where Kurd soldiers are said to be killing Christians in the Galata quarter, according to a special despatch from Bucharest, Rumania, published by the Paris Midi under reserve. Some buildings of the Turkish capital are said to have been set on fire. The banks and foreign embassies are guarded by detachments of Turkish troops who are still obedient to discipline.

THE BULGARIANS MAKING A FIERCE ATTACK ON TURKISH POSITIONS

VIENNA, Nov 9—The Bulgarians are now attacking with all their strength the remaining Turkish positions about Tchatalja and the fall of these vital Turkish defenses in front of Constantinople is only a matter of hours, according to today's despatch from the Reichpost's correspondent. The Bulgarian third army has penetrated far into the forest region south of Durkos lake, preparatory to the advance on Constantinople while the first army is engaged against the main Turkish position east of Tchatalja. This position is not yet completely pierced but the end of the Turkish resistance appears to be in sight.

The raw Turkish troops, large numbers of which were rushed out from Constantinople to meet the enemy's advance, are fighting strongly but the exhausted veterans of the earlier battles are offering little serious resistance.

BRITISH BATTLESHIPS SAILED TODAY FOR THE NEAR EAST

MALTA, Nov. 9.—The British battleships Hibernia, Brittania, Commonwealth and Dominion, as well as the British cruiser Black Prince left here today for the Near East. They sailed within two hours of the receipt of orders from the British admiralty.

PILLAGE BY THE TURKS RAISES THE FEAR OF A GREAT PANIC

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 9.—Stories of the distress among the Turkish troops, of the panic which seized upon various bodies of the men, and, what is worse, tales of pillage, rapine and massacre, continue to come in from various points.

It is reported that Nazim Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief, has decided to send home several thousand of his men who have shown the white feather on the field of battle, but logic would suggest that they deserved more serious punishment.

Reports of the excesses of the fleeing Turkish troops in the town of Silivri, a port on the Sea of Marmora southwest of Tchatalja line, apparently are authentic. Many of the inhabitants are said to have been massacred and the town almost completely burned. The population of Silivri was mostly Greek.

Warships Reassuring

Some of the sensational stories telegraphed abroad concerning the situation in Constantinople not only are exaggerated but mischievous, as they are likely not only to react locally, but cause anxiety among friends of members of the foreign colonies here.

The presence of warships of the foreign powers, which it is understood soon will number 12, is surest guarantee of the safety of property and lives of Europeans, but the Turks also deserve credit for the strong measures taken for keeping order within the capital.

The authorities are acting under a plan arranged by the foreign office and the foreign consulates also have devised arrangements to protect their subjects. Two British steamers are lying in the harbor, ready to embark British subjects and the people of other countries have similarly been provided for.

The lack of news from the theatre of operations confirms the view already telegraphed that the Bulgarians as well as the Turks are much exhausted from the fierce battles at Lule Burgas and Tohorlu.

Cholera Suspected

Pitiful scenes continue to be witnessed daily with the arrival of trainloads of wounded from the front. It is a significant fact that most of these men are slightly injured, which would indicate that the badly wounded would have small chance of being picked up.

Almost without exception the wounded are on the verge of collapse from exhaustion. Many have been without attention for days and a majority of them without food or water for 24 hours.

The hospitals are already overcrowded and symptoms resembling cholera have appeared. Those suspected of having the disease are isolated in a special shed.

If the dread cholera should come to Constantinople, where already there is much distress and suffering among the wounded and the refugees, the consequences are too horrible to contemplate.

It is impossible, even roughly, to estimate the number of refugees in the capital. There are fresh arrivals each day and every mosque in Stamboul and the suburbs is crowded. Families from various villages and districts are striving as much as possible to keep together.

All the refugees seem resigned to their fate and anxious to go to Asia Minor, where they say the government has promised to give them land. Their long strings of carts with the children and household effects in them gave the appearance of the exodus of the Turkish race from Europe.
